Ike Challenges Khrushchev

Eisenhower's Unbeaten Veto String Broken

Perfect Mark Comes To End On Works Bill

Third-Try Housing Measure Is Sent To White House

WASHINGTON (AP)— Congress snapped President Eisenhower's unbeaten veto string Thursday to give Democrats a resounding late-inning victory.

With heavy Democratic majorities in control, the House and Senate overrode Eisenhower's veto of a second pork barrel public works money bill—the first time they've been able to enact legislation over a veto in the more than 6½ years of his presidency.

At the same time, the House completed congressional passage of a third-round housing bill shaped to meet most of the objections that caused Eisenhower to reject two earlier bills in this field. Both those vetoes stood up. The President is virtually certain to sign this third-round bill.

These developments came as Congress moved ever closer to adjournment of a session that began eight months ago.

Congressional leaders aimed to wind up work next Monday if possible. But the threat of a possible all-out battle over civil rights hung over these plans.

Ike's Veto Score: 145-1

Even with Thursday's setback, Eisenhower had an impressive 145-1 veto score over Congress, which has been dominated by the opposition Democratic party for all but two of his years in the White House.

The House acted first on the public works bill by a 280-121 roll-call vote—12 votes more than the two-thirds majority required to override.

The result was greeted in the House by an exuberant burst of cheering from the Democrats and silence from the Republican side.

Less than two hours later, the Senate completed the overriding action by a 72-23 vote, or eight more than two-thirds.

Unlike the House, there was so applause or other demonstration in the staid Senate, although a patter of clapping was heard from packed spectator galleries.

Only last week, the House—by a single vote—upheld Eisenhower's veto of an earlier public works bill carrying funds for hundreds of navigation, flood rontrol, rerlamation and other projerts all over the nation.

Disputed Projects Retained

The bill passed over Eisenhower's veto totals $1,185,309,093 — about 30 million dollars less than the earlier version. But it retains 67 new projects Eisenhower opposed—the same 67 projects which moved him to reject the previous bill on grounds it would open the way to massive spending in future years.

By contrast with the dramatic action on the public works bill, the billion-dollar compromise housing measure was passed by the House on a perfunctory voice vote. The Senate had passed it 86-7 Wednesday.

The compromise, less expensive than the two earlier measures Eisenhower rejected, furnishes authority for a variety of government housing programs. A key section gives the Federal Housing Administration another eight billion dollars in authority to insure home mortgage loans.

One important piece of business yet to be disposed of by Congress is a bill to allow a higher interest rate on series E and H savings bonds.

Senate-House conferees met for an hour Thursday in an effort to compromise differences, but afterward House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) said it looks to him like an impasse, at least at this point.

Bob Kennedy Quits Probe Counsel Post

Racketeer Hunter Takes Parting Shot At Teamster Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy resigned as chief counsel of the Senate Rackets Committee Thursday with a parting shot at his long-time adversary, Teamster President James R. Hoffa.

In a letter to Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), Kennedy said the purpose for which the committee was created in 1957 has been "fruitfully realized" with the recent passage of the labor reform bill.

Therefore, he said, he was stepping down from the job which propelled him into the limelight as a relentless hunter of racketeers in the labor - management field.

Move No Surprise

The resignation came as no surprise. Kennedy had indicated for some time he would leave the committee when Congress adjourned this year.

The committee itself has completed its work except for filing reports and other administrative chores. McClellan announced Wednesday that no more public hearings were planned before the group officially disbands next January.

Kennedy told McClellan he believed the committee's exposures of corruption, along with passage of the reform bill, would bring about "marked improvement in the labor-management picture."

Labor Takes "Forceful Action"

"The labor movement itself," he said, "has taken forceful action where it has had the opportunity to rid itself of racketeers and crooks."

"It is regretful," he added, "that this action by organized labor has not been matched by either organized business groups or bar associations."

Kennedy took out hard after the Teamsters. Of all the unions whose activities came under the committee's scrutiny, he said, "only in the Teamsters Union did there seem to be a reluctance to clean up."

Constructive Ideas Would Be Welcomed

President Urges Americans Receive Mr. K With Courtesy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Thursday night called on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to bring constructive suggestions for settling East-West problems with him on his trip to the United States next week.

The President told a nationwide television-radio audience that serious exploratory efforts in his Washington talks with Khrushchev could lead to a Big Four summit conference.

Sincere preliminary efforts, Eisenhower said, "may reveal new opportunities for practical progress toward removal of some of the causes of world tensions."

If the Soviet leader comes to the United States with constructive ideas and suggestions, that could provide the basis for later responsible negotiation on the issues, Eisenhower said.

The chief executive said his talks with Khrushchev will not include any negotiation concerning subjects that relate directly to Allied or other free world interests.

The President sounded a new appeal—against the background of criticism in some quarters of his invitation to Khrushchev — that the American public receive the Kremlin chief courteously.

No Sellout Of Principle

The President said that if Khrushchev' visit brings him some real appreciation of the American spirit and principles, "then indeed the venture would be a thousandfold worthwhile."

From his standpoint, Eisenhower pledged that "no principle or fundamental interest will be placed upon an auction block" at the conferences.

As for the possibility of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks leading to an East-West summit meeting, the President asserted that any agreement regarding such a session "must be based upon the certainty that our status and rights be respected."

Eisenhower said further: "In addition, we believe there must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions."

As for his Washington talks with Khrushchev starting next Tuesday, the President said: "It is my profound hope that some real progress will be forthcoming, even though no one would be so bold as to predict such an outcome."

Calls For Constructive Ideas

Eisenhower called on Khrushchev to come up with constructive ideas and suggestions. He said such "could provide the basis for responsible negotiation on the issues that divide us," and that the United States would "welcome the opportunity to study them with our allies."

A good part of Eisenhower's 15-minute talk was a report to the American people on the 13-day visit to Europe he completed last Monday.

He conferred abroad with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, French President Charles de Gaulle and other Western leaders.

"With them," Eisenhower said, "we reaffirmed our unity on fundamental issues and in support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

As for the Khrushchev visit to the United States, which will include a trip across the country and back, Eisenhower set forth his reasons for extending the invitation—a bid which has touched off sharp criticism in some quarters.

The President gave these specific reasons for inviting the Soviet leader—and said he had also explained them to leaders of the Western Alliance in Europe:

"First, to give him the opportunity to see what America and Americans are like; to let him see and feel a great and thriving nation in real freedom.

"Second, to give him, face to face, the major convictions of our people on the major issues of the day, including West Berlin, and to hear from him directly his own views on those issues."

Senators Urge Ike Act To End Steel Stoppage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Republican senators urged President Eisenhower Thursday to set a one-week deadline for ending the steel strike and then set up a fact-finding group to recommend a settlement.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) advanced the joint suggestion amid a flurry of Senate statements voicing concern over the 58-day walkout which now has set a post-war record.

Javits and Aiken said that unless there is a settlement, or "at least very real progress," a fact-finding committee should be set up a week from Thursday to make recommendations and narrow the issues toward settlement.

They had suggested earlier that Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell make public material he gathered as a personal fact-finder for Eisenhower. That suggestion was followed by the administration.

Aiken and Javits said the reaction of steel labor and management to Eisenhower's latest call for realistic bargaining must become "far more responsive and fruitful" if a national emergency is to be avoided.

They said their plan would be preferable to the "unwise" step of invoking the Taft-Hartley Act. The 80-day cooling off period provided by the act, they said, offers no reason to hope that the strike would not be resumed afterward.

"We feel that positive action must be taken now to avert the national emergency which could so severely affect employment and production levels throughout the entire U.S. economy and also the use of the Taft-Hartley 80-day injunction," the senators' statement said.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that the walkout had idled about 145,000 workers in primary metals, railroading, construction and coal mining. Officials said the number could be expected to rise if the strike continues.

Pair Charged In Bombings

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — E. A. Lauderdale, 48, a lumber dealer and one of two men charged with setting off three Labor Day dynamite explosions, was freed Thursday on $50,000 bond.

Property bonds were posted with Municipal Court Clerk James L. Verhoeff by five friends and neighbors of Lauderdale, a citizens councilman.

Lauderdale, J. D. Sims, 33, a truck driver and Ku Klux Klan member and Jesse Raymond Perry, 25, a truck driver, were arrested Wednesday.

Sims and Lauderdale were charged under an 1895 law against using explosions to destroy public property. Perry is being held only as a suspect in the explosions.

Three blasts went off in rapid succession late Monday night, wrecking an office in the school board building, heavily damaging the private office of Mayor Werner C. Knoop in the headquarters of the construction firm of which he is president, and ripping apart a city-owned station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

Would-Be Bank Robbers Give Up In Disgust

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—A pair of would-be bank robbers held two families hostage all Wednesday night and failed in their ambitious plan for holding up a bank because they just couldn't seem to do anything right.

They started out by firing a shot accidentally as they took over the home of a bank official, then let three teen-age guests go home, and finally threw in the sponge when they found their getaway car, parked several blocks away, was missing.

The car had been towed in for safe keeping by police who found a bottle of gin in the seat and the key in the ignition.

The foray ended with one would-be robber driving off Thursday in his intended victim's car and the other asking his unwilling hosts to call the police.

The man who surrendered said he was Clifford William Le Gate, 41, Raytown, Mo., and that this was his first attempt at crime. He identified his fleeing companion as Al Jones, 22, alias Chuck Jones, a hitchhiker he had picked up nine days ago.

First, they entered the home of Rex Carter, vice president of the Bank of Carthage, and threatened him and his family. Three high school companions of Connie Carter, 15, were sent home with orders not to disclose what had happened. They complied.

While one of the men stood guard, the other took Carter to the home of Mills Anderson, president of the bank. Anderson and his wife were then brought at gunpoint to the Carter home.

Here all five of the hostages were herded into a bedroom.

"They threw blankets on the floor and told us to lie down, that we had all night to wait because they were going to rob the bank when the vaults opened at 8 o'clock this morning," Mrs. Carter reported.

Shortly after midnight the bandits found the car was gone, and one informed Carter their plans had been crossed up as a result.

Several hours later Le Gate came into the bedroom and told the hostages: "Well, it's all over. Chuck has taken your car and gone. I gave him his choice."

With that he handed over a shotgun and a pistol and told Carter to "take them and call the sheriff."

Nehru Says China Can't Shove India Around In Dispute

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday Red China can't push India around in their frontier dispute, but "I will always try to find a way to a peaceful settlement."

Against the backdrop of a bristling exchange of charges of aggression which the Soviet Union has urged the two to settle peacefully, the Indian leader offered one concession to the Peiping government of Premier Chou En-lai.

Nehru said he is prepared to agree to make Longju a no man's land—cleared of the forces of both sides—until its position is clarified by negotiation.

Longju is the isolated post which Chinese soldiers seized two weeks ago in a skirmish with Indian border guards. The Chinese have warned India against trying a counterattack.

"The matter is serious because I do not know how the Chinese mind is working," Nehru said. "We must try for all peaceful, cooperative methods of settlement while remaining careful and vigilant."

India's government laid before Parliament official notes that had been exchanged between New Delhi and Peiping over the past five years on the frontier quarrel, which springs from differences that started while Britain ruled India and conservatives ran China before World War I.

Each side accused the other of aggression and demanded that the other withdraw its forces from disputed areas.

At the heart of the trouble is a mapping problem.

Red China's maps show as Chinese thousands of square miles of Himalayan territory that India has administered for decades. The Chinese, for instance, claim nearly half of the area's 35,000 square miles.

Red China apparently is seeking to bully India, Nehru said. But he dismissed as silly any notion the Chinese can shove India about.

"It sometimes seems as if China is acting like some 19th century nation in their pride and arrogance, ignoring the rest of the world," Nehru said. "They value India's friendship only at a very low estate in the final analysis. We value theirs and will continue to value it."

Parliament members cheered when Nehru declared India will maintain a "nonaligned foreign policy" in East-West affairs, regardless of the Chinese attitude.

Russian Name Causes Mixup

MOSCOW (AP) — Requests for information about the people who will accompany Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States are causing complications here.

Soviet officials are wholly unaccustomed to publicity about relatively obscure personalities.

A case in point is the matter of identification of one man listed among those in the Premier's touring party. The name is Vinogradov.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry telephoned to correspondents a list identifying this man as Vladimir Vinogradov, and said he was accompanying Khrushchev as his physician.

The U.S. Embassy later told correspondents this looked like a mistake. Their information was that a V. M. Vinogradov scheduled to make the trip was not a doctor but an expert on trade with the West.

Reporters were informed the Foreign Ministry has no information on Dr. Vinogradov's background or his post.

There is, at the moment, no way of confirming here that the Vinogradov involved is the distinguished doctor arrested in 1952 in the "doctors' plot" in which Stalin insisted a group of doctors plotted to assassinate him. The plot was denounced officially after Stalin died. Dr. Vinogradov, now 77, was released from prison.

U.N. Unit Backs Big Four Plan For Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) —The U.N. Disarmament Commission Thursday voted a unanimous welcome to the Big Four plan to resume arms talks in a new 10-nation body in Geneva early next year.

The action came after a threat-end small-nation attack on the proposal was averted by intense diplomatic efforts behind the scenes. The vote brought to an unexpected close a meeting of the 82-nation disarmament commission. It had been expected to last two or perhaps three days.

The resolution which won the solid support of the commission was sponsored by seven nations. It welcomed the decision of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France to set up a new committee for the next round of arms talks, but declared the primary responsibility for disarmament rested with the U.N.

Original reports of the Big Four plan last month touched off widespread criticism. Many countries felt that the new committee lacked proper links with the U.N. and failed to provide adequate geographic representation.

Representatives of each of the four big powers sought to reassure the Disarmament Commission. They all stressed the ultimate responsibility of the U.N. for disarmament decisions.

10 Brass Bands, Ike Will Welcome Khrush To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ten brass bands and President Eisenhower will welcome Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States next Tuesday.

Soon thereafter, the No. 1 Russian will be whirling around the country making speeches and seeing the sights.

An official schedule was released Thursday covering the first eight days of Khrushchev's visit—to Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Des Moines.

A later itinerary will be issued for his visit to Pittsburgh, and a second stay in Washington.

The schedule made it plain that for the first part of his trip at least, Khrushchev doesn't intend to visit the big industrial plants and defense installations which might be presumed to give him an idea of America's power. He may yet do this, however, at Pittsburgh.

When Khrushchev's big jetliner sets down at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland next Tuesday morning, he and his party will be greeted by Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Mrs. Nixon.

As he drives through Washington to the President's guest house, the Soviet Premier may see some spectators wearing black arm bands in silent protest against his visit.

A group of objectors, formed into an organization called the Committee for Freedom of All Peoples, is working up such a display, its officials said.

Federal Reserve Board Ups Discount Rate To 4%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board Thursday authorized eight Federal Reserve banks to raise their interest rates on loans to commercial banks from 3½ per cent to a new 27-year high of 4 per cent.

The hike, which was designed to tighten up credit, had been expected since last week when the commercial banks raised their basic interest rates to 5 per cent.

The commercial banks' action was not made in anticipation of the reserve board's move. However, the increase to 4 per cent was not expected to lead to any further boost in the rate the commercial banks charge their borrowers.

The eight reserve banks affected by the board's order are those in New York, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas, San Francisco, and Kansas City. The new 4 per cent rate is effective Friday.

The other four federal reserve banks were expected to follow suit and make similar increases in their rates in the near future.

A board spokesman said the increase was authorized in the light of recent financial and economic developments. In recent weeks, bank loans have stood at or near record levels.

The last time the rate was as high as 4 per cent was in 1932. Prior to that, it was 6 per cent in 1929 and 7 per cent in 1920-21.

The board in recent years has used its interest rate on loans to commercial banks to restrict credit and discourage spending. It has felt that these moves tend to curb inflation by limiting price increases.

Prince Edward County, Va., Dodges School Integration

FARMVILLE, Va. (UPI)—Rural Prince Edward County, one of the original defendants in the Supreme Court's historic desegregation decree, Thursday opened a makeshift school system for all of its white students as a last resort against integration.

Almost simultaneously, three all white high schools in southwest Virginia were told to admit Negroes for the first time by next Jan. 25.

Federal District Judge Roby C. Thompson ruled at Roanoke that Floyd County must accept 14 Negroes in its two high schools and Galax was told to enroll a Negro girl in its only white high school.

Limited integration, dodged successfully in Prince Edward County for more than five years, proceeded quietly in Charlottesville, Arlington, Alexandria, Front Royal and Norfolk, Va.

Some 1,500 whites were assigned to classes in churches and civic buildings throughout Prince Edward which chose to close all 21 of its public schools rather than to bow to a final federal court order to desegregate this month.

The action, accomplished by shutting off county funds, left 1,700 Negro students without public schools. A Negro leader said he fears juvenile delinquency will increase among the children of his race.

The Rev. L. M. Griffin, a Baptist minister who serves as coordinator of the NAACP here, said a drive will be made for funds to send as many Negroes as possible to schools in other areas.

Griffin said the Negroes would make no attempt to run their own private system because they considered it a "compromise" in their long fight for integration in the tobacco-growing county, about 50 miles west of Richmond.

Prince Edward was one of the five original defendants in the 1954 Supreme Court ruling. It lost one legal battle after another until finally an appeals court ordered desegregation to begin this month.

10 Japanese Trapped In Quarry Collapse

SANAGE, Japan (UPI) —Rescue squads worked desperately Thursday to reach 10 Japanese workers entombed 120 feet below the surface in a clay quarry when the wall of a vertical shaft collapsed.

The wall, weakened by recent heavy rains, caved in early Thursday. The trapped men reported through a ventilation tube that all were alive. Then another cave-in cut off further communication.

More than 100 workers were engaged in the rescue operations.

Rapist Appeals

BALTIMORE (AP) — Clifford Hazel, 25, Thursday appealed the rape conviction under which he was sentenced to death.

Hazel was convicted of raping a Baltimore housewife last April. He appealed as a pauper and asked appointment of counsel.

Moldmakers, Glass Plants Still Deadlocked

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A federal mediator said Thursday he is not too optimistic about the chances of an agreement being reached soon in new contract negotiations for some 2,000 moldmakers employed in 80 glass plants across the country.

"The situation at this moment does not look too optimistic for a settlement," said Federal Mediation Commissioner William Rose.

Rose held joint talks with the American Flint Glass Workers Union and representatives of 26 glass container manufacturing firms involved in the negotiations. He said separate sessions with both sides were on Thursday night's agenda with joint talks slated to resume Friday.

Shortly before the old contract expired at midnight on Aug. 31, the industry and union agreed to extend the contract on a day-by-day basis and pledged 24 hours notice before any work stoppage. The negotiations resumed Wednesday following a recess.

"Nothing has changed the positions of the parties from that which they were in prior to the 11th hour recess on Aug. 31," Rose said.

He added that no 24-hour advance notice of work stoppage has been given.

Chief stumbling blocks to a settlement are wages and weekend working rules. The union already has rejected a company offer of an 8½-cent-an-hour wage hike. Moldmakers earned an average of $2.80 an hour under the old pact.

Governor Calls For Public Help In Safety Drive

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes Thursday night called for "constant vigilance and dogged determination" in promoting safety on Maryland highways, in homes and at work.

Tawes said this is a main objective of his administration "and to accomplish it I will need the cooperation of all the people."

The governor, speaking to the Safety-Health Conference, warned that state officials and the public must refuse to become callous or complacent over "the sheer repetitiousness" of accidents.

Tawes noted two major traffic safety laws have been passed since he took office—a point system for revoking driver's licenses and chemical tests for persons suspected of drunken driving.

The effective date of the point system has been delayed until 1961, for administration purposes. Tawes said police agencies are now preparing to administer chemical tests in drunk-driving cases.

"We think that both laws will assist us in reducing highway accidents, although it is too early to make an assessment of their true value," Tawes said.

He noted that other proposals are being studied by a special Legislative Council committee. They include driver education in high schools, annual inspection of vehicles and periodic renewal of driver's licenses.

"I have no advance knowledge of what this committee expects to recommend," the governor said, "but I can assure you that its proposals will be given the most careful consideration by me and the General Assembly when it convenes next February."

More House Seats For Larger Counties?

BALTIMORE (AP)—A plan to give Maryland's four largest counties more seats in the House of Delegates was reported Thursday night to have received tentative approval by a special study commission.

The commission, appointed by Gov. Tawes and headed by William C. Walsh, met in a downtown Baltimore hotel Thursday afternoon. Newsmen were excluded from the session.

An informed source later reported the group had approved a plan under which additional House seats would go to Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. Representation in the Senate would remain the same—one seat for each county and Baltimore City legislative district.

The commission is scheduled to report its recommendations to Tawes in time for the possible drafting of legislation for the 1960 General Assembly.

Steel Strike Puts Brake On Unemployment Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The 58-day-old steel strike put a brake on the decline in unemployment last month, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The number of Americans without jobs dipped by 318,000 to 3,426,000. This was considerably short of the normal seasonal decline which would have cut the jobless total by about 568,000.

The department blamed layoffs resulting from the prolonged steel walkout and from retooling for model changes in the auto industry for the sluggish drop.

Seymour Wolfbein, the department's job expert, said that if the steel strike drags on into October, forcing further layoffs, the unemployment total might continue at better than 3,000,000.

In that case, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell might have to eat his hat. He said last spring he would do so if the jobless total was not less than 3,000,000 next month.

Mitchell has said he may recommend that the Taft-Hartley Act be invoked to halt the steel strike if it continues into October and threatens the national security.

The department estimated that some 145,000 workers in primary metals, railroading, construction and coal mining have been laid off as a result of the steel dispute.

The strikers themselves are not counted as unemployed.

The auto shutdown for model changeovers, occurring unusually early this year, idled 80,000 workers.

The number of employed Americans also declined last month—from the all-time high of 67,594,000 set in July to 67,241,000. But this was a normal seasonal drop caused by farm workers and students making their usual end-of-summer exodus from the labor force.

Gov. Tawes Dedicates Springfield Canteen

SYKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—Gov. Tawes Thursday dedicated a new, privately financed canteen building at Springfield State Hospital. He called it a monument to "a will of the people to do for themselves and not just to stand by and wait for gratuities."

The canteen was built and is being operated by women of the mental hospital's volunteer auxiliary. Tawes was informed the $72,000 structure is the only one of its kind at a Maryland state hospital.

"You will forgive me, I am sure, if I seem extravagant of praise," said the governor, "but here, indeed, is a remarkable situation.

"It appears extraordinary especially to those of us who find ourselves engaged in the task of providing the public services the people demand and collecting from the people the money to pay for them."

A $32,000 bequest from George Glendenning, in appreciation of the care given his father at Springfield, and a memorial fund established by the family and friends of Mrs. Sylvia Hartman Miller, who was long active in the auxiliary, helped build the structure.

Khrushchev, Fast Man With Gratuitous Insult, Can't Take It In Return

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Nikita Khrushchev wants to get a close look at the American eagle. Perhaps he wants to know how long it will be before—by his reckoning—he can step on the eagle's tail.

The Soviet Premier made this ambition plain long after he began, about two years ago, to hint his way into an invitation to visit the United States. Communism's star traveling salesman wants an idea of just what the resistance might be to his line in a hemisphere which has been a mystery to him all his life.

At a reception last spring, Khrushchev lumbered from guest to guest, exploding verbal firecrackers with each step. The round, 220-pound Russian bore down on the American ambassador, Llewellyn Thompson. Jabbing a stubby finger into Thompson's chest, he gave him a pithy lecture.

"There are some ambassadors here," said the grinning 5-foot-5 Communist boss, "who would like to spit on communism. But don't let's see who can spit the farthest, like camels in a cage. Let's compete. We have to maintain minimum sanitary conditions. When we win this competition, we'll reeducate you. Look out, Mr. Thompson! We'll step on your tail!"

Eventually, insists Khrushchev, communism will overwhelm the Western way, revolution by revolution. Westerners, he says, may not believe this, "but just as nature did not give the pig the right to look up to heaven, so the imperialists are not fated to destroy the Socialist countries."

Khrushchev insists also he is not interested in exporting revolution. But he adds that "if there is a revolution, we will cheer it along and help it wherever possible."

Such pronouncements about his own ideas of peaceful coexistence Khrushchev often makes in the best of high humor. But many of these lectures concern what Khrushchev believes to be the inevitable death of the American system. Khrushchev has a low opinion of the system under which people are living in the nation which will be his next host.

To Khrushchev, American talk of individual freedom is nonsense. Publicly and frequently he has ridiculed Western democracy as a sham.

Khrushchev has had no experience with Americans on their home grounds, but he has had some with the British and has come off second best. That was in 1956, in the second year of the celebrated B-K tours of Khrushchev and his onetime shadow, former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, now consigned to oblivion as an intriguer against the Communist party.

On that trip, Khrushchev seemed bewildered, particularly by the ceremonious democracy of the House of Commons. He was

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Apparently Charles Vidor had some premonition of his coming death, because he told his lawyer if anything happened to him, he wanted Billy Wilder to take over "The Nijinsky Story," on which Charlie had worked so many years.

I talked to Billy about it and he said, "Naturally I would like to carry out the wishes of my good friend, but I don't want to go to work on the story until all the rights to it have been cleared."

Charlie, who went to court several times because Oscar Serlin, Broadway producer, claimed the rights to The Nijinsky Story, won every case. But there's still one more suit coming up this month. Billy says if he makes the movie it will be another "Red Shoes," and while Nijinsky's story is one of the most tragic in the history of the theatre, it could be made very beautiful with a great...

Ever since Inger Stevens made "The World, The Flesh and the Devil" her stock has been very high on the MGM lot. So today Pandro Berman set her the script of "Key Witness." Pandro verified that Inger has the script and he said, "We would certainly like to have her play the wife of the title character."

"Who will that be?" I asked Pandro.

He said he hoped Anthony Franciosa, but he couldn't say for sure because Tony hasn't yet signed any contract. It's getting increasingly difficult to cast important pictures these days.

Long time no see nor near from Terry Moore. That is, not since she suddenly married Stuart W. Cramer III, and gave us all a big surprise. Now she's back from her honeymoon, and ready to go to work. She'll play the femme lead in Al Zugsmith's "Platinum High School." This will give Terry a chance to sport some clothes, as the efficient but glamorous secretary to the commandant of an exclusive boys' military academy.

Terry plays opposite Mickey Rooney and the picture starts Oct. 5 on location at Catalina. Her most recent picture is "A Private's Affair" which she made at 20th Century-Fox.

The enthusiasm of Sol Siegel over "Ben Hur" is contagious. He says it's one of the best pictures he's ever seen and that he's not alone in his opinion. He took it to Denver and Dallas over the Labor Day week end and showed it at both places.

"It ran four hours counting intermission, and I don't see how we can cut any of it—it's that good," said Sol. It's exciting, beautiful, and has everything that goes to make up good showmanship in a motion picture."

This is good news to the industry. I've heard from other people that "Ben Hur" is a once-in-a-lifetime movie, and I am looking forward to seeing it.

Summer Reading Reviewed

"Summer Reading" was the topic at the September meeting of the Great Books Group of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. Amer Suter Jr., Frostburg. Members and guests spoke briefly on a variety of books which they read during vacation.

The material covered ran from philosophy to escape literature of the murder mystery school. It included "Poets in a Landscape" by Gilbert Highet, the lives of seven great Roman poets, reviewed by Mrs. A. J. Mirkin; "Jefferson," a biography of the third president, by Saul K. Padover, discussed by Miss Dorothy Stone White; "Child of Our Time," an account of the precarious hold to life of a child born during the Spanish Civil War, written by Michael Delcastillo and reported by Miss Edra Bogle.

Mrs. G. Morgan Smith spoke of "The Light Infantry Ball" by Hamilton Basso; "For 2c Plain" by Harry Golden, another best-seller along with this author's "Only in America," was highly recommended by Mrs. Milton Granet; Mrs. Suter reviewed "Therese" by Francois Mauriac; Mrs. John A. Cupler II discussed Allen Drury's "Advise and Consent" which is a fictionalized account of Washington politics; "The Seed" by Pierre Gascar was described by Mrs. W. Royce Hodges as "a beautifully written story of impoverished youth." "The Shape of Content" by the artist, Ben Shahn, was the choice of Mrs. W. Earle Cobey who also recommended "The Years with Ross" by James Thurber and "This Is New York" by E. B. White as delightful reading.

Mrs. Granville Shirley reviewed Vance Packard's "The Status Seekers" which is a picture of contemporary American attitudes. "Green Grows Ivy," Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest's autobiographical account, was described by Mrs. J. Russell Cook as "delightful, chatty reading"; Mrs. George Hazelwood referred to several novels by Nevil Shute as good escape literature. Miss Kathleen Wolfe reviewed "The Sign of Jonas," the journal of Thomas Merton, who is known as Father Louis in the Cistercian Order at Gethsemane School in Louisville.

Mrs. Paul Castelle and Mrs. George Griffith reported on books whose authors are personally known to them. Mrs. Castelle chose "The Watch That Ends the Night" by Hugh MacLennon and Mrs. Griffith, "You Are Greater Than You Know" by Lou Austin. Mrs. Ralph Webster described the experience of seeing Charles Laughton in "Midsummer's Night Dream" at the Stratford Theatre while in England this summer, and of hearing "Les Indes Galantes" at the Paris Opera, "La Boheme" at La Scala, and "Aida" at the Caracalla Opera in Rome. Mrs. Webster, who is group chairman, announced that the next meeting will be held October 13 at the home of Mrs. Cook, Buckingham Road. The topic for discussion will be "Life on the Mississippi" by Mark Twain with Mrs. William A. Frailey, Mrs. William P. Durland, and Mrs. Milton Beneman as leaders.

Mrs. Suter was assisted by Miss White. Miss Wolfe, Miss Bogle, who is librarian at the Laboratory School at Frostburg State Teachers' College, and Mrs. Max Selinger were guests.

Auxiliary 1125 Receives New Flag For Floor Work

Activities were discussed and an American flag was received at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary 1125, World War I, held Wednesday evening at the VFW home. Mrs. Chloe Reynolds presided and announced she has received the flag from Congressman John R. Foley, to be used in the auxiliary floor work. A citation accompanied it stating that the flag was flown over the United States Capitol, for the auxiliary.

Official orders from the national organization pertaining to the convention in Louisville, Ky., September 20, 21, 22 were read. Mrs. Rosalie Everstine and Mrs. Reynolds will represent the local group. Mrs. Nellie Hensel repotred she has sent several letters to the national legislative chairmna, Merle Hopper, pertaining to the pension bill, 7650.

Three new members were received. They are Mrs. Lucy Jacobs, Mrs. Fannie Lewis and Mrs. Rose B. Robertson. The auxiliary voted on three applicants to be presented at the meeting, October 14. It was decided to hold a pie social at that time. Mrs. Josephine Shanski was named chairman. Her committee consists of Mrs. Diana Fuller, Mrs. Catherine Wilson and Mrs. Clara Mantheiy.

A donation of $5 was voted to help pay for entertainment at the hospital party planned for Newton Baker VA Center, September 13. Mrs. Pearl Darling, chairman, asked that gifts of toilet articles and cookies for the patients be left at the home of Mrs. Ryenolds, 101 Park Street, tomorrow. Mrs. Everstine reported on the Department of Maryland Council meeting she and Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Myrtle Brode and Mrs. Margaret Baker attended. Mrs. Cathernie Wilson announced a rummage sale will be held October 6 at the VFW home, and asked for contributions. She also reported on sick cards sent to members in hospitals and at home.

Concluding the evening a social hour was held and refreshments were served by Mrs. Kate Kerns, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Shanski, Mrs. Sadie Smith, and Mrs. Wilson, twenty-two members attended.

Centre Street Married Couples Club will meet tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alstetter Martin's Mountain, for a corn roast. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Blose are cochairmen.

A general meeting of the Navy Mothers Club will be held tonight at the Legion Home.

Fairgo Trot To Be Held Tonight

Ten of 15 late reservations for the "Fairgo Trot" dance being sponsored by the Cumberland Soroptimist Club tonight, will be taken before late afternoon today, Mrs. Fay Stillwagon, president, announces. They may be made by calling the Shrine Club, PA 2-7020; Mrs. Maxine Doak, reservations chairman, PA 2-7930 or Mrs. Stillwagon, PA 2-2766.

The seventh annual semi-formal benefit dance will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club, with music from 9 until 1 by Happy Laughner Orchestra, Johnstown. Three hundred reservations already have been received.

Jockey hats and bugles will be distributed as favors. Table centerpieces of artificial flowers, centered with real horseshoes, will have pennants bearing the name of the table reservation. Pennants, horseshoes and silhouettes of racing horses are being used in the decorations of the club.

To Hold Candy Sale

The Women's Guild of Holy Cross Episcopal Church will hold a candy sale throughout the winter as a money-making project.

Mrs. John Gerdeman presided at a meeting when plans were made for a cafeteria dinner September 30 in the parish hall. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Harry Goss and Mrs. H. D. Edmiston. Hostesses were Mrs. Leonard Cramblett and Miss Eulah McMakin.

Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Hinkle will be honored by Davis Memorial Methodist Church members at a fellowship covered dish supper at 6 tonight in the recreation hall, sponsored by the WSCS.

Allegany Homemakers Chorus is to have rehearsal Monday at 7:30 at the YMCA. Members are to bring music for "Think On Me," and "My God and I."

Trainee Completes Course Here

Miss Brunhilde Seidel, extension summer trainee, completed her course here yesterday and will meet with the two other state trainees for an evaluation session today at the University of Maryland.

Discussing the program, Miss Seidel, who came here June 27, said she enjoyed seeing the extension program in another county, as well as meeting the people of Allegany County. The training with the home demonstration agent is open to students between their junior and senior years, who are interested in entering extension work.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seidel, St. Leonard, Calvert County, Miss Seidel and her family came to the United States September 15, 1949 from Czechoslovakia. A graduate of Calvert County High School, she was a 4-H member and later a local leader, before going to the university, where she is a food and nutrition major. She is a member of the Collegiate 4-H Club, is an officer in her dormitory and president-elect of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary society.

Clan Elects

Projects Discussed

The Junior Woman's Civic Club discussed a style show in November and decided to sell tickets for an antique show, at the opening meeting at the Cumberland Country Club. The latter show will be December 3, 4, 5, sponsored by Mrs. Fay Stillwagon.

Mrs. Ralph Sell Jr., assumed her duties as president, following the resignation of Mrs. Marion Hull, who is leaving town. Mrs. William Douglas, former state president, offered the invocation. Mrs. Edward Dove, president of the senior club, spoke briefly. Mrs. K. O. Nelson, member of the club, gave highlights of her part as Mrs. Maryland in the Mrs. America contest.

First Presbyterian Church School will reconvene at 9:45 September 13 at the church.

Civic Club To Meet Sept. 17

Mrs. William A. Douglas and Mrs. Ernest Lindsay will represent the Woman's Civic Club at the meeting of the board of Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, September 15 at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

John J. Eisenhart, vice chairman of the Free State Forum and student of the strategy and tactics of Communism, will be the speaker, at the luncheon. His topic is "Communism in Education." Mrs. James W. Douthat, Silver Spring, will open the meeting at 10 a.m. Department and committee chairmen will outline their plans; and Maryland Clubwomen project plans presented. Mrs. David Taylor, Westminster, will present a musical program.

The opening luncheon of the local club will be September 17 at 12:30 at the Cumberland Country Club. Mrs. Edward Dove will extend greetings; chairmen will report plans for the year and Mrs. John Zornig will give a musical program. Mrs. Douthat, Mrs. Ezra Arbaugh, First District president; Mrs. Paul Stair, president of LaVale Century Club and Mrs. Ralph Sell Jr., president of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, are invited as guests.

ENJOYING SUNSHINE — Miss Rose Marie Lindner, Morningside Drive, right, accompanied by Miss JoAnn Sturtz, LaVale, made a survey of hotels in Miami and Nassau. Associated with the Conlon Travel Agency, they spent a week in the Sansouci Hotel, Miami Beach, and two days at the Fort Montagu Hotel, Nassau. Miss Lindner returned September 8. Miss Sturtz, who is employed by Dr. Wyand F. Doerner, also spent a week with her aunt, Sister Mary Angelina, mother superior of the Blessed Trinity Convent, Miami. Sister Angelina is the former Miss Mary Catino, of here.

BPW To Have Theatre Party, Dinner Tomorrow

The Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a theatre party and dinner tomorrow.

Plans are to attend the matinee performance of "Bells Are Ringing," at Jennerstown Mountain Playhouse. Dinner is to follow at the White Star Restaurant. Miss Dorothy Manley is chairman of the outing. Mrs. Kathleen Burke is handling reservations.

Mrs. James Shank and son Michael returned to the home of Mrs. Shank's mother, Mrs. Eva Brown, Ridgeley, from Memorial Hospital.

Committees Appointed For WA 52

Committees were named by Mrs. Norma Sterne and the Tri-State conference discussed at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary 52 to Cumberland Typographical Union 244, which met at her home, 1019 Myrtle Street. B. E. DeBolt, conference chairman, discussed plans for the auxiliary's part in the Tri-State conference, to be held here October 17-18.

Committees include Mrs. Dorothy Shaner, entertainment chairman, with Mrs. George Cline and Mrs. Olive Aldridge serving with her. Mrs. Buelah DeBolt was named chaplain; Mrs. Lydia Graham, guide, and Mrs. Jane Garlitz, sunshine chairman.

Cards concluded the meeting, and refreshments were served. Mrs. Catherine Stickley won the special prize. Others attending were Mrs. Mae Biller, Mrs. DeBolt, Mrs. Aldridge, Mrs. Shaner, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Garlitz.

Club Has Reports

The Polish Mountain Homemakers Club received reports at the meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edna Crock. Mrs. Broze Lough presided. Following the Lord's Prayer, the thought of the month was given. Mrs. Franklin Roland gave the history and words of the hymn, "Jerusalem the Golden." Routine reports were given. Roll call was answered with ways to stretch the food dollar. Mrs. Lough, food and nutrition chairman, distributed information on foods that are "Protein-sharp."

A sunshine card was sent to Mrs. Lena Twigg, a patient in Memorial Hospital. The meeting closed with the group singing, "Today Is Monday." Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Three guests, Mrs. Richard Yonker, Mrs. Kenneth Lough and Betty Yonker attended. Other members present were Mrs. George McKenzie and Mrs. Horace Fisher.

Elks Having Dances

The Elks Club will entertain the convention committee at an informal dance tonight with Fred Lock and his Dudes playing, beginning at 9:30. An entertainment program is to be presented. Clifton Hafer and Paul Stakem are in charge of refreshments.

A Pre-Race Week dance is to be held Saturday. Tommy Smithem's orchestra will play. It is for Elks and their friends.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: You hear a lot about husbands who snore. Well, I've got a wife who snores and I don't know what to do about it.

She's the dainty type and to look at her you'd never suspect it but her snoring sounds like a 200-pound man. I hate to tell her she snores because she's sensitive (and vain) and this would be a blow to her ego.

I haven't had a good night's sleep in the four months we've been married. Don't suggest ear plugs, please. I've tried them all and was up all night worrying that I might not hear an emergency phone call.

If you can help me solve this one you're a geninus.

BEAT NICK.

DEAR BEATNICK: Snoring is an involunary act over which we have no control. A person should not be ashamed of snoring any more than he should be proud that he does not.

Stop sacrificing yourself on the altar of her vanity and tell the dainty one that her nocturnal wood-sawing is preventing you from getting badly needed rest. Suggest that she see a doctor. Sometimes an obstruction in the nasal passage is the cause for snoring and can be easily remedied.

For tonight I suggest you move her head tenderly to the side when the snoring begins. A change in the position of the head often helps—for a while.

DEAR ANN: I have a very nice steady boy friend but I'm afraid if things don't change at our house I'll lose him.

I was 16 in May and am allowed two evenings a week with Monty. He doesn't have any spare money so he can't take me anyplace. I don't mind staying home, but an elderly aunt lives with us and won't let us alone for five minutes.

Auntie plants herself in the living room and listens to every word we say. I've complained to Mom but she says Aunties has so little happiness in life that it would be cruel to deprive her of this small pleasure.

My Mom is a tender-hearted person who wouldn't hurt a fly. She's usually right about everything. Is she right about this?

ALVA.

DEAR ALVA: It's admirable that your mother is so considerate of your elderly aunt, but she's being unfair to you.

You should not have to entertain your boy friend in the presence of a third party. No boy in his right mind will put up with this for very long.

It's your mother's responsibility to suggest that auntie give you privacy when your boy friend calls. And here's a P. S. to Mom: Teen-agers who can't entertain comfortably at home arrange to meet friends elsewhere. And this can be bad.

DEAR ANN: For 20 years my husband and I worked hard together in a business. I raised four children and believe me it wasn't easy.

For 15 years my husband and I never went to a movie together. One of us always had to be on the job. We were slaves to the place.

Three years ago, we invested all our savings in a venture which I was against. We lost it. Now we've saved a little money again and he wants to invest it in the same thing. I say no. He's so angry he hardly speaks to me. Shall I give in to keep peace—and take a chance on losing everything? We're too old to start over.

TOO TIRED TO FIGHT

DEAR TIRED: The only good thing about mistakes is what we can learn from them. Tell your husband to tack this motto in his hat band and keep your savings for the evening of your lives.

Young Man, Girl, 16, Md. Traffic Victims

By The Associated Press

A Baltimore man was killed Thursday when the car in which he was riding went out of control. Donald Jackson, 22, was dead on arrival at City Hospitals.

In Havre de Grace, a teen-age girl died in Harford Memorial Hospital of injuries received in an accident Sunday. Betty Jane Morrison, 16, of Bel Air, was struck by a car three miles east of Bel Air on Maryland 22.

Khrushchev, Fast

out-finessed by cool, suave British politicians who enraged him so much he accused them of "khamstvo" — or piggishness. And he found little solace among the British people.

"Never shake your fist at a Russian," Khrushchev told members of a crowd which had made jeering gestures.

And to the British political leaders, he thundered: "You may call me a pot, but don't put me on the stove."

25 Persons Indicted In Home Improvement Fraud Cases

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore grand jury Thursday handed down 62 indictments charging 25 persons with law violations involving home improvement deals.

The indictments charged 176 law violations including conspiracy to defraud, forgery or alteration of mortgages and contracts, perjury and violation of corporate laws.

The cases involved officials, salesmen and others connected with Reynolds Engineering and Supply, Inc., and certain associated or predecessor concerns.

Face value of mortgages and contracts involved in the charges amounted to about $93,000. But State's Attorney Saul A. Harris said the cases represent only a small part of the total complaint made to his office during a probe which lasted 18 months.

Harris said the investigation of complaints of home improvement frauds is continuing.

Company officers indicted included William Pearlman of Baltimore, president of Reynolds Engineering and Supply, charged with conspiracy to defraud and 41 forgeries or alterations of contracts and Albert Pearlman, a Washington pharmacist identified as vice-president of the company, charged with three violations of corporate laws.

The conspiracy counts claim that 21 of the defendants conspired "to cheat, wrong, defraud and impoverish" their stockholders, their customers, financial institutions and other members of the public.

White Egg Plant? State Fair Has One

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Whoever heard of a white egg plant? Well, Mrs. Rita Galeone of Baltimore, for one.

Mrs. Galeone asked for permission to exhibit a white egg plant at the Maryland State Fair.

Farm and Garden Superintendent Joseph K. Wolfinger admitted he was caught short. Wolfinger—with the fair for 10 years—never before had heard of a white egg plant.

Never in its 78-year history, he told Mrs. Galeone, has the fair had a division for white egg plants. The purple variety, sure, but not white ones.

Mrs. Galeone sent along her albino and it will remain on display until the fair closes Saturday. And next year, said Wolfinger, some provision will be made for the white varieties.

This was Governor's Day at the fair but Gov. Tawes said he had to cut his visit short because of other engagements. He arrived about 11 a.m. and stayed for lunch.

The feature race at Timonium's half-mile track was the Governor's Day purse.

Judging was completed in Ayrshire and Shorthorn dairy cattle and angus beef cattle were paraded before the judges for the first time. The Angus included several owned by George E. Allen of Gettysburg, Pa., bridge and golf playing partner of President Eisenhower.

Friday will be Municipality Day at the fair, with Baltimore Mayor J. Harold Grady a guest of honor.

Hot Weather Speeds Maturity Of Fall Apples

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Most Maryland and Delaware farmers benefited from last week's rainfall, but those in northern areas got too much.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service said Thursday that rain over most of the two-state area was beneficial to pastures, orchards, fall vegetables, soybeans, late corn and hay.

But torrential rains in northern areas caused serious flooding of fields and brought field work to an abrupt stop.

Some fall seedings of alfalfa and cover crops have been washed out in these northern localities, and corn is down in a number of fields.

Elsewhere, about 80 per cent of the tobacco crop was in the barns at week's end, but the hot, humid weather was causing serious curing problems.

In the Hancock fruit area, harvest of fall apples was expected to get underway this week.

Some parts of Western Maryland, from Washington County west, are still dry, but the important fruit area around Hancock now has adequate soil moisture. Newly seeded alfalfa in parts of Washington County needs rain badly, the report said.

The hot weather has speeded up maturity of fall apples, and picking of Jonathans was expected to start around Hancock this week with other areas starting soon afterward. Grimes were starting to move last week in the Hagerstown section. Hancock was expected to start with Grimes this week and Allegany County about Sept. 15.

History Repeats

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A newspaper article reporting a meeting between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and French Brig. Gen. Charles de Gaulle was found this week in an old German helmet that had lain in a roadside ditch for 15 years. It was clipped from the Nazi party official paper dated June 21, 1944.

Stock Market Declines For Third Straight Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks declined for the third straight session but the loss and volume of trading ran behind the previous two sessions.

Traders kept to the sidelines and the small demand found prices slipping steadily. This reluctance on the part of the traders reflected nervousness on their part of a possible rise in the Federal Reserve discount rate after the close.

Their anticipation was correct as the Federal Reserve Board authorized seven Federal Reserve banks to boost from 3½ to 4 per cent their interest charges on loans to commercial banks. The new rate is a 27-year high. Although many believe this move has already been discounted by the market, the list is expected to be under further pressure Friday.

Uncertainty over the steel strike the Khrushchev visit and thight money helped restrict volume.

Thursday's value loss in dollars amounted to $1,650,000,000, bringing the decline since the market made its high on Aug. 3 to close to 20 billion dollars.

Most sections took part in the decline with chemicals the leader. DuPont fell 4½ and Allied Chemical 3¾. Motors came next with Ford down 1⅞ and Chrysler and American Motors 1¼.

Rails were easier, paced by Atlantic Coast line, off 1, and Kansas City Southern down a large fraction. Utilities also slipped slightly.

Railway Mails Stock Data

Western Maryland Railway has mailed to its stockholders a proxy statement covering the special meeting to be held October 5 to consider an increase in the authorized shares of all classes from 921,439 to 2,303,598 shares. If the increase is approved, all classes of stock will be split on a 2½-for-1 basis.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is described as the owner of 167,127 shares or 97.79 per cent of Western Maryland's 5 per cent first preferred stock; 8,000 shares or 13.50 per cent of its 4 per cent second preferred, and 214,747 shares or 31.78 per cent of its common stock. The total B&O ownership is therefore 389,874 shares or 42.73 per cent of Western Maryland's stock.

While the split-up of Western Maryland shares will not change B&O's percentage of ownership, the latter road would benefit from an increase in the common dividend rate if directors decide to boost the payment on the new stock.

Miss America Title Competition Begins

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Contestants in the 32nd Miss America pageant began their first round of competition Wednesday night.

The 54 beauties from every state, Chicago, New York, Washington, D.C., and Canada, faced three nights of preliminaries leading to the crowning of Miss America of 1960 Saturday night.

To the winner will go up to $100,000 in cash and prizes during a year-long beauty reign.

Mullenax Leases Another Airport

Warren R. Mullenax, who has operated the local airport for about 10 years, will take over the Bufflick Road Airport at Winchester, Va.

The lease between the Mayor and City Council of Winchester with Donald Patton has been terminated at the request of Patton. The council has entered into a five-year lease with Mullenax with option for an additional five years.

Patton sold all his equipment, including two trainer planes to Mullenax. Mullenax said he will emphasize the shop, student instruction and charter plane service in his operation of the airport.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Oats lagged, but other grains were mostly higher Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to up ⅜; corn off ⅛ to up ⅜; oats off ½; new oats off ¼ to up ⅛; rye unchanged to up 1⅛, and soybeans up ⅝ to 1⅛.

Trade in all grains was slow, as most traders preferred to await a government crop estimate to be released later Thursday.

In wheat, small short covering transactions and scattered buying firmed prices. Local buying was an early factor. Country offerings were small, and the cash market was firm.

Corn was also firm. An elevator and exporters were early buyers. Commission houses sold December. Spot corn was firm. It was reported that India has received authorization to buy 1,100,000 bushels of corn. Export subsidies were granted on [illegible] bushels of corn and 386,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were easier in the nearby and steady in the deferred contracts. Commission houses were sellers. Northwest houses bought September and sold December. Cash houses were on both sides of the market.

September rye gained more than a cent. Other futures were firm.

Soybeans were strong. Early buying and short covering found light offerings. An eastern house sold January. Meals higher.

Export circles reported that France and Japan bought cargoes of soybeans.

Outside markets were mostly higher. The range:

Opening lead: Five of ♥.

Several pairs reached six spades in today's hand taken from a recent tournament, but only one declarer was successful. Satisfied that the contract was a good one, he gave himself several chances in order to improve his prospects.

The bidding requires some comment. North and South were using the two club convention which requests the opening no trumper to show a biddable four card major suit if he has one. South dutifully responded with two spades. North sensed slam possibilities and in a further exploratory effort he bid three diamonds, a one round force. South raised to four diamonds and North now confirmed the spade fit and made his slam try by jumping beyond game ot five spades. With three aces and a near maximum no trump bid, South was delighted to accept his partner's invitation.

After the heart opening, handling the trump suit is a distinct problem. Normally the play for the finesse would be preferred. But there are other considerations which render the play of the ace and king superior. The hand can be won without capturing the queen of spades if diamonds break favorably.

When the queen of trumps fails to drop, declarer plays three rounds of diamonds. When all hands follow the battle is over. North discards a heart on the fourth diamond and the remainder of the hand is played at a cross-ruff.

Declarer had given himself three chances. First of all the queen of trumps might drop. When this fails to materialize he may find the diamonds are divided, 3-3. But even if diamonds break, 4-2, the hand can still be made provided that the hand with the four diamonds holds the remaining trump.

Fire Destroys Wiley Ford Home

A frame, one-room house was destroyed by fire Wednesday night at Wiley Ford.

Brownie Strawderman, chief of the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Department, said cause of the blaze has not been determined nor has there been an estimate of loss.

The house was unoccupied and is owned by Mrs. Maggie Lee, 160 St. Cloud Street, Keyser.

Experts estimate that two billion people in the world are hungry every day, all day. The undernourished are figured at more than 75 per cent of the human race.

Former Frostburg Man Posts Bond In Dynamiting Of Home In Delaware

A former Frostburg man has been arrested for the second time in connection with two explosions that wrecked the only Negro home in suburban Collins Park, near New Castle, Del.

After an investigation that ranged from Connecticut to Florida and as far west as Ohio, police Tuesday took into custody Gilbert Minnick, 49. Police identified him as a native of Frostburg who also lives in Collins Park.

Minnick was given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Frank J. Carello Jr., in New Castle Wednesday on charges of malicious mischief and third degree burglary in connection with a second bombing at the George Rayfield home on August 2. Carello will give a decision within five days.

Minnick was free yesterday on $10,000 bond he posted Tuesday when he was picked up by Delaware State Police, according to Capt. John F. Herbert, public information officer of the Delaware State Police.

This was the first arrest growing out of the second explosion that wrecked the $13,500 home of Mr. and Mrs. Rayfield and their teen-age daughter.

The former Frostburger is one of the seven men awaiting grand jury action as a result of their arrests August 7 on charges stemming from the first explosion April 7 in which the Rayfield home was badly damaged.

Delaware Attorney General January D. Bove said yesterday he will press for the convictions of the seven white men.

He said he will call a special session of the New Castle grand jury September 22 to consider indictments against some or all of those accused.

Capt. Herbert said troopers testified Wednesday that the Rayfields had locked the doors of their home before leaving on the night of August 2.

The first call on the explosion came from Rayfield's next door neighbor.

The investigation by Delaware State Police, Capt. Herbert said, was highlighted by the discovery of two pieces of fuse used to detonate dynamite.

Minnick was requested to come to the attorney general's office, the captain said, and he came willingly.

After questioning, he gave the officials a statement which led them to press the charges against Minnick. There is no specific law against bombing in Delaware.

Minnick's wife, Mildred, also a former Frostburg native, is chairman of a Collins Park committee raising funds for the defense of the men.

The former Frostburg man is a building contractor in the New Castle area, Capt. Herbert said.

MISS SHIRLEY MOORE

MRS. HAYDEN DAWSON

Teacher, Student At VHS Win Prizes In Contest

LONACONING—Valley High School started the new year with welcome news that the Junior High Home Economics Department has been awarded prizes in the "What's New, My Best Buy, and Why Equipment Selection" contest.

Miss Shirley Moore, who is a tenth grade student this year, submitted her entry last spring in the "My Best Buy . . . And Why" under the guidance of her Home Economics teacher, Mrs. Hayden Dawson, in ninth grade class.

Miss Moore received a check for $25 and a congratulatory letter. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Moore of Barton.

Mrs. Dawson received a communication, "We are pleased to enclose a check for $25 as a prize award to a counselling teacher in What's New, My Best Buy . . . And Why Equipment Selection contest.

"It is obvious to the judges that the prize winners had wise guidance in doing the required research and filling in the entry blanks. We are sure, therefore, you will agree that the cash prize won by your student is second to her real achievement, that of learning how to make wise choices in the years ahead," stated Amber C. Ludwig, equipment editor, of "What's New in Home Economics" magazine, which will list Valley High School of Lonaconing, as a prize award winner in their current issue.

OES Resumes Fall Sessions

Clinic Scheduled

MIDLAND—A well baby clinic will be held at the Medical Center on Railroad Street at 9:30 a.m. today. Dr. Frank T. Harrat of Frostburg will be in charge. The nurses on duty will be Mrs. Betty Johnson and Mrs. Thelma Inskeep . The nurses' aides will be Mrs. Pearl Blair, Mrs. Gertrude Smith and Mrs. Margaret Blair.

FSTC Reports New Staff Appointments

FROSTBURG — R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has announced the appointment of three new members to the faculty and administration staff.

Miss Janet Adelaide Thomas, a native of Morgantown, W. Va., will be a member of the physical education department; John Kneisly, a native of Dayton, Ohio, will teach in the English department, and Miss Edra Charlotte Bagle will be an assistant librarian. She is a native of Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Thomas received her secondary school education in Morgantown schools. She received her BS degree in 1957, and her MS degree in 1959, both from West Virginia University. Her teaching experience has included posts at Mary Washington College and West Virginia University. She is a member of the American Association of Health and Physical Education and will replace Miss Majorie Berkely in the physical education department.

Kneisly received his secondary schooling at Randolph High School, Englewood, Ohio. He received his AB degree, majoring in biology, in 1933 from Manchester College, and his MA degree, majoring in Education, in 1939 from Ohio State University. His teaching experiences include elementary principalship in Montgomery County schools, Dayton (Ohio) Public schools, Ohio State University 1958-59, and elementary principal in William T. Sampson School, Cuba.

He holds life membership in NEA, and is a member of the Elementary Principals Association and the Elementary English Teachers Association. He replaces Miss Carrie French in the English department. He is married, has two children and will reside on Ormond Street.

Miss Bagle will be the assistant librarian replacing Mrs. Martha Cook, resigned. She attended public schools in Sibley, Iowa, and received her AB degree in library science in 1956 from Iowa State Teachers College, her MS degree in 1957 from the School of Library Service, Columbia University. She has served as student assistant, Department of Library Service, Iowa State Teachers College and comes to Frostburg from Oregon College of Education, where she was assistant librarian.

She is a member of the American Library Association, Oregon Library Association and Alpha Beta Alpha sorority. She will reside in Frostburg.

KEYSER — Considerable damage was done to a truck owned by the Kraft Cheese Company when a short circuit caused a fire under the dash as it was parked in front of Dawson's Store, corner of B and West Piedmont streets. Both the Keyser and McCoole fire companies answered the alarm.

Pence Tells Women's Club Of Physical Fitness Plan

LONACONING—"Physical Fitness" was the topic of Robert E. Pence, supervisor of Physical Education of Allegany County Public Schools, as he spoke at the Lonaconing Women's club meeting Tuesday at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars home.

He explained to the club that physical exercise by entire families is recommended to keep in physical fitness in today's world and demonstrated to the group as he gave his address. He told about the physical education program to be undertaken in junior and senior high schools and of exercise tests made in the schools and the results. The aim to have American children, and entire family groups, in best physical fitness is in effect all over the United States, he said. Books on physical fitness for the Women's Club members will be obtained for their study and practical use.

Mrs. Thelma Inskeep, county nurse, will have assistance from the Women's club, when the Chest x-ray unit is set-up in the community in the near future.

Second Mondays will be meeting nights of the club this fall and winter. They had been meeting on the second Tuesdays.

Berkeley Springs Hospital Fund Drive Is Progressing

BERKELEY SPRINGS—Hundreds of volunteer solicitors for the War Memorial Hospital Building Fund Campaign held their first report meeting Tuesday evening at Berkeley Springs High School cafeteria, bringing in a total of $21,430, which makes the grand total reported thus far in the $150,000 effort $115,990.

Campaign Chairman Henry N. Gorrell praised the work of solicitors for the drive, and said "We now have the proof we have all been waiting for, that the people of our hospital service area are giving all-out support to this project, and I'm certain we are going to top our goal within the next two weeks."

Reports from Campaign Headquarters indicated that a large proportion of the gifts reported thus far are "Memorials," many of them representing $120 for the Master Plaque Memorial.

Three more Report Meetings are scheduled. The Second Report will be on Friday, September 11, in the Berkeley High School cafeteria. The final Report Meeting is slated for September 17.

Hospital spokesmen said they had "never witnessed such enthusiasm in this area . . . every business and family seems ready and willing to do its share in this 'Once-In-A-Lifetime' drive."

House Burns Near Barton

BARTON — Barton Volunteer Fire Company was called Sunday at 6 p.m. to the home of Mrs. Russell Lambert on Hampshire Hill to extinguish a fire.

Firemen stated that the building was in flames and had been burning for some time before they were summoned. They also stated they were hampered by road conditions which they had to improve before getting a truck to the scene of the fire. The house and contents were destroyed.

On Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. the company answered a call when a fire at the coal tipple of Bittner's mine set fire to a wooded area near the mine. No damage was reported. Cause of both fires is unknown.

Visitors

Westernport Man Named Superintendent At Luke

LUKE — Promotion of Howard E. Kincer to the position of superintendent of the lower paper mill at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper was announced yesterday by John A. Luke, general manager of the company's Fine Papers Division.

Kincer, who has been employed at the Luke mill since October 9, 1945, has been technical staff assistant to the assistant manager of production since November 1, 1958.

In his new position, Kincer will be responsible for the operation of five paper machines at the Luke plant's lower mill. He succeeds John L. Olewine, who is resigning October 1.

A native of Roanoke, Va., Kincer was graduated from Roanoke College in 1940 with a bachelor of science degree in chemistry. He worked for a short time as a chemist for the Mead Corporation at Lynchburg, Va., and then joined Hercules Powder Company, at Radford, Va., where he was employed as a chemist from December 16, 1941, to October 6, 1945.

Kincer was first employed at the Luke mill as a chemist in the Research Department. On November 1, 1951, he was named foreman of the pigment plant, and in 1952, was transferred to the paper mill as an operating engineer.

On February 7, 1956, he was assigned to the Technical Service Department as a technical assistant dealing primarily with the planning for No. 8 paper machine and auxiliary services as a part of the mill's current $50 million expansion program.

For the past 10 months as technical staff assistant to the assistant manager of production, he has been working in a liaison capacity between the engineering and operating departments, dealing primarily with the design and installation of both Nos. 8 and 9 machines and auxiliary services.

Kincer is married to the former Miss Mardel Foley of Luke. They and their two daughters, Suzette, 11, and Sally, 8, live on Horse Rock Hill, near Westernport.

Beall Opens Annual Drive For Magazines

FROSTBURG — Thomas Richardson, chairman of the magazine committee at Beall Elementary School announced that William Woolridge, a representative of the Curtis Publishing Company, met with the committee Wednesday in preparation for the forthcoming magazine drive sponsored by the school.

Mr. Richardson stated that plans are being made to make this years drive bigger and better than in the past. The Curtis plan provides the community with an annual dependable subscription magazine service. It enables the school and the students to obtain for their use many things not provided for in the school's fiscal budget.

This year, plans are in the making to expand the intercom system into each classroom instead of just in the hallways. The school is authorized to accept new and renewal subscriptions to Curtis publications.

The student will issue an official receipt for all purchases whether for new or renewal subscriptions. The profits the school receives from the sales will be used for worthwhile school activities.

According to Mr. Richardson, the magazine drive will officially open Thursday, September 24 and close Monday, October 5.

Frostburg Department Heads Voted Salary Increases By Town Council

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and Council last night approved an increase in salary for the heads of the street, water and police departments. The increase brought the wages of the department heads to the same level, it was pointed out.

According to council spokesmen, wage differences have existed for some time, with some heads being able to earn supplemental wages by handling extra work. The average wage, which had been $3,780 per year, was set at $4,000 last night.

The hourly rate for the assistant street superintendent, $1.72, was not changed. A general wage increase for all employes was granted approximately 14 months ago.

William S. Jenkins, of the Consolidated Fuel Company, presented a map of proposed development for homes in the northeast section of Frostburg off Mt. Pleasant Street.

Jenkins stated that his company would grade roads and install sewer and water lines to the city's specifications and if the city would incorporate the area, turn the utilities over to the city. Following a discussion, Council voted unanimously to incorporate the area by ordinance as provided by the city charter.

William Thomas, dump custodian, asked the city what he should do concerning clearing a fire lane around the city dump. He explained that he had started to clear one section on Borden Mining Company property but was stopped.

Council informed him that they were in process of drawing up an agreement between the mining company and the Consolidated Fuel Company for the dump property, and that until definite lines had been laid out he should defer any timber cutting.

Ellsworth Filer, manager of the community swimming pool, asked Council to have the filters checked and diving boards repaired. Commissioner William Preston also asked that the pool be drained so he could start repairs on the bottom before winter sets in. He pointed out that repairs should be made now due to the fact that city workers are not available in the early spring when street work takes their full time. Permission was granted.

Mayor Joseph James asked council to commend Filer for the job he had done at the pool this year, stating that a tentative report from the city clerk shows that the pool operated this year in the black for the first time.

William Sluss Jr., director of the Frostburg Housing Authority, told council that work is progressing on plans for the town's first housing development. Negotiations are underway for the purchase of the property in the old Junior Order Park, he explained, and the architect is drawing up plans for the development.

Sluss stated that two government men who surveyed the area informed him that the housing development will be the showplace of the area when completed. Rev. William Yingling's resignation as president of the Housing Authority was read and accepted. Rev. Mr. Yingling is moving to another charge at the end of September.

Commissioner Preston asked that the city change the ordinance that regulates winter parking on Main, Broadway and Water streets to faciliate snow removal. The existing parking restrictions on Main Street were from Grant to the west city limits. Council accepted Preston's suggestion and extended the no-parking from Grant to the east city limits. The new ordinance will prohibit all parking on Main Street during winter months.

Preston also asked that parking be limited to one side of all streets during the winter months to permit the large snow plow to be used. Police Commissioner William Goebel was ordered to have signs erected for this purpose.

A new schedule of working hours for the Police Department was presented by Goebel and Police Chief Donald Griffith. Council accepted the schedule which provides two men on a shift during the week, and three men from 7 a. m. Saturday to 7 a. m. Sunday.

The Eckhart Water Company was granted permission to add new customers to their line in Clarysville. Council approved a $300 donation to the Arion Band as their annual contribution, and $150 was allocated for the public library for a new book case.

Welfare Club Sponsors Benefit

WESTERNPORT—Social Welfare Club will hold a public card party Thursday, September 24 at 7:30 p. m., at St. James's parish house. Dessert will be served at 7:30 and card games will begin at 8 p. m. Bridge, 500, setback and canasta will be played.

Mrs. Dorothy Michael and Mrs. Helen Seaber are co-chairmen of the event. Tickets may be obtained from club members or at the door.

Pythian Sisters To Meet Today

LONACONING — "Past Chief Night" will be observed on Monday, September 14, at Morning Star Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters.

Past Chiefs will preside as officers during the meeting and a social hour will follow.

Miss Margaret H. Sloan will preside at the Past Chiefs Association monthly meeting tonight at the Pythian Temple.

Serves Aboard Aircraft Carrier

FROSTBURG — George P. Sagal, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Sagal of RFD 1, Frostburg, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Independence, operating with the US Atlantic Fleet out of Norfolk, Va.

Newest of the Navy's super carriers, the Independence is scheduled for an overhaul period at the New York Naval Shipyard in mid-October.

Youth Fellowship Resumes Meetings

BARTON — The Youth Fellowship of the Methodist Church will hold their first fall meeting Sunday, September 13 at 6:30 p. m. in the church social room.

Mrs. Mary Penman, councilor has announced that she will have a guest speaker who will talk on acitvities in other church youth groups. New officers will be elected and refreshments served.

Migrant Workers In Need Of Help

Public hearings are being held on proposals to tighten up regulations under which the U. S. Employment service helps recruit migrant farm labor. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell wants the federal agency and its state affiliates to make sure that employers pay "prevailing" wages, meet applicable local housing and sanitation standards, and furnish adequate transportation.

Working conditions for migrants are so wretched that any step to improve them should be welcome. The average migrant in 1957 earned well under $900 a year. U. S. nationals averaged $859; imported Mexican "braceros" certainly much less, since they are not as free to follow the harvest.

Generally unprotected by minimum wage, maximum hour or Social Security laws, the field workers often fail to get protection even from the laws which do cover them—the child labor laws for example. In part the migrants conspire in their own exploitation, needing to increase family income. But ignorance and poverty make them easy targets for the unscrupulous.

Big growers have usually opposed reforms which would cost them money and up to now have been generally successful in warding off interference. Whether they will oppose Mitchell's suggested changes remains to be seen. In any case, Mitchell himself is already on record (last February 5) as saying that the migrant will "never be able to successfully resist exploitation until federal legislation guarantees him a decent minimum wage."

Khrushchev's Ideas Of America

Nikita Khrushchev wrote an article for "Foreign Affairs," in which he discloses an ignorance of the United States which may be the cause for much of the troubles between the two countries. He also displays a lack of understanding of the industrial development in his own country. He says:

". . . the dynamics of the development of the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. A. are such that the 42-year-old land of the Soviets is already able to challenge the 150-year-old capitalist state to economic competition; and the most farsighted American leaders are admitting that the Soviet Union is fast catching up with the United States and will ultimately outstrip it . . ."

First of all, the history of industrialization is that one country builds on another. True, in 1917, Soviet Russia was far behind in the development of manufactures. It was a backward country. Today, Soviet Russia is one of the principal manufacturing countries on Earth. But Khrushchev omits many telling facts when he makes a comparison between what we accomplished here in 150 years and what they accomplished there in 42 years.

In the first place, he should have called attention to the fact that we gave Russia, free of charge, approximately $11,000,000,000 which became the base for their modern industrialization. Secondly, Soviet Russia purchased or bartered for entire plants which came from the United States, Great Britain and Germany. In a word, upon the foundation of existing plants in Western Europe, Soviet Russia built her present industrial order.

Japan did the same thing a little earlier. Beginning in 1868, Japan, under the Emperor Meiji and Prince Ito, went through a period of industrialization, becoming by 1914 the leading country in Asia and by 1918 one of the five great powers on Earth. Japan's achievement was actually more brilliant than Russia's because it was always short of both manpower and raw materials, being forced to import even food to take care of an increasing population. It attempted to conquer Manchuria and parts of Mongolia to supply its shortages, but was stopped by the West, principally by the United States.

When Khrushchev says that farsighted American leaders admit that Soviet Russia is catching up to and will pass the United States, he does not offer any names. No outstanding American leader has publicly taken that position. Khrushchev may have spoken to such as Cyrus Eaton but who would call him an outstanding American leader?

Let us quote another sentence from Khrushchev: ". . . Prove by facts that your system is superior and more efficacious, that it is capable of insuring a higher degree of prosperity for the people than the Socialist system, that under capitalism man can be happier than under socialism. . ."

The only advantage in Khrushchev's visit is that he might see with his own eyes what nonsense he talks. He says: "It is impossible to prove this," meaning our superior standard of life. He should stay here for a year and see whether it is impossible to prove this. As a matter of fact, Khrushchev does not know what prosperity is in terms of consumers' goods, which is the essence of our productivity. He has no conception of 1959 life in the United States.

Let him pick his types. He was a miner. Let him go to a place like Butte, Montana to see how American miners live and compare that with how Ural miners live. Let him go to Youngstown or Weirton or Steubenville or Middletown to see how American steel workers live. He can skip the luncheon the Mayor of New York is to give him and go through 20 or 30 stores in New York, particularly during the noon hour when working girls shop. Let him pick them at random. Let him walk in here and there and discover what he can get in the way of consumers' goods.

It would only go to show that Khrushchev simply does not know anything at all about American life and the American way of life. He has read perhaps some articles in Communist publications and he has disbelieved statistical information given to him by his experts. He has disbelieved because it has been beyond his experience and understanding.

It would be an advantage to the world if Khrushchev did understand this country and if he did understand Western civilization. Perhaps he is not too stubborn to learn.

Ike's Russian Trip More Important Than Khrushchev's Visit To U.S.

By Drew Pearson

When Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, on September 7, reprimanded the Commandant of The Coast Guard and Adm. James Hirshfield for the joy ride the admiral gave his family all over Europe at government expense, it was the culmination of a Drew Pearson exclusive expose July 21.

Pearson has exposed the joyriding of many Congressmen, admirals, and generals, some of whom were penalized, but most of them not. In this case, however, Secretary Anderson, civilian head of the Coast Guard, investigated immediately after the Pearson column, then acted vigorously to prevent further family joy rides by brass hats.

WASHINGTON — Harry Truman has made some interesting criticism of the Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchange visits. While he thinks it's a good thing for Khrushchev to come to the USA, he doesn't think it's a good thing for President Eisenhower to go to the USSR.

I don't like to be in disagreement with my old friend, Mr. Truman—though he has disagreed with me vigorously and perhaps justifiably before—but I think he's wrong in opposing Ike's trip to Russia. Here is the reason why:

In dealing with an autocracy, the only safeguard you have as a checkrein on its rulers is friendship of its people. In the United States there is a Congress, the press, and the churches, which can and do checkrein the White House. War is not easy for a President to declare in the United States with these forces against him.

But in a country like Russia, Khrushchev may be running things one day and somebody else the next. So, the only real safeguard is to convince the Russian people that the United States is a peace-loving, friendly nation.

This is why I think Eisenhower's trip to Russia is more important than Khrushchev's trip to the United States. For Mr. Eisenhower, when he gets away from his big business golfing partners, can be a very appealing, down-to-earth human being. He registers with crowds. People instinctively like him. And since the Russian people are sure to like him, his trip should be a very important step in cementing people-to-people friendship.

Ike Changed His Policy?

Just 11 years ago, May 1948, I was sitting beside General Eisenhower at a luncheon in New York. He was then president of Columbia University, and seemed as much concerned about the state of the world as when he had been Chief of Staff in Washington.

I suggested to him that the only way to make sure of peace with Russia was to break down the Iron Curtain—then completely rigid—and win over the Russian people. The Friendship Train, organized with the aid of the American railroads, and to which millions of Americans spontaneously contributed, had just made a successful tour through western Europe, and I suggested that if a similar train were sent toward Moscow, the Kremlin might have trouble stopping it at the edge of the Iron Curtain.

General Eisenhower wasn't enthusiastic.

However, we all change, and as President he has adopted the idea of people-to-people friendship. Eisenhower, however, has not changed as much as the Kremlin.

In three shorts years, the Iron Curtain has virtually disappeared. The strict barrier erected by Stalin to keep the Russian people from knowing outsiders and the benefits of western civilization, has evaporated in a steady stream of visits between scientists, businessmen, sports teams, orchestras, cultural groups, governors, and now the leaders of the two nations.

When you compare this with the blunt, brutal aloofness of Stalin's day, or when you recall the screams of protest that went up from behind the Iron Curtain when we floated in friendship-freedom balloons across the Iron Curtain to emphasize that the Kremlin was afraid to let the people on its side get acquainted with people on the western side—in view of all this, the change is nothing less than a political miracle.

Capitalism In Moscow

Part of this people-to-people exchange has been arranged by the State Department direct with Moscow. Part, however, has come about purely through the capitalist system which the Communists abhor—at least in theory. When Sol Hurok and Robert Dowling brought the Bolshoi Ballet, the Moiseyev Dancers, Sara Doulukhanova, the Soviet soprano, or the Russian festival to the USA, the engagements were booked on a pure profit-taking capitalistic basis.

Likewise when the famed Harlem Globetrotters basketball team went to Moscow, they were paid $4,000 a game, and all arrangements for the trip were made direct with Abe Saperstein, owner of the Globetrotters, rather than through the State Department.

Reason the Soviets booked the Globetrotters for the Lenin Sports Palace for one solid week likewise seemed tinged with a capitalistic motive. They wanted an attraction which would draw a big gate in order to make enough to balance the local sports budget. Just as Harvard pays for a good part of its season with the Harvard-Yale game, so the Soviets made up their deficit with the Harlem Globetrotters, a group of Negro basketball players whose trip helped belie earlier Soviet propaganda that the Negro gets no recognition in America.

This is just a small part of the steady stream of 74 American technical, sports and cultural groups, plus 63 similar Soviet groups which have visited the two countries; plus the remarkable showing of the Soviet and American exhibitions in New York and Moscow; plus about 300 Soviet visitors who came to the USA and about 9,000 American tourists who invaded Moscow in one of the most amazing changes that have taken place in any country since Admiral Perry opened Japan to the western world in 1855.

Why The Civil Rights Commission Can't Agree

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Anyone who had the idea that a national commission to investigate "civil rights" could come up with a coherent report after months of study is bound to be puzzled by the confusing and to some extent contradictory recommendations just issued by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Six members — three from the North and three from the South —made a conscientious effort to come to grips with the civil rights question as it affects registration and voting, housing and education. But the net result is a sharp division between the six.

As for voting rights, the report presents an anomaly. The three Northern members — John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, and Professor George M. Johnson, former dean of Howard University, who is the only Negro member of the Commission — joined together to recommend a new Constitutional Amendment. They feel it is necessary if the people wish to take away from the states their present right to determine for themselves all the different qualifications of voters apart from race or color or sex. This is sound reasoning. For, as noted in these dispatches several weeks ago, the Constitution today specifically gives the states the right to define such voter qualifications and to provide, for instance, tests to prove that a citizen can read and write.

Oddly enough, however, two of the Southern members — former Governor Doyle E. Carlton of Florida and Robert G. Storey, dean of the Southern Methodist University Law School at Dallas, Texas — joined with the three Northern members to recommend the passage of a federal law to prevent individual discrimination in the application of existing state laws on the subject of voter qualifications. But these same two members, together with a third from the South — former Governor John S. Battle of Virginia — then insisted that an Amendment to the Federal Constitution is unnecessary to secure proper enforcement of voting rights because existing powers of Congress are adequate.

Perhaps the most controversial section of the report is that which deals with alleged discrimination on the part of educational institutions which receive federal funds. It is signed by the three Northern members and says in part:

"More than $2 billion a year of federal funds go for educational purposes and to educational institutions. The principal recipients of these funds are the nation's colleges, universities, and other institutions of higher education. Whether tax-supported or privately financed, they receive federal grants and loans both for their general support and capital improvements as well as for research projects, special programs, and institutes."

The same three members of the Commission recommend that federal agencies "be authorized and directed to withhold funds in any form to institutions of higher learning, both publicly supported and privately supported, which refuse, on racial grounds, to admit students otherwise qualified for admission."

But, unfortunately, the three members who signed that particular statement disregard the fact that, when the federal government attempts to enforce one section of the Constitution with respect to federal aid to education, it opens up to similar scrutiny the application of other parts of the Constitution, especially the First Amendment which decrees a complete separation of church and state. If this concept of existing Constitutional provisions were followed literally, then the GI Bill of Rights and any other federal grants might be held to be improper where any church-controlled schools or colleges are involved. It is interesting to note that the three Southern members — Commissioners Storey, Battle and Carlton — do not think the federal government should attempt through its money power to police the schools. Their dissent is as follows:

"We cannot endorse a program of economic coercion as either a substitute for or a supplement to the direct enforcement of the law through the orderly processes of justice, as administered by the courts.

"Such a proposal by this Commission — as a branch of the federal government — would drastically affect the administration of privately owned institutions of higher education. Such action goes beyond the scope of the commission's duties."

Strictly speaking, all private schools could be compelled under such a plan to admit anyone, irrespective of race or creed or color, or else forfeit tax exemptions and other federal government privileges.

It is in the field of housing, however, that the Commission finds itself wandering far afield from Constitutional principle. It says:

"The need is not for a pattern of integrated houseing. It is for equal opportunity to secure decent housing. . . . The Negro's need for an alternative to block-busting as a way of securing housing must be met just as the legitimate interests of white neighborhoods on the edge of Negro expansion areas must be protected."

This sounds a bit reminiscent of the "separate but equal" doctrines that used to be applied by the courts before the 1954 Supreme Court "desegregation" decisions. Interestingly enough, while this very section on housing apparently won the concurrence of all six members of the Commission, again even this appearance of unanimity is offset somewhat by a supplementary comment by the three Southern members concerning future methods of tackling the problem of housing. They warn that "no one pattern will serve the country as a whole."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The Democratic party's official organ, the Democratic Digest, has its own party fuming, and some Republican quarters all but shouting "treason."

The Digest is supposed to reflect official party thinking. It expounds party philosophy and gives the line of attack on Republican activities. So it was that there was a fair amount of curiosity over how the publication would treat Vice President Richard Nixon's trip to Russia.

The Digest termed Nixon's Soviet trip a "calculated publicity coup" designed to take the play away from New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at the Puerto Rico governor's conference.

These two men are undoubtedly running as hard as they can for the GOP Presidential nomination next year. It is well known that Rockefeller hoped the governors' conference would be an opportunity for him to display his political wares to some of the nation's top Republican leaders.

However, in the opinion of many leaders of both parties, it was too extreme to put a completely political light on Nixon's sensational accomplishments in Russia.

Political polls and the experts generally indicate that Democrats have a better than even chance of capturing the White House in next year's elections. Some Democrats are a bit concerned that blunders on the part of too zealous party workers could upset the apple cart.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The housekeeper took a week off. She picked a substitute, a dark little woman with big feet, legs like broomsticks, and no teeth. Her name was Arabella and she offered no friendship to anyone. The first evening, when I had some friends in, she said that she disapproved of drinking, although she admitted that it was none of her business. She didn't even want to wash the glasses.

Arabella kept to herself. We kept to ourselves. When she left her room to come downstairs, she wore a white uniform with white headband on her dark hair. It looked odd with the sneakers. Still, that was her business.

Arabella said my dog ate too much. True. It's the only thing at which he excels. She said the living room mirrors were too big. She could not understand why I had books stacked in the headboard of my bed. "Healthy men shouldn't be reading in bed," Arabella said, shaking her head and telling how different life was in Anniston.

The third morning I got up, she was sitting on the kitchen stairs. Her elbows were on her knees, chin cupped in palms. She looked sad. Woefully sad. "You ready to jump off the dock?" I said.

She shook her head no. "I just want you to see what I been at," she said. Something about the slurry tone, the ice-skating walk across the kitchen, rang familiar chimes in my head.

"No," I said to myself. "It can't be. This is breakfast time."

She showed me a small cereal closet. I looked. "See how neat?" she said, and slammed the closet door and went back to sit on the steps. Chief came in. He had had breakfast and had rehung the boat on its lines. I nodded toward Arabella. He shrugged.

"A wino," he whispered.

No, I said sofetly. This poor woman is not a wino. She is opposed to booze in all its horrifying forms. Chief chuckled. "I'm only trying to tell you."

"Mr. Chief," she said, curling her tongue around the words, "I just want you to see this closet." She showed him. He looked at it. Then he looked at her. Then at me. I looked away.

Arabella went off to make the beds. Chief wagged his head. "Stewed," he said in the tone of respect that one hangover reserves for another. "Sad case." He went upstairs to Arabella's room. In a minute he was back down. "Thunderbird," he said. "She's flying."

I did some work in the guest house. At noon I came in for lunch. Arabella could hardly talk. I sat her at the kitchen table.

"Look," I said sympathetically, "If you want to drink on your own time, Arabella, I have nothing against it, but—'

"I hate alcohol," she said, and it was the first lucid sentence of the day. I agreed and said that the bottle of wine would have to go, or she would have to go, or maybe both. She sighed.

"Seven years ago, I had aye accident," she said, trying to form the words precisely. "Doctor told me I lost all the blood in this left leg and I would have to drink a little port to get it back." The headband was slipping off one ear. She paused to set it back on top. "I suppose I got that blood back long ago. Maybe. Anyway, it tastes so good."

I might have known that a good housekeeper would not select a good substitute. Mine must have gone far to find this mental giant.

"No wine," I said. "Before breakfast?" I said. "I'm surprised."

She skated all day long. Once she came downstairs three at a time. Everytime she saw me, she said: "See how neat?" and she showed me the same little closet. Gayle came in, took a long look and said to daddyo: "What are you doing? Picking 'em for kicks?"

That evening, we had steaks. I asked Arabella for a little Worcestershire. She brought the bottle in. I reached for it. She yanked it away and started to shake it. She shook it violently. After a minute I reached again. Gayle and Chief began to watch. Arabella shook it over her head, in front, under each arm, behind her, and finally handed it to to me.

"I shook it," she said simply. We shook her . . .

Keeping A Youngster In Bed After A Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A. B. writes: "Years ago, when my son was small, my doctor instructed me to keep the child in bed when he ran a fever until a day or two after his temperature returned to normal. My son's wife does not follow this plan. She says it's impossible to keep the boy in bed when he has a temperature, and that it does not make any difference if he runs around and plays. Do you think a child should stay in bed when he has a fever, to prevent damage to the heart?"

It is a good policy for everyone with a cold or minor infection to remain in bed for 24 hours after the temperature has returned to normal. A longer period may be required for those convalescing from more serious ailments, such as pneumonia, rheumatic fever, or encephalitis. Adults are likely to do as they are told but children act according to the way they feel.

Most youngsters stay in bed without coercion when they are sick but become fidgety as soon as they feel better. Forcing them to remain quiet in bed is useless because the majority twist and squirm all over the place at the moment the parent turns his head. It is easier to allow some freedom, even to the extent of getting out of bed, provided the room is warm. Sitting on the floor will not damage the heart.

It is a trick to keep a youngster amused while he is convalescing in bed. It taxes the energy and ingenuity of the most skilled parent. Provide adequate support for the back and sufficient light to prevent eyestrain. A lightweight tray or sturdy cardboard makes an excellent play surface.

Many tots will play for hours by themselves when supplied with toys, dolls, puzzles, scrapbooks, or coloring books. They also like company now and then. The older children enjoy cards, whereas a younger boy or girl likes to have an adult read or tell a story. We wonder how parents managed their little invalids before the advent of radio and TV.

Youngsters who have a contagious or infectious disease should not mingle with other tots and it is a good idea to keep them insidef or a day or two after the temperature drops to normal. This helps prevent a relapse and keeps them from spreading their disease to others.

TOMORROW: Worry wears you down.

FOAM RUBBER

E. F. writes: Can sleeping on a foam rubber mattress cause me to sneeze and have other symptoms of allergy?

REPLY

I doubt it, as foam rubber usually is recommended as a hypoallergenic product for asthmatics. Have you overlooked the feathers in pillows or the lint from the blankets? You ought to be tested to determine the cause of your allergic manifestations.

TO EAT OR NOT TO EAT

R. T. E. writes: During an attack of diarrhea, is it better to fast or eat?

REPLY

Skip a meal or two and then have tea and toast or a dish of cooked cereal. Sips of water or eating ice chips help avoid dehydration.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Jimmy Durante takes a dim view of suburban life but one Sunday a friend lured him out to his estate, and to add insult to injury, made him look at his beehives. "I stuck my face into one of the hives," avers Durante, "and when those bees gotta load of my schnozzola, the queen bee hollered, 'Run for the hills, boys; it's an anteater!' "

Durante also tells us he's figured out what to do in case there's ever an air raid while he's playing in Las Vegas. "I'll just hide under a slot machine," says Jimmy. "They ain't been hit for years."

The way Hollywood mothers tell it to their tots, "there once w a mama bear, a papa bear, and a baby bear named Goldilocks—by a previou marriage."

"My wife's learning how to drive," a harrassed gent informed his druggist, "so I'll need a big supply of those new vitamin pills. My doctor tells me they're just the thing for run-down people."

A daughter of the late John and Catherine Alice (Holter) Clymer, she was the widow of Henry C. Holtzhour who died August 10, 1949.

Besides her son she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Edna Hilbet, Pottstown, Pa., one grandchild and two great grandchildren.

She was a member of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church and belonged to the Royal Neighbors of America.

WILLIAM E. LINK

WINCHESTER — William Edward Link, 67, a native of Rio, W. Va., died Wednesday at the Newton D. Baker VA Center where he had been in ill health for the past several years.

Mr. Link was a retired automobile mechanic here.

He was born August 27, a son of the late Samuel and Julia Conrad Link. He was a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church here and was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Myrtle (Peer) Link; a daughter, Mrs. Stella Fraley, of here; a son, Edward R. Link, York, Pa.; three sisters, Mrs. Lillie Wise, Romney, Mrs. Rose Lupton, Rio, and Mrs. Bessie Constable, Keyser; three brothers, David Link, of Gore, Lee Link, of Rio, and Clinton Link, Moorefield.

Services will be conducted today at 2 p. m. at the Omps Funeral Home by Elder Fockler, pastor of Seventh Day Adventist Chursh. Interment will be in River View Cemetery, Strasburg.

JOHN D. KIFER

PAW PAW—John Deneen Kifer, 74, of here, died Wednesday at the Hancock Convalescent Home. He had been in ill health for 17 months.

Mr. Deneen was a retired building contractor, having been engaged in that business in Hagerstown for 30 years. He moved to Paw Paw five years ago, following his retirement.

He was born in Kifer, Md., on June 23, 1885, a son of the late David and Amanda (Ashkettle) Kifer.

Survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Grace Robertson, Mrs. Nancy Lomyer, Mrs. Mary E. Funk, all of here, and Miss Emma Kifer, of Kifer; two brothers, Latrobe Kifer, also of Kifer, and Victor Kifer, of Burkettsville, Md.

Mr. Kifer was a member of the Paw Paw Methodist Church.

The body will be at the Parks Funeral Home after 10 a. m. today. Services will be conducted there by Rev. C. S. Reckley, pastor of Paw Paw Methodist Church. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery, Hagerstown.

ROBERT P. WALKER

SALISBURY, Pa. — Robert P. Walker, 85, who had been in ill health for some time, died Wednesday evening at his home in nearby Boynton.

Born April 29, 1874, in Lonaconing, Md., Mr. Walker was a son of the late John and Jane (Porteous) Walker.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Goldie (Dishong) Walker; three sons, Ezra, Frostburg; Herman Walker, Warren, Ohio, and Gauvin Walker, Cumberland; five daughters, Mrs. Edith Dishong, Frostburg; Mrs. Margie O'Conner, Riverside, Calif.; Mrs. Augusta Sutton, Meyersdale; Mrs. Jane Popovich, Berlin, and Mrs. Martha Mardis, Riverside, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Schmitter, Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Hazel Schmitter, Cooper, Texas; 25 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

A funeral service will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. Sunday at St. John's Reformed Church of which he was a member. Rev. Paul L. Westcoat Jr., pastor, will officiate. Burial will take place in the Salisbury Odd Fellows Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Thomas Funeral Home here.

ERLEN T. HAYWOOD

WESTERNPORT — Erlen Thomas Haywood, 61, a resident of Keyser for about 20 years, died yesterday at the Potomac Valley Hospital following a lingering illness.

Born in Shaw, W. Va., he was a son of Mrs. Thomas Haywood Sr., and the late Thomas Haywood.

A World War I veteran, he was a former superintendent of the coating room at the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. He held membership in the Piedmont Trinity Methodist Church.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Theresa (Droppleman) Haywood; five sons, Noel and Herman Haywood, of Westernport, James Haywood, McCoole, Joseph Haywood, Bowling Green, and Sgt. Drew Haywood, stationed at Moody Air Force Base in Georgia; a daughter, Mrs. Wallace Rigsby, of Luke; four brothers, Paul and Thomas Haywood Jr., both of Luke, Holmes Haywood, Piedmont, and Norman Haywood, Keyser; a sister, Mrs. George Wolfe, Luke, and seven grandchildren.

The body is at the Boal Funeral Home where services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. by Rev. S. D. Rexrode, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont. Burial will be in Philos Cemetery.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m.

SPANGLER SERVICE

A funeral service for Orlando Ray Spangler, 73, of 410 Broadway, who died Wednesday, will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. today at the Scarpelli Funeral Home by Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church. Burial will be in the Terra Alta, W. Va., cemetery.

Pallbearers will be H. K. Ritter, C. L. Kemp, V. H. Hebb, R. A. Guisman, V. C. Bell and J. R. Corley.

Services Planned For Crash Victims

Janet Marlene Deems, 12, and Nancy Noami Deems, 15, were daughters of James Arthur and Ruth Thelma (Friend) Deems of Deer Park.

Janet was a sixth grade student at Dennett Road Elementary School, and Nancy was a ninth grade student at Southern High School.

Surviving, besides her parents, are a brother, Arthur Deems and three sisters, Barbara Jane, Sharrol and Mary Catherine Deems, all at home, and a half-brother, James Roger, Glendale.

The bodies of the two sisters are at the Minnich Funeral Home, Oakland.

Joint funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 1 p. m. at the Pentecostal Church at Deer Park by Rev. Ralph Jacks and Rev. Ernest Blizzard. Burial will be in Deer Park Cemetery.

The brother and sister killed in the crash, Nancy Lee Harvey, 12, and Merle B. Harvey Jr. 11, were the children of Mrs. Arlene Dombroski, Altoona, Pa.

The children had been living with their foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Wright, of near Deer Park, for the last eight years.

Also surviving are a stepfather, Walter Dombroski, Altoona, Pa., and a half-sister, Joyce Ann Dombroski, also of Altoona.

The mother of the two children was in Petersburg, W. Va. with the Tri-County Fair when she was notified of the tragedy.

Services for the brother and sister will be held Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the Leighton Funeral Home by Rev. Ernest Blizzard. Burial will be in Ferndale Cemetery near Oakland.

Shirley Ann Lee, 12, was a daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Virginia (Lee) Lee, Deer Park, and the late Joseph Lee, who died last year. Shirley was in the sixth grade at Dennett Road School.

Surviving, besides her mother, are two brothers, Henry and James Lee, both at home; Alonzo Lee, Ohio, and David Lee, Hollywood, Fla., and a sister, Mary Lee, also at home.

The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home where services will be conducted Sunday at 3:30 p. m. by Rev. Leroy Harvey. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery at Gormania.

The sixth victim of the crash, Leroy Carl Hoffman, 11, was the son of Raymond Clark Hoffman, Deer Park, and Jean Ann (Remy) Hoffman.

Leroy was in the fifth grade at Dennett Road School and was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Sunday School.

He is also survived by his stepmother, Mrs. Nancy Hoffman, and a sister, Holly C. Hoffman, at home.

The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home where services will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. by Rev. W. Ernest Fox. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

The body of the seventh crash victim, Richard Hinkle, is at the Leighton Funeral Home.

New Lawyer Admitted

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris today admitted Miller Bowen, of Frostburg, to practice before the Allegany County bar.

Bowen, a native of Frostburg, attended Beall High School and LaSalle High here. During World War II he served as a bomber pilot with the 433rd Bomber Group of the Eighth Air Force in the European theater of war.

He graduated from the University of Maryland Law School and was an FBI agent for four and a half years. He was also senior attorney for the Internal Revenue Service for the Atlanta, Ga., region.

Bowen is married and has two children and the family resides in Frostburg.

Crowned With Pizza

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Louis Ulmar, 40, was booked for an assault and battery investigation Tuesday after she crowned Renato Monti with a pizza.

Mrs. Ulmar told police she thought Monti, 45, owner of a pizza palace, was berating his brother Joseph, 61. Their arms waved and voices were raised during what the Montis called "a typical Italian-style conversation."

Pickering Problem

NEWINGTON, N.H. (AP) — Newington Elementary School opened Wednesday and when the teacher in the combined first-second grade class came to "p" on the roll-call, it sounded like this:

Alfred T. Pickering Jr., Arlene Pickering, Frederick Pickering, Jane Pickering, John Pickering, Judith Pickering, Arlene, Frederick and Judith are triplets. Alfred is their older brother. John and Jane are twins.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"We're getting to the age when people our age are beginning to look older than we are."

"Of course, I remember the last compliment you paid me! You said, 'My, you look lovely in that wedding gown!' "

Turkey Club Sandwiches

- 4 (1-ounce) slices cooked turkey
- 8 teaspoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 4 lettuce leaves
- 12 slices hot buttered enriched toast
- 8 tomato slices
- 8 broiled bacon slices

Place a slice of turkey, a teaspoon of mayonnaise and a lettuce leaf between 8 slices of hot buttered toast. Spread a teaspoon of mayonnaise over top toast slice, place 2 tomato slices and 2 broiled bacon slices over mayonnaise. Cover with another slice of buttered toast. Fasten sandwiches together with toothpicks and cut each one diagonally into 4 triangles. Stand them upright on each plate. Garnish plate with pickles, olives, radish roses or celery curls.

Yield: 4 Turkey Club Sandwiches.

Canned Pears

Water Bath Method

(hot pack)

For each two pints of pears you will need 2 to 3 pounds fresh pears and 1½ to 2 cups Sugar Substitute syrup.

To make 2 cups of syrup:

LIGHT SWEETNESS, 1 tablespoon, plus 1 teaspoon Sugar Substitute and 2 cup boiling water.

MEDIUM SWEETNESS, 2 tablespoons Sugar Substitute and 2 cups boiling water.

EXTRA SWEET, 3 tablespoons, plus ½ teaspoon Sugar Substitute and 2 cups boiling water.

Method:

1. Wash pears; remove skins; cut in halves or quarters and core.
2. Drop at once into hot sugar substitute syrup and simmer for 3 minutes.
3. Pack hot fruit in sterilized glass jars; cover with hot liquid, leaving ½ inch space at top of jars.
4. Wipe rims of jars clean; secure lids firmly.
5. Process in boiling water bath—allowing 20 minutes for pint jars, 25 minutes for quart jars.
6. Set jars on towels in an upright position to cool.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The bathrub is one of the best aids to glamour.

Glamour Bathing

Nothing makes a woman feel so pampered as a luxurious performed bath. It is also a recognized nerve therapy.

The clever woman takes time out each day to relax in a beauty bath. Late in the afternoon she can shut the door on a hectic day and take her beauty treatment before her husband comes home from the office. A leisurely one helps to unkink those frazzled nerves and chase frowns from her face.

Always scent the water with bath oil before stepping into it. The bath water is then soft and your skin is lubricated, not to mention the wonderful fragrance that clings to you afterward. Many of the new bath oils, which contain a big percentage of essential skin oils also, have another practical feature. After their use there's no ring left in the tub.

Before stepping into the oil-scented tub, many beauties with well-cared-for skin include this body treatment. They give themselves a quick rubdown with plain, rough salt. It can be kept in a glass jar in the bathroom for this purpose. To use, moisten the salt slightly with a damp wash cloth and rub it onto the body. This will loosen all the little, scaly, dried skin particles.

The bathrub is one of the most important aids to a woman's glamour. One a day is a "must" —and more may be needed in the warmer months. It not only depends on the temperature but the type of work you do.

It is always a wise idea to put lubricating cream on your face before stepping into the tub. That way you will be steaming, cleaning, and oiling the precious skin on this vital part while you bathe. At the same time you can put your hair up, so your ears, neck and back will be free for scrubbing. The bath water also steams and moistens the curls, so it is best to have them in curlers.

When you step from the tub give yourself a brisk rubdown with a big soft Turkish towel. Your skin will glow all over. Follow with a rubdown with a good body lotion in your favorite fragrance. This keeps the skin soft, smooth and fragrant. Don't forget to rub the feet . . . smooth skin here will prevent your hose from snagging.

As a final touch, splash or spray some cologne on your body. You'll feel wonderful!

TOMORROW: Making Scents.

- 12 slices enriched bread toast
- ¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 4 lettuce leaves
- 8 tomato slices

Marinate onion rings, asparagus spears and cucumber slices in French dressing while toasting bread. Spread mayonnaise on toasted bread slices. Place 3 onion rings, 3 to 4 asparagus spears, and a lettuce leaf on 4 bread slices; top with 4 toast slices containing 2 tomato slices and 4 cucumber slices; place 4 toast slices on top, mayonnaise side down.

Spaghetti With Tomato Meat Sauce

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 1 clove garlic minced
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
- ½ cup canned beer
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ⅛ teaspoon thyme
- ½ teaspoon Hot Sauce
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 8 ounces spaghetti
- Parmesan cheese

Melt butter in skillet. Add meat, breaking up into small pieces with a fork. Add onion and garlic and when meat is browned, stir in remaining ingredients except spaghetti and Parmesan cheese. Simmer until sauce is thickened, about 30 minutes. Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Serve with sauce; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

YIELD: 6 servings.

Salmon-Olive Roll-Ups

- 4 slices enriched bread
- ½ cup flaked salmon
- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of Hot sauce
- ¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 16 small stuffed olives
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup condensed cream of celery soup
- 2 tablespoons milk

Trim crusts from bread. Combine salmon, almonds, lemon juice, salt, Hot sauce, and mayonnaise. Spread 3 tablespoons salmon mixture on each slice of trimmed bread. Place 3 small olives across center of bread. Roll bread with olives in center. Fasten with toothpicks. Brush with melted butter. Toast roll-ups in hot oven (400°F.) for ten minutes, or until golden brown. Slice remaining olives and combine with celery soup and milk. Heat and serve over toasted salmon roll-ups.

Yield: 4 Salmon-Olive Roll-Ups.

Canned Peaches

Water Bath Method
(Hot Pack)

For each two pints of peaches you will need 2 to 3 pounds fresh peaches and 1½ to 2 cups Sugar Substitute Syrup.

To make 2 cups of syrup:

LIGHT SWEETNESS, 1 tablespoon, plus 1 teaspoon Sugar Substitute, and 2 cups boiling water.

MEDIUM SWEETNESS, 2 tablespoons Sugar Substitute, plus 2 cup boiling water.

EXTRA SWEET, 3 tablespoons, plus ½ teaspoon Sugar Substitute, plus 2 cup boiling water.

Method:

1. Wash peaches; remove skins; cut in halves and pit. 2. Drop at once into hot sugar substitute syrup and simmer for 3 minutes. 3. Pack hot fruit in sterilized glass jars; cover with hot liquid, leaving ½ inch space at top of jar. 4. Wipe rims of jars clean; secure lids firmly. 5. Process in boiling water bath—allowing 20 minutes for pint jars, 25 minutes for quart jars. 6. Set jars on towels in an upright position to cool.

In Rolls Tuna

Tuna salad in a bun is fun, especially in hot weather and where children are involved. Somehow buns say picnics, and when they are filled with universally liked tuna, both the mood and food are right for summer.

By keeping a can or two of tuna in the refrigerator as a staple, you have the start for truly appealing summer salads and sandwiches. The tuna salad, in a bun or no, makes an excellent luncheon or supper dish. It's hearty and yet provides a pleasant lift on a hot day.

Canned tuna is a protein food of superior quality. Its B vitamins and such essential minerals as calcium, phosphorous, iron, copper and iodine are important in the diet of growing children and full grown adults.

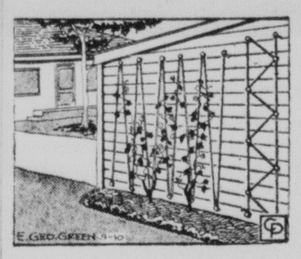
Tuna Party Rolls

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- ⅓ cup mayonnaise or commercial sour cream
- 4 frankfurter rolls
- ¾ cup finely diced celery

Combine tuna and celery; sprinkle with lemon juice. Blend together onion, horseradish and mayonnaise; add to tuna mixture. Toss lightly. Spoon into split rolls. If desired, garnish with capers and sliced stuffed olives.

Yield: 4 servings.

WIFE PRESERVERS



If you'd like greenery decorating the bare wall of a garage or the like, without the expense of a trellis, string up polyethylene rope in an interesting pattern. It's impervious to rot and easy to handle.

Hungarian Goulash

- 1½ pounds beef chuck or round, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 cups thinly sliced onions
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 teaspoons paprika
- 2 cups water
- ½ cup canned beer

Roll beef in flour. Melt butter; add beef and brown. Add onions, salt, paprika and water; simmer 1 hour. Add beer, simmer 1 hour longer or until fork-tender. Serve over hot caraway noodles.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Here's A Delicious Menu "For A Song"

Ham is such a particularly good buy right now, you're probably featuring it in menus regularly. This spicy skillet dish with canned cherries, ham and rice costs a song, and your praises will be sung when you serve it.

Spicy Cherry Ham 'n Rice

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup diced cooked celery
- 1 can (1 pound) red tart pitted cherries (water pack)
- Water
- 2 bouillon cubes
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1/16 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 2 cups diced cooked ham

Melt butter in skillet. Add celery and cook until tender. Drain cherries; add enough water to cherry liquid to make 2¼ cups. Add to celery with bouillon cubes, salt and ground cloves. Bring to a boil. Add rice slowly. Cover; reduce and simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Add cherries and ham last 10 minutes cooking time.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Young people who have frequent accidents tend to be poor thinkers, while older accident victims more often lack coordination and dexterity.

Swiss Cheese And Ham Pie

- Pastry for 9-inch pie shell
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
- 3 eggs, beaten slightly
- 1 cup diced cooked ham

Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry, fluting the edges. Chill in refrigerator. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk stirring constantly and cook until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add Swiss cheese gradually and stir until melted. Cool slightly and stir a small amount of mixture into beaten eggs, then stir eggs into sauce; add ham. Bake pie shell in a hot oven at 425° for 15 minutes. Lower heat to slow oven 300°, and pour filling mixture into shell. Bake until filling "sets", or until knife blade inserted in middle comes out clean, about 40 minutes. If desired, garnish top with additional Swiss cheese, chopped chives and broiled tomato slices. Makes 1 9-inch pie, 5 to 6 servings.

Sausage Stroganoff

Here's a quickly prepared stroganoff, as mouth-watering as its expensive namesake. Use skinless link pork sausage as the meat, and serve on broad noodles or toast points. Spiced crabapples, French bread and a crisp chef's salad are perfect partners for the stroganoff.

- 6 skinless pork sausages
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 large onion, sliced
- ½ green pepper, chopped
- 1 10½-ounce can condensed cream of celery soup
- 1 4-ounce can mushrooms, drained
- ½ cup sour cream, at room temperature
- 1 tablespoon sherry (optional)
- Paprika

Brown sausages on all sides, according to package directions. Slice thinly. Saute onion and green pepper in butter in saucepan until soft but not brown. Add soup and sausage and heat through, stirring frequently. Blend in sour cream and sherry and heat a minute or two more. Do not allow to boil. Spoon onto noodles or toast and sprinkle with paprika. Serves 3.

Pupils Learn Of Tragedy At Close Of School Day

Pupils of Dennett Road Elementary School in Garrett County learned at the close of classes yesterday afternoon that six of their schoolmates had been killed and a number of others hospitalized when the school bus they were riding was rammed by a B&O passenger train at the Mountain Lake Park crossing.

Foster Riggs, principal of the school for the past 13 years, broke the tragic news to the youngsters. Today the boys and girls will contribute money toward the purchase of flowers for their schoolmates.

Mr. Riggs, the teachers and pupils were shocked and stunned by the news of the tragedy termed the worst in the Garrett County schools transportation system.

Shirley Ann Lee, 12, a pupil in the sixth grade at the elementary school, who was one of those fatally injured, has had other tragedies in her family.

Several years ago their home was destroyed by fire and several of the children perished in the flames. Her mother, Evelyn Virginia (Lee) Lee is an invalid and the child's father died about a year ago.

Yesterday was the first morning the little girl had ridden on the bus operated by Leroy Campbell. She had moved from another section of the county on Wednesday.

One school official pointed out the 36-passenger bus had been inspected on August 18, a routine procedure by the schools system. Minor defects had been corrected by August 26, he said.

Area Shriners Will Attend Convention

Ali Ghan Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S., will send a good delegation to the Middle Atlantic Shrine Association Convention which will be held in Philadelphia Friday and Saturday.

Official representatives of Ali Ghan Temple will be Illustrious Potentate Austin W. Howard; John H. Hose, chief rabban; H. Glenn Boyd, high priest and prophet; Orville M. Weston, Oriental guide, and Robert E. Stallings, recorder.

Past potentates in the official delegation will be J. Stanley Hunter, Harry M. Hartman, Harold C. Wickard and McKinley C. Morton.

J. Walter Close and Ervin Lewis will be among the members who will attend the conclave.

Delegations from 21 temples in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia and New York City will attend.

A. Wayne Reed, Frostburg, who is most excellent grand master of Masons in Maryland, is a past president of the area Shrine association.

Survivors Of Crash

Survivors Tell

School, who survived the tragedy yesterday in Mt. Lake Park.

Saw Train Coming

Mary Ellen, who resides with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Paugh, Deer Park, was one of the fortunate students who escaped the terrible crash with minor injuries.

The pretty, brown-haired girl said she has a habit of looking both ways whenever the school bus reaches the railroad crossing. She saw the train approach the stalled bus.

Mary Ellen said the driver attempted to get the students off the bus, but only about seven boys and girls were able to jump off.

"I was just about to the door of the bus and another girl fell on the steps and I wasn't able to get off the bus," Mary Ellen said.

Felt Impact

"I felt the train strike the bus and the next thing I knew bodies were lying around me and a seat was on my back. The bus was full of dust and all I could hear were moans."

The young girl said her aunt, Marjorie Paugh, 14, also was a passenger on the vehicle and escaped with just minor injuries.

"All I could think of was whether my aunt was hurt or not" Mary Ellen said. "The first thing we did was to go to a telephone and call my grandmother and tell her we were all right."

The Itnyre girl, seated in the third seat behind the driver, escaped with a bad bruise on her left temple and a laceration on her leg.

Mary Ellen said she didn't know why someone didn't think to use the emergency exit. "Everyone tried to push the front door and there was a lot of pushing and shoving."

Mary Ellen also was concerned how the rest of the children will get to school now, and whether a new bus will be provided.

She said she hopes the school bus "won't have to cross railroad tracks any more on the way to school."

Boy Gets Off School Bus, Is Hit By Another

Donald Groves, 13, of Centerville, RD 3, was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries sustained when he was hit by a school bus after he had alighted from another school bus at Bedford Springs.

His condition last night was reported as "fair" according to police who said he suffered a fractured nose, concussion of the brain and upper lip laceration.

The boy had alighted from a bus driven by Ellis Nave of RD 3, Bedford, and walked around the front of the bus and ran into the path of another bus driven in the same direction by James R. Zembower of Bedford RD 3. Police said Zembower was unfamiliar with the passenger stop.

Company Restricts Water Consumption

The Klondike Water Company yesterday informed customers that water should not be used to wash cars or water lawns until further notice.

Company officials also urged customers to use water sparingly, as the reservoir was down to a two-day supply.

The company serving 131 families in Klondike, near Frostburg, plans today to cut in a well to boost the water supply.

Engineer Says

B&O in 1910 and became an engineer in 1916, said the track was straight for some distance before the crossing, but he pointed out that the engine was traveling east and the sun's glare in the engine cab made it difficult to distinguish objects at any distance.

"The rolling, pitching motion of the train (which the engineer said was traveling at 50 miles per hour) gives the impression that other objects are moving," he stated.

"It was some seconds after I saw the tail end of the bus on the tracks before I realized it was stopped. I had one hand on the whistle cord and the other near the brake when I knew the bus wasn't moving. I immediately closed the engine throttle and threw on the emergency brakes, but we just couldn't stop in time," the engineer said.

Was Watching Signals

Mr. Droege went on to explain part of the operation of the diesel engine, noting that he had to keep an eye on track targets or "running orders."

At the crossing where the fatal accident occurred, the train rounds a left hand curve some distance before it reaches the crossing. There is a signal block which gave him a clear-track-ahead reading; a telegraph office where messages are placed on a large outside board; and a track sign which signified a crossing ahead.

"It was some moments after rounding the curve before I could see the crossing," Mr. Droege said. "When I first saw the bus I thought it was crossing the tracks and as we were some distance away it did not immediately occur to me that there was trouble."

Because of the danger of injury to passengers or an accident with an emergency stop, Mr. Droege explained that he had to use his judgment in watching crossings to see if they are clear.

Didn't Know Bus Was Stalled

The engine's fireman, A. L. Holland, Hill Top Drive, apparently did not realize the bus was stalled on the crossing, Mr. Droege said, because he also has an emergency brake lever which was not pulled.

"We just braced ourselves and hung on before the train hit," the engineer said. "My immediate concern was for the approximately 400 passengers aboard the eight cars behind our three diesel units. If the train left the tracks it could have really been a mess."

Mr. Droege normally takes the Diplomat west from Keyser to Grafton and then makes the morning run back to Keyser. The train is due at the Mountain Lake — Loch Lynn crossing at 8:30 a. m.

"I'll remember this for a long time. I just hope nothing like it ever happens again," he added.

Crowds Still Mill Around Scene Of Crossing Accident

Several hundred persons were still milling around the scene of the terrible accident at Mt. Lake Park at dusk last night, just viewing in silence the remaining evidence of the wreck.

Very young and very old people, and parents with small children just walked up and down the railroad tracks at the site of the crash which claimed the lives of seven children and injured many others.

Railroad crews from the B&O cleaned up evidence of the tragic mishap, but small bits of paper from notebooks and parts of school lunches still were strewn about the site where the train rammed the bus.

Cumberland Races Shifted To Hagerstown Track Monday

State Racing Commission Orders Move

Horse Shortage Cause; Hub Card To Open Monday

The Cumberland Fair Association will not hold its 12-day race meeting which was to have started here September 14, it was announced last night by R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission.

Announcement was made by the state racing official after he was advised by J. Fred Colwill, Cumberland racing secretary, that less than 300 horses would be available for the 12-day session at Fairgo.

Mr. Livie informed the NEWS that Senator J. Glenn Beall, president of the Cumberland Fair Association, was advised that the commission will meet this morning to make the announcement official.

Move To Hagerstown

The state chairman stated that the Cumberland meeting will be transferred to Hagerstown, commencing Monday, September 14, and that will give the horsemen 24 days of racing in the Hub City.

President Beall, at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D.C., stated that "if we don't race at Cumberland it is purely because of the lack of cooperation and coordination on the part of Racing Secretary Colwill and the Maryland Racing Commission."

The fair association head said that one week ago he was advised by Colwill there would be ample horses going to Cumberland for the meeting which opens next week. Jay Mohr, who had charge of stabling of the horses here, advised Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, he had 400 horses slated for stalls at the local half mile track. Senator Beall added that yesterday he learned from Colwill that there would be less than 300 horses coming here and that would be insufficient to conduct a 12-day meeting of 96 to 99 races.

Chairman Livie stated that it would be unfair to the racing public to try to stage a meet with less than 300 thoroughbreds and he notified Cumberland not to attempt to run. He said the commission would not permit six races daily nor allow only five or six horses to run in a race as this would cut into the revenue which the state receives from racing.

Mr. Livie said the transfer was authorized under the commission's emergency clause powers because of a shortage of horses at the Cumberland track. Only 19 thoroughbreds were on the grounds, he said, primarily because of competition from nearby Charles Town.

Tried Other Tracks

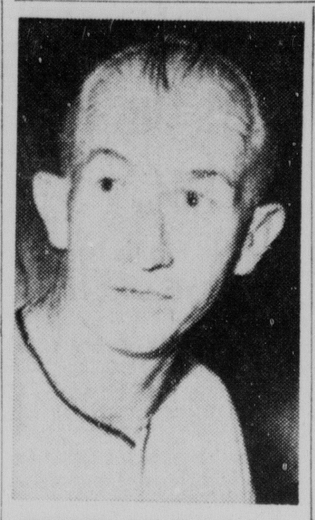
The chairman said efforts to shift the Cumberland dates to Timonium and Marlboro were unsuccessful. Timonium must operate as a non-profit track in conjunction with the state fair, he said, and Marlboro's facilities were unavailable because of a farm fair scheduled for the same time as the Cumberland meet.

The transfer of the races from Fairgo to Hagerstown marks the first time in 35 years that flat racing will not be staged at the local track which was opened as a harness course in 1924.

President Beall and General Manager Barton stated they were definitely opposed to moving the races but they had to abide by the decision of the Maryland Racing Commission.

Will Honor Tickets

The races in the Hub City will be under the banner of the "Cumberland Fair Association" and all tickets purchased and all passes distributed by the local association will be honored during the 12 days of racing which gets under way Monday at 1:45 EDT.



WARNED—Bill Rigney, manager of the San Francisco Giants, has received a third note warning him not to win any more games in the race for the National League pennant. Rigney said that "some crank" probably wrote the note. It was the third note he has received in recent weeks. "I didn't notify police but threw the notes into the wastebasket where they belonged," Rigney told newsmen.

Fort Hill And LaSalle Usher In Football Season Tonight

Campers Play Beall Eleven At Frostburg

Lattimer, Harden Will Make Debut As Head Coaches

Cumberland's 1959 football season will be ushered in tonight at the stadium where Fort Hill's Sentinels and LaSalle's Explorers will have the honor of kicking off the lid for the fourth straight year.

The lid-lifter will mark the debut of new head coaches at both local schools. For the first time since 1945 Fort Hill will have a new mentor in the person of Charles E. Lattimer, former University of Maryland center, and Bridgeport (W.Va.) High School coach, who succeeds William P. Hahn, now head coach at Wheaton High School in Montgomery County. Hahn made his debut at Fort Hill in 1942, was in the Navy in 1943, 1944 and 1945 when Mel Henry took over the Sentinels, returned in 1946 and remained at the Greenway Avenue school through the 1958 campaign. Paul Flick, one-time Martinsburg High athlete and coach at several high schools in recent years, is Lattimer's assistant.

Harden Makes Bow

LaSalle High's new head man is Don Harden, who was promoted from the post of assistant after Norman F. Geatz, Jr., stepped down at the close of the 1958 season. Geatz had tutored Explorer elevens for 7½ seasons. Harden's aide will be Harold "Buck" Shober.

Fort Hill, as usual, is the favorite in tonight's city contest over a school it has never lost to in football. In 26 games the Sentinels have won 25 and were held to a scoreless tie back in 1938. Since that one the Sentinels have reeled off 23 consecutive victories.

Fort Hill goes into tonight's game with the reputation of having gone undefeated in 20 consecutive games. In fact, the Sentinels haven't lost a game since late in the 1956 season when Front Royal, Va., turned the trick to the tune of 20-14. After that one Fort Hill beat Allegany, 20-0, posted a 10-0 record in 1957 and reeled off eight wins against a 6-6 tie with North Hagerstown last season.

Beall Hosts Allegany

Ed Schwarz, one-time University of Maryland varsity player, will be starting his second year at the helm when the Allegany Campers tackle Beall High School under the arcs at Beall High stadium.

Schwarz's first team at Campobello won seven and lost three in 1958 and the Campers hope to do as good or perhaps better during the coming campaign. Gerard "Jerry" Calhoun is at the Beall helm for the third season and his teams own an 11-8-1 mark for his first two years in the Mountain City, Beall's 1958 record was 5-4-1.

Four of the players slated to start for Beall were Mountaineer starters last season. They are Richard Linn and Jim Evans, backs, and Ralph Arnold and Chet Carter in the line. Keith Raines at guard is a transfer student who played two years of football in Pennsylvania.

Beall and Allegany are the oldest gridiron rivals in this section. Their first game dates back to 1909. The Frostburg school discontinued the sport for 25 years, came back in 1946, resumed hostilities with Allegany in 1947 and the Campers have reeled off 12 consecutive victories at the expense of the Mountaineers.

Fred Joyce, center, is the only 1958 regular in Fort Hill's starting lineup tonight.

Ridgeley Hosts Indians

Two Potomac Valley Conference games appear on today's slate. Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks launch their campaign by playing host to the Circleville High School Indians while the Moorefield High School Yellowjackets tackle the Highlanders of Southern High School at Oakland. Southern High will be making its first start under Coach Earl Adolphson who has coached at Wirt County High School, Elizabeth, W. Va., for the past five years. Southern's new mentor attended West Virginia University and West Virginia Tech.

Other Friday games are Romney at Charles Town, Franklin at Green Bank, Petersburg at Terra Alta, St. Francis of Morgantown, at Mountaineer High School, Thomas; North Hagerstown at York, Pa.; Westminster at Gettysburg and Everett at Bedford.

Hoyt Wilhelm Stops Indians

Yields Three Hits, Snags 14th Win, 6-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — The knuckle balls thrown by Hoyt Wilhelm of the Baltimore Orioles sent the soaring pennant hopes of the Cleveland Indians into a ground loop Thursday night with a 6-1 setback.

Wilhelm stopped the Indians on three hits. They scored their only run in the eighth with the help of record - tying passed balls by catcher Joe Ginsberg.

By contrast, the Orioles hit the Indians right where it hurts — their pitching corps. Third baseman Brooks Robinson, who drove in the first Oriole run in the fourth, added insult to injury when he homered in the eighth with two on base off the once-feared Herb Score.

It was only the fourth home run this season for Robinson.

The Indians averted a shutout by Wilhelm, who snagged his 14th victory against 11 defeats after being charged with three straight setbacks, without benefit of a hit.

Wilhelm gave his second walk of the game to George Strickland to start the eighth.

Ginsberg allowed two of Wilhelm's fluttering pitches go through him and permitted Strickland to reach third. He scored from there on an infield out.

The two passed balls by Ginsberg gave him four for the game, the same number which earlier this season tied him with three other catchers for the all-time record. One of the others is Gus Triandos who along with Ginsberg has helped Baltimore set an Oriole club record of 46 passed balls for a season.

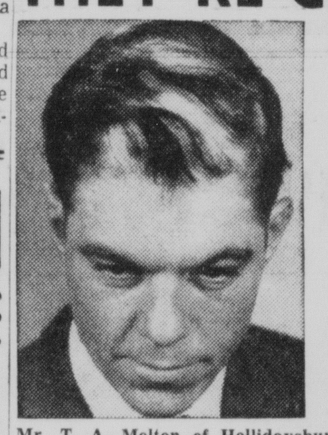
THEY RE-GREW HAIR



Mr. T. A. Melton of Hollidaysburg, Pa., (above) gave about 20 minutes of his time for a free Erickson Hair and scalp examination and re-grew his hair in only a few months.

Mrs. Virginia Barnes of Edwardsport, Ind., shows in the untouched photos above she re-grew her hair in a few months of Erickson Home Scalp Treatments.

Tomorrow, September 12 only, at the Fort Cumberland Hotel in Cumberland, Staff Director Mr. J. L. Thomas will give free hair and scalp examinations between 1 P.M. and 8:30 P.M. to hair-worried men and women. If you don't come within the scope of Erickson treatments—you will be told immediately.

Look at your hair in the mirror now. Is it starting to slip back at the temples? Getting thin on the top? Do you have dandruff? Is your comb and brush filled with hair? Is your hair oily or dry?

What are you going to do about it? Are you going to let yourself become bald? Or, will you take steps now to save your hair? Certainly, a good head of hair adds much to your personal appearance.

The new modern and proved Erickson treatment is designed to effectively overcome the major, local cause of thinning hair. The Erickson "know-how" is based on years of experience. Last year, alone, over a quarter-million Erickson home scalp treatments were used. Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been making regular visits to your state for seven consecutive years.

Personal supervision by the Erickson specialists makes it possible for you to gain maximum results in a short period of time. There is no such thing as a "cure-all" for all hair troubles. That's why Erickson first examines your hair and scalp free before recommending scalp treatments. Erickson guarantees you results or it costs you nothing.

12 MONTH GUARANTEE

You will be given a written guarantee for the length of treatment or 12 months, whichever is greater. Less than 3% of those who used the Erickson home treatment requested a refund in 1958. So, it's not a hit or miss proposition. If Mr. J. L. Thomas accepts you for the Erickson treatments which will be applied in the privacy of your own home, you will notice results quickly. The cost for Erickson treatments is usually less than imitators.

Remember, all you need to do is go to the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday only, and ask the room clerk for the room of Mr. J. L. Thomas. There is no charge or obligation. No appointment is necessary. Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists, the largest organization of its kind, returns regularly to your city. Fulfill your own desire to keep your hair. Turn over your worries to Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists.

Milwaukee Cops 5th Straight, Trails Giants By 2 Games

Aaron's 200th Hit Breaks Up Battle In 7th

McDaniel Gives Up Three Walks, Sets The Stage For Hank

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's surging Braves gained ground in the National League race Thursday as they extended their winning streak to five games by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 on a seventh-inning outburst featured by Hank Aaron's 200th hit of the season — a three-run double.

The victory pulled the Braves to within two games of the San Francisco Giants, defeated 5-3 by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Aaron, who contributed a single in a two-run first inning, cracked his decisive blow after the Cardinals scored three times in the top of the seventh to take a 4-3 lead.

Lindy Blows Up

Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel walked three straight after getting the first batter in the inning to set the stage for Hammerin' Hank, the major league batting leader with a .357 mark.

Aaron ran the count to two strikes and a ball, fouled off several pitches, then rapped a sharpliner that split the St. Louis outfielders in left center.

Hank continued to third on a bad throw to the infield and scored a few moments later as Johnny Logan came through with his third single.

McMahon Is Victor

The victory was credited to relief specialist Don McMahon — now 5-2 — who checked the Cardinals in the final two innings, although Bob Rush was the pitcher of record in the bottom of the seventh. Rush came in for starter Juan Pizarro with the bases loaded and two out in the top of the inning and promptly served up two singles in as many pitches for three runs. The side was retired on a brilliant play by Felix Mantilla, who went far to his left to throw out George Crowe.

Vernon Law Scores 16th Victory, 5-3

Bucs Rally In 7th, Defeat Antonelli

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pittsburg exploded with four seventh inning runs Thursday, beat San Francisco 5-3, gave Vern Law his 16th pitching victory and cut the Giants' National League lead to two games.

Until then, the Giants led 3-1 behind Johnny Antonelli on two solo homers by Willie Mays and another by Willie Kirkland.

Antonelli failed in his bid to become the first major league hurler to win 20 games this season as the Pirates collected five hits, two walks and third baseman Danny O'Connell came up with a costly error in the seventh.

Mays was playing with an injured little finger on his right hand. He jammed the knuckle in Cincinnati Aug. 7 and said it pains him but he doubts it's broken.

Although San Francisco collected 11 hits off the right-handed Law, who has lost nine times, he kept them spaced as the Pirates played errorless ball. The final threat by the Giants, when Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda led off the eighth with singles, ended with a double play.

The Pirates chased Antonelli with their four-run outburst after trailing 3-1 through six innings.

Bill Mazeroski walked. Hank Foiles singled him to second. Laws' sacrifice bunt failed as Mazeroski was thrown out at third, but Bob Skinner followed with a broken bat single over second, scoring Foiles.

Langton Breeze Takes Belmont Park Feature

ELMONT, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP) —Leading all the way despite the heavy impost of 162 pounds, Tower Hill Farm's Langton Breeze captured the 22nd running of the $16,575 New York Turf Writers Cup, feature of the opening day of the two-day United Hunts meeting at Belmont Park today, in track record time.

The 7-year-old son of Langton Abbot-Fierce Wind, ridden by young Tommy Walsh, nephew of trainer Mickey Walsh, stepped the two miles over 11 hurdles in 3:40 2/5, slicing a second and a fifth off the track record held by Policeman Day.

Langton Breeze sailed home four lengths to the good of Sanford Stud Farms' Sun Dog, who finished 12 lengths to the good of Arcadia Stables' Caste.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 15,009, Langton Breeze returned mutuels of $4.30, $3.00 and $2.60. Sun Dog paid $6.40 and $3.70 and Caste was $3.60 to show.

Langton Breeze earned a net purse of $10,598.75 for James McConnell of Red Bank, N.J., master of Tower Hill Farm.

Cubs And Reds Split Dual Bill

Chicago Wins, 6-3, After 10-4 Defeat

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs kayoed rookie southpaw Jim Bailey during a three run eighth inning and defeated Cincinnati 6-3 after the Reds rolled up a 10-4 triumph in the opener of Thursday's doubleheader.

It was the 24-year-old Bailey's first major league start. His brother Ed did the catching.

Jim yielded 11 hits, walked five and fanned four going seven and two-thirds innings.

After Tony Taylor singled and gave Chicago a 3-2 lead in the fifth, George Altman unloaded a bases' loaded double to climax the Cubs' closing spurt.

The doubleheader ended seasonal traffic between the two teams as the Reds gained a 13-9 advantage and padded their fifth place advantage to two games.

Kansas City Suffers 13th Loss In Row

Yankees Win, 12-1; Mantle Hits No. 28

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Terry pitched a four-hitter and Mickey Mantle had five straight hits, including his 28th homer, to lead the New York Yankees to a 12-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Thursday.

Terry allowed only one hit through the first eight innings, a bad bounce single by lead-off batter Russ Snyder in the first inning. The 23-year-old right-hander then retired 22 batters in a row before Kent Hadley reached on Elston Howard's passed ball after striking out in the eighth.

In the ninth, Snyder, Gerry Lumpe and Ray Jablonski hit safely before Bob Cerv bounced into a double play to end the game.

Mantle hit his home run in the first inning to tie the score at 1-1 and the Yankees continued to hit safely in every inning as they piled up 20 hits off four A's pitchers.

The Yanks put the game out of Kansas City's reach with three runs in the third on singles by Mantle, Howard, Hector Lopez and Gil McDougald, plus Marv Throneberry's sacrifice fly and an error by A's shortstop Joe DeMaestri.

The Yankees added five runs in the seventh on seven hits including a three-run homer by Tony Kubek.

The loss was Kansas City's 13th straight.

Fantastic Record

The National League has been keeping records on extra inning games only since 1951, but the 1959 Pirates have already broken the known-records for most overtime wins in a season. Through August, they can boast a fantastic 18-2 record in extra inning games. Previous known high for overtime wins was 16 by the 1957 St. Louis Cardinals.

113 Golfers Vie In Dallas Open Tourney

Snead And Hogan In $25,000 Event

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Defending champion Sam Snead and semi-retired Ben Hogan ruled as betting and sentimental favorites Thursday night on the eve of the $25,000 Dallas Open Golf tournament.

Presence of these two "occasional" visitors to the tournament trail plus that of all but one of the newly-named Ryder Cup team members gives the affair probably the flashiest field since the PGA and Open championships.

113 To Compete

About the only big names missing from the 113-player field were those of National Open champ Billy Casper, recuperating in California from a case of chicken pox, and Ryder Cupper Jackie Burke, who had to withdraw at the last minute because of his wife's illness.

Snead, the long-hitting West Virginian, caused somewhat of a pre-tournament stir by his complaints about being forced to defend his title here or fork over a $500 fine.

But, the Ryder Cup meeting, which requires personal appearance to assure selection to the team, helped sway the Slammer's decision. He was named to the team Tuesday for the ninth time.

Hogan, who limits his tourney appearances to a scant handful each year because of the pressure of running his club manufacturing firm, and Snead apparently haven't felt the effects of the infrequent competition. Both have been around par or better in practice.

Sam Won Last Year

Snead's favoritism stems from the fact he's won the Dallas crown the past two years, although he had to go an extra hole to snatch the first prize money out of a four way tie last year.

Snead, Julius Boros and Gary Player moved in to tie young John McMullin on the final round at 272 last year with sub-par rounds while the front-running pro rookie faltered to a four-over-par 74 over the Oak Cliff Country Club course.

Of this foursome, only Player isn't around to make another run at the layout, which has been revamped considerably since then.

Colt Fans Must Curb Enthusiasm

Friendship Airport Sounds Warning

BALTIMORE (AP) — Friendship International Airport warned Baltimore Colt fans Thursday they are going to have to curb their enthusiasm when welcoming home their National Football League champions.

"We love the Colts as much as anybody but there is no sense to all this rowdyism when greeting the returning players," said John O. Colonna, head of the City Department of Aviation.

Last Dec. 28, wild-eyed Colt fans all but tore the airport apart when the Baltimore team returned from winning the championship in a game with the New York Giants.

Colt players were wedged inside a bus while more than 30,000 noisy fans broke windows, climbed atop the bus and refused to permit it to proceed to Baltimore.

"I'll never forget that night," said Colonna, but his tone was not one of kind nostalgia. "There's absolutely no excuse for such tactics by Colt fans or anyone else, and they will not be tolerated in the future."

Mt. Savage Braves Make Series Sweep, Bag Playoff Title

Manager Elwood Kirby's pennant winning Braves also captured the playoff crown in the Mt. Savage Little League by beating the Pirates yesterday by the score of 5-4.

The win was the second straight for the Braves in the scheduled best-of-three series.

Robert Robertson's home run in the sixth inning was the margin of victory.

Boston Knocks Tigers Out Of 3rd Place, 7-3

Hands Frank Lary 10th Loss Of Year

BOSTON (AP) — Boston called on the one-two punch of Pete Runnels and Gene Stephens Thursday for a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Stephens' two-run double to the centerfield flag pole in the first inning and Runnels' looping single for two more in the second chased Tiger starter Frank Lary for his 10th loss instead of his 18th triumph.

Runnels, batting third in the order, collected another single and drove in another run on an infield out. Stephens doubled home a third tally in the fourth and also singled.

One of the high points of the game was Jackie Jensen's leaping catch against the right field wall that stole a home run from Gail Harris in the seventh inning.

Pumpsie Green accounted for the other Boston run when he tripled behind a Don Buddin single in the fourth.

Red Sox righthander Billy Monbouquette recorded his sixth victory of the year and enabled his club to break even with the Tigers on the season in their final meeting. It also dropped Detroit into fourth place behind the Yankees.

Barry MacKay Defeats Mark In Nationals

Ohio Player Moves To Quarter Finals

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILL, N.Y. (AP) — Barry MacKay rode his divot-digging service into the quarter-finals of the National Tennis Championship Thursday and confidently predicted: "I think I can go all the way."

The big fellow from Dayton, Ohio, overbalancing his 10 double-faults with 22 aces, smashed Bob Mark of Australia to the sidelines 6-4, 6-4, 9-7.

MacKay's explosive service — the best in amateur tennis — failed him onl once, that in the tenth game of the third set when he let down temporarily. But he bounced back to crack Mark in the 15th game and then hold with four thunderbolts in the 16th.

The 24-year-old Midwesterner Friday goes against his Davis Cup teammate, Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, the National Clay Court champion and unseeded dark-horse. But MacKay feels this is just a temporary obstacle.

"The way I'm playing I think I have a good chance—I have a feeling I can win the whole show," the good-natured giant said.

In the only other men's match, sixth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile breezed to a 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Dr. Edward Dailey of Harrisburg, Pa. The quick, scrambling South American was too steady for the tall young doctor, whose main weapon was a smashing service.

Maria Bueno, poker-faced Brazilian who won at Wimbledon and is favored here, survived a close squeak in the carryover match with Jeanne Arth, St. Paul, Minn., school teacher, finally iinning 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

She was joined by fourth-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., runnerup to Althea Gibson last year, and a pair of unseeded outsiders, 16-year-old Karen Hantze of San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Louise Brough Clapp of Pasadena, Calif.

The vicuna is the smallest of the camel family and has never been domesticated owing to its wild and active nature.

University Is Held Blameless In Lohr Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—The family of a University of Maryland football player who died four days after collapsing at practice held Coach Tom Nugent and his staff blameless Thursday.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president, also said he investigated the death of 19-year-old Charles (Sonny) Lohr and found nothing out of the way.

Elkins added, however, the university still is studying the circumstances in view of the report of a spectator at the practice who said Lohr collapsed while going through a prolonged workout under protest.

Robert D. Welshmer, 17, a football player at High Point High School in Beltsville, Md., said he saw Lohr kept on the field after the remainder of the Maryland squad was dismissed on Sept. 2.

He said Lohr fell three or four times during one drill but that, despite complaining "I can't do it," he was ordered by an assistant coach to continue.

Then, Welshmer said, Lohr staggered and finally collapsed while running to the locker room.

C.C. Snyder, uncle of Lohr, said members of the family "do not hold the University of Maryland responsible in any way."

Homewood To Play Maple Inn Today

The fourth game of the best-of-five final playoff series in the County Softball League will be staged between the Homewood Tavern Old Exports and Maple Inn today at 6 p.m., at Wellersburg.

Homewood Tavern can sew up the playoff crown by winning today's game but a Maple Inn victory would extend the series to the limit of five games.

The Old Exports won the first and third games, 5-0 and 4-0, and Maple Inn copped the second game, 13-11.

Umpires Selected For Pen-Mar League Playoffs Sunday

Umpires were named yesterday for the Pen-Mar Baseball League playoff games set for Sunday at Mt. Savage and Centerville.

Bill Wilson and Vic Reynolds will officiate in the Barrelville at Mt. Savage game and Bill Andrews and Russ Minnicks will handle the Hyndman at Centerville contest.

Barrelville and Hyndman won the openers in the best-of-three semi-final playoffs last Sunday.

If third games are necessary in either series the site will be determined by the flip of a coin and these contests must be played Wednesday, Sept. 16 or Saturday, Sept. 19.

Senators Top Chicago, 8-2

Pascual Is Victor, Killebrew Hits 40th

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators crushed the first-place Chicago White Sox, 8-2, Thursday night behind Camilo Pascual's four-hit pitching and home runs by Jim Lemon, Harmon Killebrew and Lennie Green.

Pascual struck out 10 en route to his 15th victory of the year and his job was made easier when all three Washington homers came with a man on base.

Killebrew's homer was his 40th, Lemon's his 29th and Green's his third.

Dick Donovan started and was kayoed in the third inning after Killebrew homered during a four-run rally. The 23-year-old Washington slugger now is tied for the major league lead in homers with Ernie Banks of the Cubs and Rocky Colavito of the Indians.

The Senators had lost 11 in a row and 16 of their last 18 to the White Sox before they turned on their tormentors Thursday night.

Rec League Teams Plan Collection For Barrett's Benefit

A collection will be taken up at the Rec Softball League playoff game today at Stitcher Field between the Ridgeley American Legion and the Sports Shoppe for the benefit of James "Mo" Barrett, pitching star of Post's Playground team who suffered a fractured right wrist while sliding into second base during Wednesday's playoff contest between the Old Germans and Post's.

Barrett had a 14-4 pitching record this season.

Manager Don Decker of Ridgeley and Co-managers Bob Carey and Lee Taylor of the Sports Shoppe agreed last night to have the collection taken up at today's contest.

The winner of today's "rubber" game, scheduled for 6 p.m., will play the Old Germans in a series for the league title. The Old Germans eliminated Post's Playground.

Ridgeley won the series opener, 11-2, the Sports Shoppe copped the second game, 5-4. Darkness halted Wednesday's game with the score knotted at 4-4 in the 7th inning.

Crowe Will Coach Buffalo Freshmen

Judy Eller Upset In Trans-Miss Golf

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Judy Kimball, a 21-year-old all-around athlete from Sioux City, Iowa, bounced national collegiate champion Judy Eller out of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Thursday at the Hot Springs Country Club.

National amateur champion Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., moved into the semifinals with an easy 5 and 4 triumph over Marcella Rose of St. Louis.

Joining her in the top bracket semi was Sherry Wheeler of Glasgow, Ky., who edged Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. of Indianapolis 1-up.

NO OTHER CITY CAN EQUAL
the TV sports programs this fall that Cumberland Cable TV will bring you

They include important playoff baseball games . . . world series . . . all the college and professional football games that will be televised from Pittsburgh, Washington, and Richmond . . . including all the professional football games played by the Redskins and Colts, including the home games. Also, all Notre Dame Saturday football games will be condensed into one hour and shown approximately twenty-four hours later.

There will also be a big assortment of all other types of sports . . . and don't forget that all the networks have promised big improvements in all their programming. So your TV set is really going to be busy if you have Cable TV.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy extended to us through the illness and death of our mother, Emma A. Cameron. We also wish to thank Rev. John McClain and the Presbyterian Choir. Thanks for the lovely floral tributes and to those who contributed in any way.

Children of:
MRS. EMMA CAMERON.

"I SAY, NOTHING ...BUT NOTHING can match the new CASE® POWER-TILTING DOZER"

You'll say so, too, when you see it ditching, road-crowning and clearing trees. You just flip a lever to drop one corner of the rugged Case® TerraTrac® bulldozer blade by hydraulic power — and PRESTO! Knife-like blade tip slices through hardpan, frozen ground, and tree roots — "like butter". 5 crawler models — from 42 to 100 HP.

SCHOOL DAYS WITH PROBLEMS SLATED—Mrs. F. H. Sanford sends her six graduated-in-size children (top) off to work for graduation from school as the fall term begins in Austin, Tex. Other back-to-school scenes were clouded with integration problems. Three bombs, one of which damaged the school board building (bottom, left), ignited public indignation in Little Rock, Ark., and the Chamber of Commerce offered a $25,000 reward for solution of the crimes. An effigy (center) was hung on the grounds of a school in Pine Bluff, Ark., after three Negroes were ordered admitted. Charlottesville, Va., quietly accepted 12 Negroes in two previously all-white schools. One boy appraises his white schoolmates (right).

Television and Radio
by John Crosby

Televised Torts

Back when I was a sprout, the ambition of any fledgling Blackstone was to grow up to be Clarence Darrow and defend sex perverts, preferably rich ones. But that's anachronistic, like aspiring to a Stutz Bearcat. Today, young lawyers, while grubbing away at routine tasks, dream secretly of having their own television show. There's nothing like habeas corpus on a national network with a sponsor and all that jazz.

Such a one, forsooth, is Edgar Allan Jones Jr., who deals in televised torts as the judge on "Day In Court," three afternoons and one evening a week on ABC-TV, and the rest of the time is a practicing professor of law at UCLA. A deceptively youngish-looking fellow, Jones sturdily defends his split personality—one foot in show business, the other in jurisprudence—by explaining that he has seven children with an eighth on the way and any device for earning money, even the practice of law, is forgivable with that many mouths to feed.

How did it affect his relations with his students at UCLA? "Students will always look on a professor as an oddball," sighed Mr. Jones. "This just adds another dimension." On "Day In Court," the cases are taken from actual legal cases with real attorneys who appear anonymously. The plaintiffs and defendants are actors who stick to their lines. The lawyers stick fairly close to theirs except when Jones throws them.

Jones appears cold without even having read the script or the case and picks his way through it, as a real judge might. "This gives ulcers to the actors and directors and producers. They've been trying to get me to read the cases but I simply haven't time. Besides I think it gives the show a little excitement when no one knows the outcome."

Theoretically, the trials are supposed to have been going on all day and the outcome is concentrated in the half hour on the air. "We do maintain a remarkable degree of authenticity," says Mr. Jones. "To research the cases, I use the top students of the law school. Five students split up the work and also divide up $250 a week. This is a lot of money to a law student and we actually get much better work than if we gave the $250 to a full-time lawyer."

The American Bar Association thinks highly enough of the show to give it its Gavel award for "outstanding public service by increasing public understanding of the administration of justice through the television series."

"My decisions are completely ad lib, based on just what I hear on the show" Jones points out. "Two-thirds of the time I reach the same decision as that of the original court. One-third of the time I don't. We have some interesting cases of law.

"We just had one on the right of privacy. An ex-con brought damages against a movie producer who did a movie on this man's life. In 1939 he had been put in prison for second degree murder and that put the story in the public domain. After he was released he went straight, got married and became an insurance agent. The movie upset his life terribly and consequently I found for him. So did the California court which originally tried the case."

Every Friday "Day In Court" features arraignments, usually five of them. If you watch a week from this Friday for example, you'll see Jones preside over the arraignments of a man accused of turning his pets into alcoholics,, a shoeshine boy accused of assault, and a father endangering the health of his child. "The viewers like the arraignments best. That way they get a capsule crime in four minutes – criminals come to the bench and plead guilty or not guilty. I stick to the facts of the case. I'm not going to jeopardize my law career to make it a good show. In fact if the show ever gets in the way of my real career which is the law, I'll quit."

Trainer Suspended, Doping Of Horse Is Investigated

NEW YORK (AP)—The trainer of the winner of a $50,000 Roosevelt Raceway race Friday night has been suspended pending further investigation of a report indicating the horse was doped. Robert A. Glasser, chairman of the newly created New York State Harness Racing Commission, Thursday announced the banning of Charles Fitzpatrick Jr., of Southern Pines, N. C., and Blue Hen Stable of Dagsboro, Del., owned by William F. Wilgus Jr., the estate of Charles Fitzpatrick Sr., Charles Fitzpatrick Jr., Herbert Calhoun and G. Harvey Tingle. All horses under Fitzpatrick's control also are suspended.

Drop Calcutta Pool

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Officials of the Tournament of Champions golf tournament Tuesday announced the discontinuance of the controversial calcutta pool.

The gambling game, which enabled spectators to bid for golfers and then share in the total betting pool, grossed a record $380,000 at last year's auction. But the well publicized betting activity drew criticism of some professional golf officials.

Queen's Horse Wins

DONCASTER, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's Agreement won the 2½ miles Doncaster Cup Thursday—the first horse to win the cup for the second straight year since Velocity in 1906 and 1907.

School Bus Toll Stays At Seven

11 Children Are Hospitalized After Train Strikes Vehicle

The death toll from yesterday's tragic Garrett County accident in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Diplomat crashed into a stalled school bus at the Mountain Lake Park crossing on State Route 135 still stood at seven children late last night.

Eleven other children from the Deer Park - Loch Lynn - Boiling Springs section of Garrett County were still hospitalized with varying injuries but only two of them were considered in critical condition.

Eight other youngsters and the bus driver, Leroy Campbell, 49, of Deer Park, were simply treated at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital at Oakland and released.

The dead:

Lee Hoffman, 11.
Nancy Lee Harvey, 12.
Shirley Lee, 12.
Richard Hinkle, 11.
Merle B. Harvey Jr., 11.
Nancy Deems, 14.
Janet Deems, 12.

Seven of the injured children, all girls, were patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Most seriously hurt of the seven was Patricia Ann Hinkle, 14, sister of Richard and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Hinkle. She was still unconscious last night. Two other patients there, Sandra Patton, 13, and Mary Lee, 16, were considered in satisfactory condition last night.

The other four hospitalized at Oakland were much less seriously hurt. They are Nancy Ringer and Deanna Sutton, 11, both in fair condition, and Mary Ellen Itnyre, 14, and Delores Shaffer, 11, both in good condition.

Two Critical Here

Two other children of Mr. and Mrs. Hinkle were still in "critical" condition late last night at Sacred Heart Hospital here, where they were brought yesterday morning by an ambulance from the Leighton Funeral Home. Olen Hinkle, who was 13 yesterday, sustained compound fractures of both legs, broken mandible bone in the face, deep lacerations of the face, scalp, legs and chest wall. James Hinkle, 12, sustained a broken nose, bad lacerations of the face, nose and left ankle and possible fracttured skull.

Frances Dixon, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, Boiling Spring, was described as being in satisfactory condition last night at Preston Memorial Hospital in Kingwood, W. Va.

Also hospitalized in West Virginia is Marjorie Byers, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Byers of Deer Park, who was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital at Clarksburg yesterday afternoon by Leighton's ambulance. She had a fractured hip and broken ribs and possible internal injuries and was considered in serious condition last night.

The crash occurred about 8:30 a. m. yesterday.

Bus Stalls On Tracks

Mr. Campbell told authorities that the bus which he owned stalled for some unexplained reason as he started across the tracks. When the flashing red light and bell started indicating the approach of the eastbound passenger train, the driver-owner attempted to get the children off the bus. But only a few got out in time.

Within minutes, ambulances, station wagons and cars were on hand. The injured children, who were en route to Southern High and Dennett Road Elementary schools, were soon transferred to the hospital at Oakland.

One of those who arrived at the scene soon after the tragedy was William H. Buchholtz, former Cumberland commissioner. He was en route to Kingwood at the time. He said bodies were scattered around like rags. He said the recue response was "wonderful," and one of the first on the scene was State Trooper Donald Tucker.

Mr. Buchholtz also talked to the driver before he collapsed from shock. Mr. Campbell told the local man that he got five or six off the bus after the engine conked out.

Otto Droege, 214 Park Street, was the engineer on The Diplomat. The train was traveling about 50 miles per hour when he spotted the stalled bus. He immediately applied brakes and the speed was down to 20 miles per hour at the time of impact.

Engineer Says Flares Could Avert Crashes

Didn't Know School Bus Was Stalled

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

The slightly stooped man with thinning grey hair ran his hand across his face and spoke in soft tones which belied the emotions he felt as he told how seven children died in a tragic train-bus collision yesterday morning at the Loch Lynn-Mountain Lake crossing in Garrett County.

This was Otto Droege, 65-year-old Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineer who was at the controls of the diesel-powered crack passenger train, "The Diplomat," which struck a bus loaded with 26 youngsters on their way to school at Southern Garrett County High School and Dennett Avenue School in Oakland.

"I never felt so helpless," the veteran of 46 years with the B&O said. "I knew we were going to hit that bus and just couldn't do a thing about it."

Mr. Droege, who lives with his wife at 214 Park Street here, continued, "If something will come out of this horrible accident which will benefit us in the future maybe it won't be as bad as it seems now."

Suggests Flares

Speaking quietly as he recalled the tragedy, Mr. Droege said, "If that bus driver had carried a red flare which could have been tossed on the ground I would have seen it a quarter of a mile farther from the crossing. Maybe I still couldn't have stopped in time but I know the engine would not have struck the bus with the impact it did. It is just a suggestion, but I think those school buses should be compelled to carry danger flares in case of emergency."

Mr. Droege, who went to the

Potomac Park Asks City For Fire Hydrants

A request for two hydrants to be used for fire fighting purposes was made to city officials last night by a Potomac Park citizens committee.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light assured the delegation the request will be granted unless it would create an engineering problem.

Members of the committee said they had no complaint about water service or rates but would like the fire plugs for emergencies.

The plugs are wanted this side of the Celanese plant and in the Fairgo section, the committee said.

Members said they asked the city to install the fire plugs a number of years ago but received no reply and decided the city was not interested.

The citizens group was told to contact Simon K. Carroll, city plumber, for estimates on the cost of the work and for details of the lines which serve the community.

The Citizens Committee of Potomac Park Addition was represented by Edward Brookman, E. M. Cornelius, E. W. Shaffer and H. C. Turner.

The City of Cumberland has a number of customers in the community, which has had a Citizens Committee unit for 12 years.

Bus In Which Seven Children Died

The crushed wreckage of a school bus, strewn about with books and notebook paper, tell the story of tragedy at the Loch Lynn-Mountain Lake Park crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on State Route 135 in Garrett County yesterday. Seven children, whose ages ranged from 10 to 14, died and 11 others were seriously injured when a B&O passenger train struck the bus after it stalled on a crossing. Among the dead were two sisters, and a brother and sister from another family. Two of the more seriously hurt were brought to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland.

Survivors Tell Story Of Train-Bus Crash

By CHARLES H. KELLY

P. TERRENCE BURKE

Two girls who were passengers on the school bus which was rammed by a B&O passenger train yesterday morning on the crossing at Mountain Lake Park gave a horrifying account of the tragedy when they were interviewed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital later in the day by reporters of The Cumberland News.

"I'm a lucky one," said 11-year-old Delores Shaffer, who was able to force a smile although her lips had been injured in the crash which claimed the lives of seven pupils and hospitalized 10 others. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Shaffer Sr., who live on a farm near Loch Lynn.

Delores was riding in the second seat on the right side of the bus and was chatting with other schoolmates when the bus stalled on the crossing.

She said it seemed the bus had stopped for only about a minute when the children heard the whistle of the approaching train and urged the driver, Leroy Campbell, to hurry.

Mad Scramble

But the driver was unable to get the bus started before the eastbound passenger was upon them. Meanwhile everyone panicked, said the little girl, who was unable to get out due to the mad scramble by others.

The pupils were "running over each other" in an attempt to get out of the bus, according to Delores, who said she couldn't get out. The train rammed into the bus, shoving it down the tracks.

Delores said she was caught in the door and "someone pulled me out of the bus." She said her two brothers who work in Oakland took her into the hospital. During the confusion she lost her pocketbook and shoes but did manage to find her school book.

She said she prayed and thanked God she was not seriously hurt. "I wish I would never have to go across another railroad track again."

"All I could hear after the crash was the moaning and groaning from the rest of the kids in the school bus after it was hit by the train."

Governor Calls For Full Probe Of Bus Crash

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes expressed shock Thursday at news of the Garrett County school bus accident. He called for a full investigation.

He was informed of the crash while at the Maryland State Fair and issued the following statement:

"I was shocked and distressed to learn today of the tragedy at Mountain Lake Park in Garrett County in which seven school children were killed and many others injured in a collision of a school bus with a train.

"My heartfelt sympathy goes out to the parents of the children who were killed and hurt in this terrible accident.

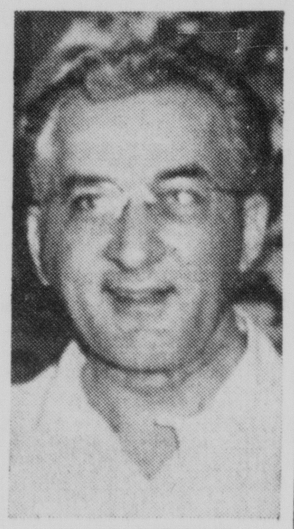
"I have asked for a full investigation and report to me from the State Police; from the Department of Motor Vehicles, which licenses and inspects school buses, and from the State Roads Commission, which has a vital interest in protective devices at railroad grade crossings.

"Responsibility for the accident must be determined precisely so that we may take whatever action is necessary to prevent a recurrence of the tragedy."

The governor also ordered the State Police to send a high-ranking officer to the scene to lend assistance and report to the governor. Capt. Charles McGaha of the Pikesville Barracks was designated, the governor's office said.

Boy Hurt While Playing

Larry Boggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Boggs, RD 3, Bedford Road, is a patient in Memorial Hospital, following an accident Thursday morning on Geppart School playground. Standing in back of a swing, the 7-year-old pupil was hit in the face, knocking out his front teeth.



FRANK MOLINARI

Local Tavern Operator Dies In Baltimore

Frank Molinari Jr., 59, manager of the Cadillac Cocktail Lounge here, died late yesterday afternoon in University Hospital, Baltimore.

He was born April 12, 1900, in Thomas, W.Va., a son of the late Frank and Josephine Santella Molinari Sr.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jane Roberts Molinari; two daughters, Mrs. William (Billie) Zeller, city, and Miss Diane Molinari, who is studying music in Baltimore; a brother, Harry Molinari, city, and a sister, Mrs. Michael Yantorno Sr., city.

Mr. Molinari made his home at 29 North Mechanic Street and was president of the company which operated the Cadillac Lounge at 25 North Mechanic Street.

He had been a resident of the city for most of his life. In 1932 he operated a tavern in Germantown, Pa., and later went to Miami, Fla., where he operated an apartment house.

He returned to Cumberland and went into business as the Cadillac Lounge on Baltimore Street in about 1942.

About four years later, he remodeled property on North Mechanic Street as the Cadillac Apartments and as the site of the present Cadillac Lounge.

He was a member of Cumberland Lodge 245, F.O. Eagles, and was active in sports such as bowling.

Garrett Hospital Disaster Plan Placed In Operation

A disaster plan which has been set up in Garrett County Memorial Hospital was put into operation yesterday morning when hospital officials first learned that a B&O passenger train had rammed into a school bus on the Mountain Lake Park crossing.

Henry W. McComas, who has been administrator at the hospital for about three years, said that on Tuesday he had conferred with Roy Harvey, hospital engineer, and informed him a "dry run" would be held in the very near future.

What was thought at first to be a "dry run" yesterday turned out to be the actual thing, said Mr. McComas.

After learning that the busload of children had been injured, Mr. McComas immediately got on the radio about 8:45 a. m. at the hospital and notified local doctors and police on the radio hookup.

Approximately 15 local and area nurses rushed to emergency bases, according to Mr. McComas, who said the seven resident physicians of the hospital were also notified.

Mr. McComas checked with the hospital laboratory and learned there was an ample supply of blood on hand for the emergency. Meanwhile many residents of Oakland and area came to the hospital for the purpose of giving blood.

Help Arrives

The city police were summoned and asked to block all entrances to the hospital grounds in order to keep curious people from hampering the efforts of doctors and ambulance drivers.

Mr. McComas called Broaddus Hospital in Philippi, W. Va. which responded by sending three doctors and an ambulance. The Preston County Hospital in Kingwood sent an ambulance and three doctors to Oakland and Terra Alta sent two doctors and an ambulance.

Someone else called Grantsville and Kitzmiller, which also sent ambulances. Mr. McComas called the Hopemont Sanitarium near Terra Alta and requested additional X-ray equipment.

Within an hour some of the doctors and ambulances from faraway sections were at the Oakland hospital, said Mr. McComas.

Some time ago, personnel had received copies of the disaster plan inaugurated by the hospital. Yesterday's tragedy proved the plan to be worthwhile, and it paid off.

Commends Helpers

As each child was taken into the hospital a disaster tag was placed on his or her wrist. Pertinent information is included on the tag, according to Mr. McComas, who said the injured were interviewed by the doctors who determined the severity of their injuries.

Mr. McComas commended the residents of Oakland and area for their cooperation and said the hospital personnel, doctors and nurses and others did a "wonderful job for a country hospital."

A third-floor solarium into which oxygen can be piped was placed in operation yesterday and beds were set up to care for some of the pupils.

Mr. McComas pointed out the hospital has 54 beds, although solariums on the second and third floors can be converted into wards to accommodate up to 10 patients.

Rail Crossing Safety Devices To Be Checked

BALTIMORE (AP)—The chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission Thursday ordered an inventory of protective devices at all railroad grade crossings on state highways.

Chairman John B. Funk said he hopes the investigation will contribute toward any plan that may avert another tragedy like the train-bus crash which killed seven school children in Garrett County.

Funk issued his statement after Gov. Tawes called for a full investigation of the accident by State Police, the State Roads Commission and the Department of Motor Vehicles, which licenses and inspects school buses.

The governor said "responsibility for the accident must be determined precisely so that we may take whatever action is necessary to prevent a recurrence of the tragedy."

Funk said a preliminary check showed there are 42 grade crossings on the state highway system, excluding those on little used sidings. He said all of these crossings are protected by automatic gates, light and bell devices or watchmen.

But he said he has ordered a complete inventory of the crossings to determine how many have each type of protective device. He said the commission will also consider the cost of erecting automatic gates at all crossings.

Funk said the SRC also will collect such information as the traffic count at each crossing, the number of trains using each crossing each day, the distance motorists can see down the tracks at each crossing and the distances trains are from the crossings before the warning devices begin to operate.

The crossing where the Garrett County crash occurred is on a state road. It is marked by a flashing light and bell, and railroad officials said the signals were operating at the time of the accident.

$649,750 Total For Building Is Year's High

August Figure Is County's Best

August was the best 1959 month for total estimated cost of construction authorized by building permits issued by the Allegany County assessment department.

Last month there were 40 building permits issued at the Court House and the total estimated cost of construction was $649,750. That August total sent the total for eight months of 1959 to $2,050,395. The previous one-month high this year was $516,500 in April.

The number of August permits was below three other months, April with 68, June with 51 and March with 42.

In August 1958 there were 39 permits and the total estimated cost of construction was only $209,475, some $440,275 less than the total for last month.

During the first eight months of 1958 there were 286 permits, six more than the 280 for the same period this year. The total estimated cost of construction was $3,693,184 for the first eight months of last year, some $1,642,789 more than the figure for eight months this year.

The one whopping permit which dwarfed all others in 1958 was in May for the $2,308,254 waste treatment plant to serve the needs of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

Last month, the principal permit was for an 81,600 square foot warehouse in Election District 31 for West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. It will be constructed along Route 135, the Westernport-McCoole Road, and will be capable of handling 10,000 tons of finished paper products from Luke. There was no estimated cost of the project at the time the permit was obtained.

The 40 August permits authorized construction in 22 different election districts of the county. The leaders were District 16, North Branch, and District 29, LaVale, each with five permits. Next were Districts 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings, and 20, Corriganville-Ellerslie, with four permits each.

Other districts with more than one permit last month were District 13, Mt. Savage, three; District 4, South End suburban, and District 5, North End suburban, two each.

There were single permits for Districts 1, Little Orleans; 2, Oldtown; 6, West Side suburban; 8, Westernport suburban; 9, Barton; 10, Lonaconing suburban; 11, Frostburg suburban; 12, Frostburg suburban; 18, Midland suburban; 22, East Side suburban; 24, Eckhart; 25, Pekin; 26, Frostburg suburban; 30, Zihlman, and 31, McCoole.

Eighteen of the 40 permits were for new dwellings and 11 others for additions to dwellings. There were two for garages and one each for chicken house, warehouse, apartment over garage, apple storage, motel swimming pool, garage and apartment, enclose porch, stable and trailer court.

Funds Will Tide City Over Until Taxes Come In

The City of Cumberland will not have to borrow money this year to meet operation expenses until taxes begin to come in.

Actually, it has been about 10 years since the city has had to resort to borrowing for general purposes during the three-month interval between the July 1 opening of the fiscal year and the start of tax collections.

Authority for borrowing has been secured several times to be on the safe side.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday said there will be no need to borrow, as the current balance is enough to tide the city through this month.

The preparation of tax bills is well under control, and the bills are slated to be mailed by September 17.

Actually, money has been rolling in splendidly, both because of payment of corporation taxes (which are mailed out as assessments are provided by the state) and from early payments of city taxes by people who plan to go on vacation and wanted to get the bills out of the way.

Ike Challenges Khrushchev

Eisenhower's Unbeaten Veto String Broken

Perfect Mark Comes To End On Works Bill

Third-Try Housing Measure Is Sent To White House

WASHINGTON (AP)— Congress snapped President Eisenhower's unbeaten veto string Thursday to give Democrats a resounding late-inning victory.

With heavy Democratic majorities in control, the House and Senate overrode Eisenhower's veto of a second pork barrel public works money bill—the first time they've been able to enact legislation over a veto in the more than 6½ years of his presidency.

At the same time, the House completed congressional passage of a third-round housing bill shaped to meet most of the objections that caused Eisenhower to reject two earlier bills in this field. Both those vetoes stood up. The President is virtually certain to sign this third-round bill.

These developments came as Congress moved ever closer to adjournment of a session that began eight months ago.

Congressional leaders aimed to wind up work next Monday if possible. But the threat of a possible all-out battle over civil rights hung over these plans.

Ike's Veto Score: 145-1

Even with Thursday's setback, Eisenhower had an impressive 145-1 veto score over Congress, which has been dominated by the opposition Democratic party for all but two of his years in the White House.

The House acted first on the public works bill by a 280-121 roll-call vote—12 votes more than the two-thirds majority required to override.

The result was greeted in the House by an exuberant burst of cheering from the Democrats and silence from the Republican side.

Less than two hours later, the Senate completed the overriding action by a 72-23 vote, or eight more than two-thirds.

Unlike the House, there was so applause or other demonstration in the staid Senate, although a patter of clapping was heard from packed spectator galleries.

Only last week, the House—by a single vote—upheld Eisenhower's veto of an earlier public works bill carrying funds for hundreds of navigation, flood rontrol, rerlamation and other projerts all over the nation.

Disputed Projects Retained

The bill passed over Eisenhower's veto totals $1,185,309,093 — about 30 million dollars less than the earlier version. But it retains 67 new projects Eisenhower opposed—the same 67 projects which moved him to reject the previous bill on grounds it would open the way to massive spending in future years.

By contrast with the dramatic action on the public works bill, the billion-dollar compromise housing measure was passed by the House on a perfunctory voice vote. The Senate had passed it 86-7 Wednesday.

The compromise, less expensive than the two earlier measures Eisenhower rejected, furnishes authority for a variety of government housing programs. A key section gives the Federal Housing Administration another eight billion dollars in authority to insure home mortgage loans.

One important piece of business yet to be disposed of by Congress is a bill to allow a higher interest rate on series E and H savings bonds.

Senate-House conferees met for an hour Thursday in an effort to compromise differences, but afterward House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) said it looks to him like an impasse, at least at this point.

Bob Kennedy Quits Probe Counsel Post

Racketeer Hunter Takes Parting Shot At Teamster Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy resigned as chief counsel of the Senate Rackets Committee Thursday with a parting shot at his long-time adversary, Teamster President James R. Hoffa.

In a letter to Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), Kennedy said the purpose for which the committee was created in 1957 has been "fruitfully realized" with the recent passage of the labor reform bill.

Therefore, he said, he was stepping down from the job which propelled him into the limelight as a relentless hunter of racketeers in the labor - management field.

Move No Surprise

The resignation came as no surprise. Kennedy had indicated for some time he would leave the committee when Congress adjourned this year.

The committee itself has completed its work except for filing reports and other administrative chores. McClellan announced Wednesday that no more public hearings were planned before the group officially disbands next January.

Kennedy told McClellan he believed the committee's exposures of corruption, along with passage of the reform bill, would bring about "marked improvement in the labor-management picture."

Labor Takes "Forceful Action"

"The labor movement itself," he said, "has taken forceful action where it has had the opportunity to rid itself of racketeers and crooks."

"It is regretful," he added, "that this action by organized labor has not been matched by either organized business groups or bar associations."

Kennedy took out hard after the Teamsters. Of all the unions whose activities came under the committee's scrutiny, he said, "only in the Teamsters Union did there seem to be a reluctance to clean up."

Senators Urge Ike Act To End Steel Stoppage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Republican senators urged President Eisenhower Thursday to set a one-week deadline for ending the steel strike and then set up a fact-finding group to recommend a settlement.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) advanced the joint suggestion amid a flurry of Senate statements voicing concern over the 58-day walkout which now has set a post-war record.

Javits and Aiken said that unless there is a settlement, or "at least very real progress," a fact-finding committee should be set up a week from Thursday to make recommendations and narrow the issues toward settlement.

They had suggested earlier that Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell make public material he gathered as a personal fact-finder for Eisenhower. That suggestion was followed by the administration.

Aiken and Javits said the reaction of steel labor and management to Eisenhower's latest call for realistic bargaining must become "far more responsive and fruitful" if a national emergency is to be avoided.

They said their plan would be preferable to the "unwise" step of invoking the Taft-Hartley Act. The 80-day cooling off period provided by the act, they said, offers no reason to hope that the strike would not be resumed afterward.

"We feel that positive action must be taken now to avert the national emergency which could so severely affect employment and production levels throughout the entire U.S. economy and also the use of the Taft-Hartley 80-day injunction," the senators' statement said.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that the walkout had idled about 145,000 workers in primary metals, railroading, construction and coal mining. Officials said the number could be expected to rise if the strike continues.

Pair Charged In Bombings

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — E. A. Lauderdale, 48, a lumber dealer and one of two men charged with setting off three Labor Day dynamite explosions, was freed Thursday on $50,000 bond.

Property bonds were posted with Municipal Court Clerk James L. Verhoeff by five friends and neighbors of Lauderdale, a citizens councilman.

Lauderdale, J. D. Sims, 33, a truck driver and Ku Klux Klan member and Jesse Raymond Perry, 25, a truck driver, were arrested Wednesday.

Sims and Lauderdale were charged under an 1895 law against using explosions to destroy public property. Perry is being held only as a suspect in the explosions.

Three blasts went off in rapid succession late Monday night, wrecking an office in the school board building, heavily damaging the private office of Mayor Werner C. Knoop in the headquarters of the construction firm of which he is president, and ripping apart a city-owned station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

10 Brass Bands, Ike Will Welcome Khrush To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ten brass bands and President Eisenhower will welcome Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States next Tuesday.

Soon thereafter, the No. 1 Russian will be whirling around the country making speeches and seeing the sights.

An official schedule was released Thursday covering the first eight days of Khrushchev's visit—to Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Des Moines.

A later itinerary will be issued for his visit to Pittsburgh, and a second stay in Washington.

The schedule made it plain that for the first part of his trip at least, Khrushchev doesn't intend to visit the big industrial plants and defense installations which might be presumed to give him an idea of America's power. He may yet do this, however, at Pittsburgh.

When Khrushchev's big jetliner sets down at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland next Tuesday morning, he and his party will be greeted by Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Mrs. Nixon.

As he drives through Washington to the President's guest house, the Soviet Premier may see some spectators wearing black arm bands in silent protest against his visit.

A group of objectors, formed into an organization called the Committee for Freedom of All Peoples, is working up such a display, its officials said.

Would-Be Bank Robbers Give Up In Disgust

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—A pair of would-be bank robbers held two families hostage all Wednesday night and failed in their ambitious plan for holding up a bank because they just couldn't seem to do anything right.

They started out by firing a shot accidentally as they took over the home of a bank official, then let three teen-age guests go home, and finally threw in the sponge when they found their getaway car, parked several blocks away, was missing.

The car had been towed in for safe keeping by police who found a bottle of gin in the seat and the key in the ignition.

The foray ended with one would-be robber driving off Thursday in his intended victim's car and the other asking his unwilling hosts to call the police.

The man who surrendered said he was Clifford William Le Gate, 41, Raytown, Mo., and that this was his first attempt at crime. He identified his fleeing companion as Al Jones, 22, alias Chuck Jones, a hitchhiker he had picked up nine days ago.

First, they entered the home of Rex Carter, vice president of the Bank of Carthage, and threatened him and his family. Three high school companions of Connie Carter, 15, were sent home with orders not to disclose what had happened. They complied.

While one of the men stood guard, the other took Carter to the home of Mills Anderson, president of the bank. Anderson and his wife were then brought at gunpoint to the Carter home.

Here all five of the hostages were herded into a bedroom.

"They threw blankets on the floor and told us to lie down, that we had all night to wait because they were going to rob the bank when the vaults opened at 8 o'clock this morning," Mrs. Carter reported.

Shortly after midnight the bandits found the car was gone, and one informed Carter their plans had been crossed up as a result.

Several hours later Le Gate came into the bedroom and told the hostages: "Well, it's all over. Chuck has taken your car and gone. I gave him his choice."

With that he handed over a shotgun and a pistol and told Carter to "take them and call the sheriff."

Nehru Says China Can't Shove India Around In Dispute

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday Red China can't push India around in their frontier dispute, but "I will always try to find a way to a peaceful settlement."

Against the backdrop of a bristling exchange of charges of aggression which the Soviet Union has urged the two to settle peacefully, the Indian leader offered one concession to the Peiping government of Premier Chou En-lai.

Nehru said he is prepared to agree to make Longju a no man's land—cleared of the forces of both sides—until its position is clarified by negotiation.

Longju is the isolated post which Chinese soldiers seized two weeks ago in a skirmish with Indian border guards. The Chinese have warned India against trying a counterattack.

"The matter is serious because I do not know how the Chinese mind is working," Nehru said. "We must try for all peaceful, cooperative methods of settlement while remaining careful and vigilant."

India's government laid before Parliament official notes that had been exchanged between New Delhi and Peiping over the past five years on the frontier quarrel, which springs from differences that started while Britain ruled India and conservatives ran China before World War I.

Each side accused the other of aggression and demanded that the other withdraw its forces from disputed areas.

At the heart of the trouble is a mapping problem.

Red China's maps show as Chinese thousands of square miles of Himalayan territory that India has administered for decades. The Chinese, for instance, claim nearly half of the area's 35,000 square miles.

Red China apparently is seeking to bully India, Nehru said. But he dismissed as silly any notion the Chinese can shove India about.

"It sometimes seems as if China is acting like some 19th century nation in their pride and arrogance, ignoring the rest of the world," Nehru said. "They value India's friendship only at a very low estate in the final analysis. We value theirs and will continue to value it."

Parliament members cheered when Nehru declared India will maintain a "nonaligned foreign policy" in East-West affairs, regardless of the Chinese attitude.

Russian Name Causes Mixup

MOSCOW (AP) — Requests for information about the people who will accompany Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States are causing complications here.

Soviet officials are wholly unaccustomed to publicity about relatively obscure personalities.

A case in point is the matter of identification of one man listed among those in the Premier's touring party. The name is Vinogradov.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry telephoned to correspondents a list identifying this man as Vladimir Vinogradov, and said he was accompanying Khrushchev as his physician.

The U.S. Embassy later told correspondents this looked like a mistake. Their information was that a V. M. Vinogradov scheduled to make the trip was not a doctor but an expert on trade with the West.

Reporters were informed the Foreign Ministry has no information on Dr. Vinogradov's background or his post.

There is, at the moment, no way of confirming here that the Vinogradov involved is the distinguished doctor arrested in 1952 in the "doctors' plot" in which Stalin insisted a group of doctors plotted to assassinate him. The plot was denounced officially after Stalin died. Dr. Vinogradov, now 77, was released from prison.

U.N. Unit Backs Big Four Plan For Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) —The U.N. Disarmament Commission Thursday voted a unanimous welcome to the Big Four plan to resume arms talks in a new 10-nation body in Geneva early next year.

The action came after a threat-end small-nation attack on the proposal was averted by intense diplomatic efforts behind the scenes. The vote brought to an unexpected close a meeting of the 82-nation disarmament commission. It had been expected to last two or perhaps three days.

The resolution which won the solid support of the commission was sponsored by seven nations. It welcomed the decision of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France to set up a new committee for the next round of arms talks, but declared the primary responsibility for disarmament rested with the U.N.

Original reports of the Big Four plan last month touched off widespread criticism. Many countries felt that the new committee lacked proper links with the U.N. and failed to provide adequate geographic representation.

Representatives of each of the four big powers sought to reassure the Disarmament Commission. They all stressed the ultimate responsibility of the U.N. for disarmament decisions.

Federal Reserve Board Ups Discount Rate To 4%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board Thursday authorized eight Federal Reserve banks to raise their interest rates on loans to commercial banks from 3½ per cent to a new 27-year high of 4 per cent.

The hike, which was designed to tighten up credit, had been expected since last week when the commercial banks raised their basic interest rates to 5 per cent.

The commercial banks' action was not made in anticipation of the reserve board's move. However, the increase to 4 per cent was not expected to lead to any further boost in the rate the commercial banks charge their borrowers.

The eight reserve banks affected by the board's order are those in New York, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas, San Francisco, and Kansas City. The new 4 per cent rate is effective Friday.

The other four federal reserve banks were expected to follow suit and make similar increases in their rates in the near future.

A board spokesman said the increase was authorized in the light of recent financial and economic developments. In recent weeks, bank loans have stood at or near record levels.

The last time the rate was as high as 4 per cent was in 1932. Prior to that, it was 6 per cent in 1929 and 7 per cent in 1920-21.

The board in recent years has used its interest rate on loans to commercial banks to restrict credit and discourage spending. It has felt that these moves tend to curb inflation by limiting price increases.

Constructive Ideas Would Be Welcomed

President Urges Americans Receive Mr. K With Courtesy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Thursday night called on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to bring constructive suggestions for settling East-West problems with him on his trip to the United States next week.

The President told a nationwide television-radio audience that serious exploratory efforts in his Washington talks with Khrushchev could lead to a Big Four summit conference.

Sincere preliminary efforts, Eisenhower said, "may reveal new opportunities for practical progress toward removal of some of the causes of world tensions."

If the Soviet leader comes to the United States with constructive ideas and suggestions, that could provide the basis for later responsible negotiation on the issues, Eisenhower said.

The chief executive said his talks with Khrushchev will not include any negotiation concerning subjects that relate directly to Allied or other free world interests.

The President sounded a new appeal—against the background of criticism in some quarters of his invitation to Khrushchev — that the American public receive the Kremlin chief courteously.

No Sellout Of Principle

The President said that if Khrushchev' visit brings him some real appreciation of the American spirit and principles, "then indeed the venture would be a thousandfold worthwhile."

From his standpoint, Eisenhower pledged that "no principle or fundamental interest will be placed upon an auction block" at the conferences.

As for the possibility of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks leading to an East-West summit meeting, the President asserted that any agreement regarding such a session "must be based upon the certainty that our status and rights be respected."

Eisenhower said further: "In addition, we believe there must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions."

As for his Washington talks with Khrushchev starting next Tuesday, the President said: "It is my profound hope that some real progress will be forthcoming, even though no one would be so bold as to predict such an outcome."

Calls For Constructive Ideas

Eisenhower called on Khrushchev to come up with constructive ideas and suggestions. He said such "could provide the basis for responsible negotiation on the issues that divide us," and that the United States would "welcome the opportunity to study them with our allies."

A good part of Eisenhower's 15-minute talk was a report to the American people on the 13-day visit to Europe he completed last Monday.

He conferred abroad with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, French President Charles de Gaulle and other Western leaders.

"With them," Eisenhower said, "we reaffirmed our unity on fundamental issues and in support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

As for the Khrushchev visit to the United States, which will include a trip across the country and back, Eisenhower set forth his reasons for extending the invitation—a bid which has touched off sharp criticism in some quarters.

The President gave these specific reasons for inviting the Soviet leader—and said he had also explained them to leaders of the Western Alliance in Europe:

"First, to give him the opportunity to see what America and Americans are like; to let him see and feel a great and thriving nation in real freedom.

"Second, to give him, face to face, the major convictions of our people on the major issues of the day, including West Berlin, and to hear from him directly his own views on those issues."

Prince Edward County, Va., Dodges School Integration

FARMVILLE, Va. (UPI)—Rural Prince Edward County, one of the original defendants in the Supreme Court's historic desegregation decree, Thursday opened a makeshift school system for all of its white students as a last resort against integration.

Almost simultaneously, three all white high schools in southwest Virginia were told to admit Negroes for the first time by next Jan. 25.

Federal District Judge Roby C. Thompson ruled at Roanoke that Floyd County must accept 14 Negroes in its two high schools and Galax was told to enroll a Negro girl in its only white high school.

Limited integration, dodged successfully in Prince Edward County for more than five years, proceeded quietly in Charlottesville, Arlington, Alexandria, Front Royal and Norfolk, Va.

Some 1,500 whites were assigned to classes in churches and civic buildings throughout Prince Edward which chose to close all 21 of its public schools rather than to bow to a final federal court order to desegregate this month.

The action, accomplished by shutting off county funds, left 1,700 Negro students without public schools. A Negro leader said he fears juvenile delinquency will increase among the children of his race.

The Rev. L. M. Griffin, a Baptist minister who serves as coordinator of the NAACP here, said a drive will be made for funds to send as many Negroes as possible to schools in other areas.

Griffin said the Negroes would make no attempt to run their own private system because they considered it a "compromise" in their long fight for integration in the tobacco-growing county, about 50 miles west of Richmond.

Prince Edward was one of the five original defendants in the 1954 Supreme Court ruling. It lost one legal battle after another until finally an appeals court ordered desegregation to begin this month.

10 Japanese Trapped In Quarry Collapse

SANAGE, Japan (UPI) —Rescue squads worked desperately Thursday to reach 10 Japanese workers entombed 120 feet below the surface in a clay quarry when the wall of a vertical shaft collapsed.

The wall, weakened by recent heavy rains, caved in early Thursday. The trapped men reported through a ventilation tube that all were alive. Then another cave-in cut off further communication.

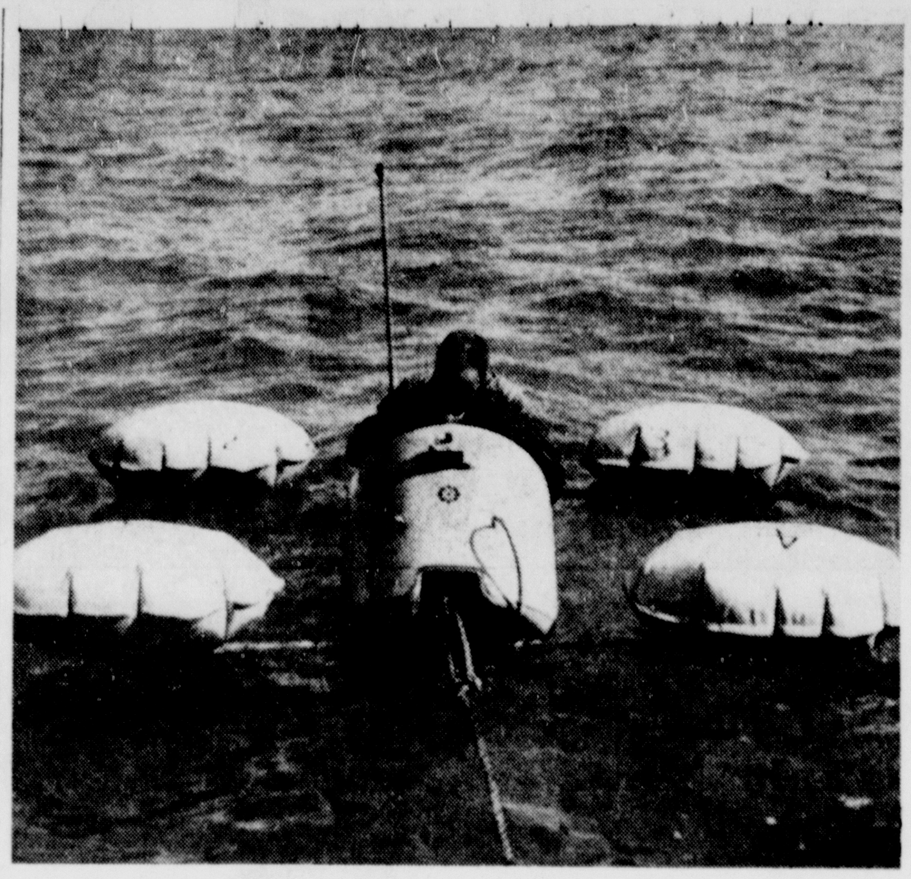
More than 100 workers were engaged in the rescue operations.

Rapist Appeals

BALTIMORE (AP) — Clifford Hazel, 25, Thursday appealed the rape conviction under which he was sentenced to death.

Hazel was convicted of raping a Baltimore housewife last April. He appealed as a pauper and asked appointment of counsel.

His appeal will cancel the execution scheduled for the week of Oct. 5.



ESCAPE CAPSULE TESTED—T/Sgt. Jimmy Graves of the Air Research and Development Command, is shown as he started a three-day test of a new escape capsule off Key West, Fla. The Defense Dept. said in releasing this photo that he completed the test at 5 p. m. edt yesterday. He subsisted on capsule-contained survival rations for the 72 hours. The spherical, wedge-shaped capsule uses inflated bladders on the booms to provide stability. It is designed for escape from a high speed aircraft. The Defense Dept. lists Graves as being from Harriman, Tenn., and Fairborn, Ohio. (U.S. Air Force photo via AP Photofax)

Moldmakers, Glass Plants Still Deadlocked

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A federal mediator said Thursday he is not too optimistic about the chances of an agreement being reached soon in new contract negotiations for some 2,000 moldmakers employed in 80 glass plants across the country.

"The situation at this moment does not look too optimistic for a settlement," said Federal Mediation Commissioner William Rose.

Rose held joint talks with the American Flint Glass Workers Union and representatives of 26 glass container manufacturing firms involved in the negotiations. He said separate sessions with both sides were on Thursday night's agenda with joint talks slated to resume Friday.

Shortly before the old contract expired at midnight on Aug. 31, the industry and union agreed to extend the contract on a day-by-day basis and pledged 24 hours notice before any work stoppage. The negotiations resumed Wednesday following a recess.

"Nothing has changed the positions of the parties from that which they were in prior to the 11th hour recess on Aug. 31," Rose said.

He added that no 24-hour advance notice of work stoppage has been given.

Chief stumbling blocks to a settlement are wages and weekend working rules. The union already has rejected a company offer of an 8½-cent-an-hour wage hike. Moldmakers earned an average of $2.80 an hour under the old pact.

Governor Calls For Public Help In Safety Drive

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes Thursday night called for "constant vigilance and dogged determination" in promoting safety on Maryland highways, in homes and at work.

Tawes said this is a main objective of his administration "and to accomplish it I will need the cooperation of all the people."

The governor, speaking to the Safety-Health Conference, warned that state officials and the public must refuse to become callous or complacent over "the sheer repetitiousness" of accidents.

Tawes noted two major traffic safety laws have been passed since he took office—a point system for revoking driver's licenses and chemical tests for persons suspected of drunken driving.

The effective date of the point system has been delayed until 1961, for administration purposes. Tawes said police agencies are now preparing to administer chemical tests in drunk-driving cases.

"We think that both laws will assist us in reducing highway accidents, although it is too early to make an assessment of their true value," Tawes said.

He noted that other proposals are being studied by a special Legislative Council committee. They include driver education in high schools, annual inspection of vehicles and periodic renewal of driver's licenses.

"I have no advance knowledge of what this committee expects to recommend," the governor said, "but I can assure you that its proposals will be given the most careful consideration by me and the General Assembly when it convenes next February."

More House Seats For Larger Counties?

BALTIMORE (AP)—A plan to give Maryland's four largest counties more seats in the House of Delegates was reported Thursday night to have received tentative approval by a special study commission.

The commission, appointed by Gov. Tawes and headed by William C. Walsh, met in a downtown Baltimore hotel Thursday afternoon. Newsmen were excluded from the session.

An informed source later reported the group had approved a plan under which additional House seats would go to Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. Representation in the Senate would remain the same—one seat for each county and Baltimore City legislative district.

The commission is scheduled to report its recommendations to Tawes in time for the possible drafting of legislation for the 1960 General Assembly.

Steel Strike Puts Brake On Unemployment Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The 58-day-old steel strike put a brake on the decline in unemployment last month, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The number of Americans without jobs dipped by 318,000 to 3,426,000. This was considerably short of the normal seasonal decline which would have cut the jobless total by about 568,000.

The department blamed layoffs resulting from the prolonged steel walkout and from retooling for model changes in the auto industry for the sluggish drop.

Seymour Wolfbein, the department's job expert, said that if the steel strike drags on into October, forcing further layoffs, the unemployment total might continue at better than 3,000,000.

In that case, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell might have to eat his hat. He said last spring he would do so if the jobless total was not less than 3,000,000 next month.

Mitchell has said he may recommend that the Taft-Hartley Act be invoked to halt the steel strike if it continues into October and threatens the national security.

The department estimated that some 145,000 workers in primary metals, railroading, construction and coal mining have been laid off as a result of the steel dispute.

The auto shutdown for model changeovers, occurring unusually early this year, idled 80,000 workers.

The number of employed Americans also declined last month—from the all-time high of 67,594,000 set in July to 67,241,000. But this was a normal seasonal drop caused by farm workers and students making their usual end-of-summer exodus from the labor force.

Gov. Tawes Dedicates Springfield Canteen

SYKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—Gov. Tawes Thursday dedicated a new, privately financed canteen building at Springfield State Hospital. He called it a monument to "a will of the people to do for themselves and not just to stand by and wait for gratuities."

The canteen was built and is being operated by women of the mental hospital's volunteer auxiliary. Tawes was informed the $72,000 structure is the only one of its kind at a Maryland state hospital.

"You will forgive me, I am sure, if I seem extravagant of praise," said the governor, "but here, indeed, is a remarkable situation.

"It appears extraordinary especially to those of us who find ourselves engaged in the task of providing the public services the people demand and collecting from the people the money to pay for them."

A $32,000 bequest from George Glendenning, in appreciation of the care given his father at Springfield, and a memorial fund established by the family and friends of Mrs. Sylvia Hartman Miller, who was long active in the auxiliary, helped build the structure.

Khrushchev, Fast Man With Gratuitous Insult, Can't Take It In Return

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Nikita Khrushchev wants to get a close look at the American eagle. Perhaps he wants to know how long it will be before—by his reckoning—he can step on the eagle's tail.

The Soviet Premier made this ambition plain long after he began, about two years ago, to hint his way into an invitation to visit the United States. Communism's star traveling salesman wants an idea of just what the resistance might be to his line in a hemisphere which has been a mystery to him all his life.

At a reception last spring, Khrushchev lumbered from guest to guest, exploding verbal firecrackers with each step. The round, 220-pound Russian bore down on the American ambassador, Llewellyn Thompson. Jabbing a stubby finger into Thompson's chest, he gave him a pithy lecture.

"There are some ambassadors here," said the grinning 5-foot-5 Communist boss, "who would like to spit on communism. But don't let's see who can spit the farthest, like camels in a cage. Let's compete. We have to maintain minimum sanitary conditions. When we win this competition, we'll reeducate you. Look out, Mr. Thompson! We'll step on your tail!"

Eventually, insists Khrushchev, communism will overwhelm the Western way, revolution by revolution. Westerners, he says, may not believe this, "but just as nature did not give the pig the right to look up to heaven, so the imperialists are not fated to destroy the Socialist countries."

Khrushchev insists also he is not interested in exporting revolution. But he adds that "if there is a revolution, we will cheer it along and help it wherever possible."

Such pronouncements about his own ideas of peaceful coexistence Khrushchev often makes in the best of high humor. But many of these lectures concern what Khrushchev believes to be the inevitable death of the American system. Khrushchev has a low opinion of the system under which people are living in the nation which will be his next host.

To Khrushchev, American talk of individual freedom is nonsense. Publicly and frequently he has ridiculed Western democracy as a sham.

Khrushchev has had no experience with Americans on their home grounds, but he has had some with the British and has come off second best. That was in 1956, in the second year of the celebrated B-K tours of Khrushchev and his onetime shadow, former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, now consigned to oblivion as an intriguer against the Communist party.

On that trip, Khrushchev seemed bewildered, particularly by the ceremonious democracy of the House of Commons. He was

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Apparently Charles Vidor had some premonition of his coming death, because he told his lawyer if anything happened to him, he wanted Billy Wilder to take over "The Nijinsky Story," on which Charlie had worked so many years.

I talked to Billy about it and he said, "Naturally I would like to carry out the wishes of my good friend, but I don't want to go to work on the story until all the rights to it have been cleared."

Charlie, who went to court several times because Oscar Serlin, Broadway producer, claimed the rights to The Nijinsky Story, won every case. But there's still one more suit coming up this month. Billy says if he makes the movie it will be another "Red Shoes," and while Nijinsky's story is one of the most tragic in the [illegible] of the theatre, it could be made very beautiful with a gre...

Ever since Inger Stevens made "The World, The Flesh and the Devil" her stock has been very high on the MGM lot. So today Pandro Berman set her the script of "Key Witness." Pandro verified that Inger has the script and he said, "We would certainly like to have her play the wife of the title character."

"Who will that be?" I asked Pandro.

He said he hoped Anthony Franciosa, but he couldn't say for sure because Tony hasn't yet signed any contract. It's getting increasingly difficult to cast important pictures these days.

Long time no see nor near from Terry Moore. That is, not since she suddenly married Stuart W. Cramer III, and gave us all a big surprise. Now she's back from her honeymoon, and ready to go to work. She'll play the femme lead in Al Zugsmith's "Platinum High School." This will give Terry a chance to sport some clothes, as the efficient but glamorous secretary to the commandant of an exclusive boys' military academy.

Terry plays opposite Mickey Rooney and the picture starts Oct. 5 on location at Catalina. Her most recent picture is "A Private's Affair" which she made at 20th Century-Fox.

The enthusiasm of Sol Siegel over "Ben Hur" is contagious. He says it's one of the best pictures he's ever seen and that he's not alone in his opinion. He took it to Denver and Dallas over the Labor Day week end and showed it at both places.

"It ran four hours counting intermission, and I don't see how we can cut any of it—it's that good," said Sol. It's exciting, beautiful, and has everything that goes to make up good showmanship in a motion picture."

This is good news to the industry. I've heard from other people that "Ben Hur" is a once-in-a-lifetime movie, and I am looking forward to seeing it.

Summer Reading Reviewed

"Summer Reading" was the topic at the September meeting of the Great Books Group of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. Amer Suter Jr., Frostburg. Members and guests spoke briefly on a variety of books which they read during vacation.

The material covered ran from philosophy to escape literature of the murder mystery school. It included "Poets in a Landscape" by Gilbert Highet, the lives of seven great Roman poets, reviewed by Mrs. A. J. Mirkin; "Jefferson," a biography of the third president, by Saul K. Padover, discussed by Miss Dorothy Stone White; "Child of Our Time," an account of the precarious hold to life of a child born during the Spanish Civil War, written by Michael Delcastillo and reported by Miss Edra Bogle.

Mrs. G. Morgan Smith spoke of "The Light Infantry Ball" by Hamilton Basso; "For 2c Plain" by Harry Golden, another best-seller along with this author's "Only in America," was highly recommended by Mrs. Milton Granet; Mrs. Suter reviewed "Therese" by Francois Mauriac; Mrs. John A. Cupler II discussed Allen Drury's "Advise and Consent" which is a fictionalized account of Washington politics; "The Seed" by Pierre Gascar was described by Mrs. W. Royce Hodges as "a beautifully written story of impoverished youth." "The Shape of Content" by the artist, Ben Shahn, was the choice of Mrs. W. Earle Cobey who also recommended "The Years with Ross" by James Thurber and "This Is New York" by E. B. White as delightful reading.

Mrs. Granville Shirley reviewed Vance Packard's "The Status Seekers" which is a picture of contemporary American attitudes. "Green Grows Ivy," Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest's autobiographical account, was described by Mrs. J. Russell Cook as "delightful, chatty reading"; Mrs. George Hazelwood referred to several novels by Nevil Shute as good escape literature. Miss Kathleen Wolfe reviewed "The Sign of Jonas," the journal of Thomas Merton, who is known as Father Louis in the Cistercian Order at Gethsemane School in Louisville.

Mrs. Paul Castelle and Mrs. George Griffith reported on books whose authors are personally known to them. Mrs. Castelle chose "The Watch That Ends the Night" by Hugh MacLennon and Mrs. Griffith, "You Are Greater Than You Know" by Lou Austin. Mrs. Ralph Webster described the experience of seeing Charles Laughton in "Midsummer's Night Dream" at the Stratford Theatre while in England this summer, and of hearing "Les Indes Galantes" at the Paris Opera, "La Boheme" at La Scala, and "Aida" at the Caracalla Opera in Rome. Mrs. Webster, who is group chairman, announced that the next meeting will be held October 13 at the home of Mrs. Cook, Buckingham Road. The topic for discussion will be "Life on the Mississippi" by Mark Twain with Mrs. William A. Frailey, Mrs. William P. Durland, and Mrs. Milton Beneman as leaders.

Mrs. Suter was assisted by Miss White. Miss Wolfe, Miss Bogle, who is librarian at the Laboratory School at Frostburg State Teachers' College, and Mrs. Max Selinger were guests.

Auxiliary 1125 Receives New Flag For Floor Work

Activities were discussed and an American flag was received at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary 1125, World War I, held Wednesday evening at the VFW home. Mrs. Chloe Reynolds presided and announced she has received the flag from Congressman John R. Foley, to be used in the auxiliary floor work. A citation accompanied it stating that the flag was flown over the United States Capitol, for the auxiliary.

Official orders from the national organization pertaining to the convention in Louisville, Ky., September 20, 21, 22 were read. Mrs. Rosalie Everstine and Mrs. Reynolds will represent the local group. Mrs. Nellie Hensel repotred she has sent several letters to the national legislative chairmna, Merle Hopper, pertaining to the pension bill, 7650.

Three new members were received. They are Mrs. Lucy Jacobs, Mrs. Fannie Lewis and Mrs. Rose B. Robertson. The auxiliary voted on three applicants to be presented at the meeting, October 14. It was decided to hold a pie social at that time. Mrs. Josephine Shanski was named chairman. Her committee consists of Mrs. Diana Fuller, Mrs. Catherine Wilson and Mrs. Clara Mantheiy.

A donation of $5 was voted to help pay for entertainment at the hospital party planned for Newton Baker VA Center, September 13. Mrs. Pearl Darling, chairman, asked that gifts of toilet articles and cookies for the patients be left at the home of Mrs. Ryenolds, 101 Park Street, tomorrow. Mrs. Everstine reported on the Department of Maryland Council meeting she and Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Myrtle Brode and Mrs. Margaret Baker attended. Mrs. Cathernie Wilson announced a rummage sale will be held October 6 at the VFW home, and asked for contributions. She also reported on sick cards sent to members in hospitals and at home.

Concluding the evening a social hour was held and refreshments were served by Mrs. Kate Kerns, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Shanski, Mrs. Sadie Smith, and Mrs. Wilson, twenty-two members attended.

Centre Street Married Couples Club will meet tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alstetter Martin's Mountain, for a corn roast. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Blose are cochairmen.

A general meeting of the Navy Mothers Club will be held tonight at the Legion Home.

Fairgo Trot To Be Held Tonight

Ten of 15 late reservations for the "Fairgo Trot" dance being sponsored by the Cumberland Soroptimist Club tonight, will be taken before late afternoon today, Mrs. Fay Stillwagon, president, announces. They may be made by calling the Shrine Club, PA 2-7020; Mrs. Maxine Doak, reservations chairman, PA 2-7930 or Mrs. Stillwagon, PA 2-2766.

The seventh annual semi-formal benefit dance will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club, with music from 9 until 1 by Happy Laughner Orchestra, Johnstown. Three hundred reservations already have been received.

Jockey hats and bugles will be distributed as favors. Table centerpieces of artificial flowers, centered with real horseshoes, will have pennants bearing the name of the table reservation. Pennants, horseshoes and silhouettes of racing horses are being used in the decorations of the club.

To Hold Candy Sale

The Women's Guild of Holy Cross Episcopal Church will hold a candy sale throughout the winter as a money-making project.

Mrs. John Gerdeman presided at a meeting when plans were made for a cafeteria dinner September 30 in the parish hall. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Harry Goss and Mrs. H. D. Edmiston. Hostesses were Mrs. Leonard Cramblett and Miss Eulah McMakin.

Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Hinkle will be honored by Davis Memorial Methodist Church members at a fellowship covered dish supper at 6 tonight in the recreation hall, sponsored by the WSCS.

Allegany Homemakers Chorus is to have rehearsal Monday at 7:30 at the YMCA. Members are to bring music for "Think On Me," and "My God and I."

Trainee Completes Course Here

Miss Brunhilde Seidel, extension summer trainee, completed her course here yesterday and will meet with the two other state trainees for an evaluation session today at the University of Maryland.

Discussing the program, Miss Seidel, who came here June 27, said she enjoyed seeing the extension program in another county, as well as meeting the people of Allegany County. The training with the home demonstration agent is open to students between their junior and senior years, who are interested in entering extension work.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seidel, St. Leonard, Calvert County, Miss Seidel and her family came to the United States September 15, 1949 from Czechoslovakia. A graduate of Calvert County High School, she was a 4-H member and later a local leader, before going to the university, where she is a food and nutrition major. She is a member of the Collegiate 4-H Club, is an officer in her dormitory and president-elect of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary society.

Clan Elects

Projects Discussed

The Junior Woman's Civic Club discussed a style show in November and decided to sell tickets for an antique show, at the opening meeting at the Cumberland Country Club. The latter show will be December 3, 4, 5, sponsored by Mrs. Fay Stillwagon.

Mrs. Ralph Sell Jr., assumed her duties as president, following the resignation of Mrs. Marion Hull, who is leaving town. Mrs. William Douglas, former state president, offered the invocation. Mrs. Edward Dove, president of the senior club, spoke briefly. Mrs. K. O. Nelson, member of the club, gave highlights of her part as Mrs. Maryland in the Mrs. America contest.

First Presbyterian Church School will reconvene at 9:45 September 13 at the church.

Civic Club To Meet Sept. 17

Mrs. William A. Douglas and Mrs. Ernest Lindsay will represent the Woman's Civic Club at the meeting of the board of Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, September 15 at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

John J. Eisenhart, vice chairman of the Free State Forum and student of the strategy and tactics of Communism, will be the speaker, at the luncheon. His topic is "Communism in Education." Mrs. James W. Douthat, Silver Spring, will open the meeting at 10 a.m. Department and committee chairmen will outline their plans; and Maryland Clubwomen project plans presented. Mrs. David Taylor, Westminster, will present a musical program.

The opening luncheon of the local club will be September 17 at 12:30 at the Cumberland Country Club. Mrs. Edward Dove will extend greetings; chairmen will report plans for the year and Mrs. John Zornig will give a musical program. Mrs. Douthat, Mrs. Ezra Arbaugh, First District president; Mrs. Paul Stair, president of LaVale Century Club and Mrs. Ralph Sell Jr., president of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, are invited as guests.

ENJOYING SUNSHINE — Miss Rose Marie Lindner, Morningside Drive, right, accompanied by Miss JoAnn Sturtz, LaVale, made a survey of hotels in Miami and Nassau. Associated with the Conlon Travel Agency, they spent a week in the Sansouci Hotel, Miami Beach, and two days at the Fort Montagu Hotel, Nassau. Miss Lindner returned September 8. Miss Sturtz, who is employed by Dr. Wyand F. Doerner, also spent a week with her aunt, Sister Mary Angelina, mother superior of the Blessed Trinity Convent, Miami. Sister Angelina is the former Miss Mary Catino, of here.

BPW To Have Theatre Party, Dinner Tomorrow

The Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a theatre party and dinner tomorrow.

Plans are to attend the matinee performance of "Bells Are Ringing," at Jennerstown Mountain Playhouse. Dinner is to follow at the White Star Restaurant. Miss Dorothy Manley is chairman of the outing. Mrs. Kathleen Burke is handling reservations.

Mrs. James Shank and son Michael returned to the home of Mrs. Shank's mother, Mrs. Eva Brown, Ridgeley, from Memorial Hospital.

Committees Appointed For WA 52

Committees were named by Mrs. Norma Sterne and the Tri-State conference discussed at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary 52 to Cumberland Typographical Union 244, which met at her home, 1019 Myrtle Street. B. E. DeBolt, conference chairman, discussed plans for the auxiliary's part in the Tri-State conference, to be held here October 17-18.

Committees include Mrs. Dorothy Shaner, entertainment chairman, with Mrs. George Cline and Mrs. Olive Aldridge serving with her. Mrs. Buelah DeBolt was named chaplain; Mrs. Lydia Graham, guide, and Mrs. Jane Garlitz, sunshine chairman.

Cards concluded the meeting, and refreshments were served. Mrs. Catherine Stickley won the special prize. Others attending were Mrs. Mae Biller, Mrs. DeBolt, Mrs. Aldridge, Mrs. Shaner, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Garlitz.

Club Has Reports

The Polish Mountain Homemakers Club received reports at the meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edna Crock. Mrs. Broze Lough presided. Following the Lord's Prayer, the thought of the month was given. Mrs. Franklin Roland gave the history and words of the hymn, "Jerusalem the Golden." Routine reports were given. Roll call was answered with ways to stretch the food dollar. Mrs. Lough, food and nutrition chairman, distributed information on foods that are "Protein-sharp."

A sunshine card was sent to Mrs. Lena Twigg, a patient in Memorial Hospital. The meeting closed with the group singing, "Today Is Monday." Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Three guests, Mrs. Richard Yonker, Mrs. Kenneth Lough and Betty Yonker attended. Other members present were Mrs. George McKenzie and Mrs. Horace Fisher.

Elks Having Dances

The Elks Club will entertain the convention committee at an informal dance tonight with Fred Lock and his Dudes playing, beginning at 9:30. An entertainment program is to be presented. Clifton Hafer and Paul Stakem are in charge of refreshments.

A Pre-Race Week dance is to be held Saturday. Tommy Smithem's orchestra will play. It is for Elks and their friends.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: You hear a lot about husbands who snore. Well, I've got a wife who snores and I don't know what to do about it.

She's the dainty type and to look at her you'd never suspect it but her snoring sounds like a 200-pound man. I hate to tell her she snores because she's sensitive (and vain) and this would be a blow to her ego.

I havn't had a good night's sleep in the four months we've been married. Don't suggest ear plugs, please. I've tried them all and was up all night worrying that I might not hear an emergency phone call.

If you can help me solve this one you're a geninus.

BEAT NICK.

DEAR BEATNICK: Snoring is an involunary act over which we have no control. A person should not be ashamed of snoring any more than he should be proud that he does not.

Stop sacrificing yourself on the altar of her vanity and tell the dainty one that her nocturnal wood-sawing is preventing you from getting badly needed rest. Suggest that she see a doctor. Sometimes an obstruction in the nasal passage is the cause for snoring and can be easily remedied.

For tonight I suggest you move her head tenderly to the side when the snoring begins. A change in the position of the head often helps—for a while.

DEAR ANN: I have a very nice steady boy friend but I'm afraid if things don't change at our house I'll lose him.

I was 16 in May and am allowed two evenings a week with Monty. He doesn't have any spare money so he can't take me anyplace. I don't mind staying home, but an elderly aunt lives with us and won't let us alone for five minutes.

Auntie plants herself in the living room and listens to every word we say. I've complained to Mom but she says Aunties has so little happiness in life that it would be cruel to deprive her of this small pleasure.

My Mom is a tender-hearted person who wouldn't hurt a fly. She's usually right about everything. Is she right about this?

ALVA.

DEAR ALVA: It's admirable that your mother is so considerate of your elderly aunt, but she's being unfair to you.

You should not have to entertain your boy friend in the presence of a third party. No boy in his right mind will put up with this for very long.

It's your mother's responsibility to suggest that auntie give you privacy when your boy friend calls. And here's a P. S. to Mom: Teen-agers who can't entertain comfortably at home arrange to meet friends elsewhere. And this can be bad.

DEAR ANN: For 20 years my husband and I worked hard together in a business. I raised four children and believe me it wasn't easy.

For 15 years my husband and I never went to a movie together. One of us always had to be on the job. We were slaves to the place.

Three years ago, we invested all our savings in a venture which I was against. We lost it. Now we've saved a little money again and he wants to invest it in the same thing. I say no. He's so angry he hardly speaks to me. Shall I give in to keep peace—and take a chance on losing everything? We're too old to start over.

TOO TIRED TO FIGHT

DEAR TIRED: The only good thing about mistakes is what we can learn from them. Tell your husband to tack this motto in his hat band and keep your savings for the evening of your lives.

Young Man, Girl, 16, Md. Traffic Victims

By The Associated Press

A Baltimore man was killed Thursday when the car in which he was riding went out of control. Donald Jackson, 22, was dead on arrival at City Hospitals.

In Havre de Grace, a teen-age girl died in Harford Memorial Hospital of injuries received in an accident Sunday. Betty Jane Morrison, 16, of Bel Air, was struck by a car three miles east of Bel Air on Maryland 22.

Khrushchev, Fast

out-finessed by cool, suave British politicians who enraged him so much he accused them of "khamstvo" — or piggishness. And he found little solace among the British people.

"Never shake your fist at a Russian," Khrushchev told members of a crowd which had made jeering gestures.

And to the British political leaders, he thundered: "You may call me a pot, but don't put me on the stove."

25 Persons Indicted In Home Improvement Fraud Cases

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore grand jury Thursday handed down 62 indictments charging 25 persons with law violations involving home improvement deals.

The indictments charged 176 law violations including conspiracy to defraud, forgery or alteration of mortgages and contracts, perjury and violation of corporate laws.

The cases involved officials, salesmen and others connected with Reynolds Engineering and Supply, Inc., and certain associated or predecessor concerns.

Face value of mortgages and contracts involved in the charges amounted to about $93,000. But State's Attorney Saul A. Harris said the cases represent only a small part of the total complaint made to his office during a probe which lasted 18 months.

Harris said the investigation of complaints of home improvement frauds is continuing.

Company officers indicted included William Pearlman of Baltimore, president of Reynolds Engineering and Supply, charged with conspiracy to defraud and 41 forgeries or alterations of contracts and Albert Pearlman, a Washington pharmacist identified as vice-president of the company, charged with three violations of corporate laws.

The conspiracy counts claim that 21 of the defendants conspired "to cheat, wrong, defraud and impoverish" their stockholders, their customers, financial institutions and other members of the public.

White Egg Plant? State Fair Has One

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Whoever heard of a white egg plant? Well, Mrs. Rita Galeone of Baltimore, for one.

Mrs. Galeone asked for permission to exhibit a white egg plant at the Maryland State Fair.

Farm and Garden Superintendent Joseph K. Wolfinger admitted he was caught short. Wolfinger—with the fair for 10 years—never before had heard of a white egg plant.

Never in its 78-year history, he told Mrs. Galeone, has the fair had a division for white egg plants. The purple variety, sure, but not white ones.

Mrs. Galeone sent along her albino and it will remain on display until the fair closes Saturday. And next year, said Wolfinger, some provision will be made for the white varieties.

This was Governor's Day at the fair but Gov. Tawes said he had to cut his visit short because of other engagements. He arrived about 11 a.m. and stayed for lunch.

Judging was completed in Ayrshire and Shorthorn dairy cattle and angus beef cattle were paraded before the judges for the first time. The Angus included several owned by George E. Allen of Gettysburg, Pa., bridge and golf playing partner of President Eisenhower.

Friday will be Municipality Day at the fair, with Baltimore Mayor J. Harold Grady a guest of honor.

Hot Weather Speeds Maturity Of Fall Apples

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Most Maryland and Delaware farmers benefited from last week's rainfall, but those in northern areas got too much.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service said Thursday that rain over most of the two-state area was beneficial to pastures, orchards, fall vegetables, soybeans, late corn and hay.

But torrential rains in northern areas caused serious flooding of fields and brought field work to an abrupt stop.

Some fall seedings of alfalfa and cover crops have been washed out in these northern localities, and corn is down in a number of fields.

Elsewhere, about 80 per cent of the tobacco crop was in the barns at week's end, but the hot, humid weather was causing serious curing problems.

In the Hancock fruit area, harvest of fall apples was expected to get underway this week.

Some parts of Western Maryland, from Washington County west, are still dry, but the important fruit area around Hancock now has adequate soil moisture. Newly seeded alfalfa in parts of Washington County needs rain badly, the report said.

The hot weather has speeded up maturity of fall apples, and picking of Jonathans was expected to start around Hancock this week with other areas starting soon afterward. Grimes were starting to move last week in the Hagerstown section. Hancock was expected to start with Grimes this week and Allegany County about Sept. 15.

History Repeats

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A newspaper article reporting a meeting between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and French Brig. Gen. Charles de Gaulle was found this week in an old German helmet that had lain in a roadside ditch for 15 years. It was clipped from the Nazi party official paper dated June 21, 1944.

Stock Market Declines For Third Straight Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks declined for the third straight session but the loss and volume of trading ran behind the previous two sessions.

Cumberland Stockyards

Market report for September 8:

Steers, 22 to 24 cwt.; medium heifers, 17 to 20.25 cwt.; common heifers, 15.75 to 17 cwt.; good cows, 17.50 to 18.85 cwt.; canners and cutters, 14.25 to 17.50 cwt.; bulls, 18.75 to 23 cwt.; choice veal calves, 32 to 35.25 cwt.; medium veal calves, 28 to 32 cwt.; light veal calves, 19 to 28 cwt.; hogs, 14.20 to 15.10 cwt.; sows, 8 to 9 cwt.; pigs and shoats, 7.50 to 9 cwt.; heavy chickens, 13½c to 17c lb.; light chickens, 8c to 10½c lb.; heavy calves, 24.25 to 26 cwt.; stock heifers, 18.85 to 20.50 cwt.; stock steers, 22 to 28 cwt.

Traders kept to the sidelines and the small demand found prices slipping steadily. This reluctance on the part of the traders reflected nervousness on their part of a possible rise in the Federal Reserve discount rate after the close.

Their anticipation was correct as the Federal Reserve Board authorized seven Federal Reserve banks to boost from 3½ to 4 per cent their interest charges on loans to commercial banks. The new rate is a 27-year high. Although many believe this move has already been discounted by the market, the list is expected to be under further pressure Friday.

Uncertainty over the steel strike the Khrushchev visit and thight money helped restrict volume.

Thursday's value loss in dollars amounted to $1,650,000,000, bringing the decline since the market made its high on Aug. 3 to close to 20 billion dollars.

Most sections took part in the decline with chemicals the leader. DuPont fell 4½ and Allied Chemical 3¾. Motors came next with Ford down 1⅞ and Chrysler and American Motors 1¼.

Rails were easier, paced by Atlantic Coast line, off 1, and Kansas City Southern down a large fraction. Utilities also slipped slightly.

Railway Mails Stock Data

Western Maryland Railway has mailed to its stockholders a proxy statement covering the special meeting to be held October 5 to consider an increase in the authorized shares of all classes from 921,439 to 2,303,598 shares. If the increase is approved, all classes of stock will be split on a 2½-for-1 basis.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is described as the owner of 167,127 shares or 97.79 per cent of Western Maryland's 5 per cent first preferred stock; 8,000 shares or 13.50 per cent of its 4 per cent second preferred, and 214,747 shares or 31.78 per cent of its common stock. The total B&O ownership is therefore 389,874 shares or 42.73 per cent of Western Maryland's stock.

While the split-up of Western Maryland shares will not change B&O's percentage of ownership, the latter road would benefit from an increase in the common dividend rate if directors decide to boost the payment on the new stock.

Miss America Title Competition Begins

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Contestants in the 32nd Miss America pageant began their first round of competition Wednesday night.

The 54 beauties from every state, Chicago, New York, Washington, D.C., and Canada, faced three nights of preliminaries leading to the crowning of Miss America of 1960 Saturday night.

To the winner will go up to $100,000 in cash and prizes during a year-long beauty reign.

Mullenax Leases Another Airport

Warren R. Mullenax, who has operated the local airport for about 10 years, will take over the Bufflick Road Airport at Winchester, Va.

The lease between the Mayor and City Council of Winchester with Donald Patton has been terminated at the request of Patton. The council has entered into a five-year lease with Mullenax with option for an additional five years.

Patton sold all his equipment, including two trainer planes to Mullenax. Mullenax said he will emphasize the shop, student instruction and charter plane service in his operation of the airport.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Oats lagged, but other grains were mostly higher Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to up ⅜; corn off ⅛ to up ⅜; oats off ½; new oats off ¼ to up ⅛; rye unchanged to up 1⅛, and soybeans up ⅝ to 1⅛.

Trade in all grains was slow, as most traders preferred to await a government crop estimate to be released later Thursday.

In wheat, small short covering transactions and scattered buying firmed prices. Local buying was an early factor. Country offerings were small, and the cash market was firm.

Corn was also firm. An elevator and exporters were early buyers. Commission houses sold December. Spot corn was firm. It was reported that India has received authorization to buy 1,100,000 bushels of corn. Export subsidies were granted on [illegible] bushels of corn and 386,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were easier in the nearby and steady in the deferred contracts. Commission houses were sellers. Northwest houses bought September and sold December. Cash houses were on both sides of the market.

September rye gained more than a cent. Other futures were firm.

Soybeans were strong. Early buying and short covering found light offerings. An eastern house sold January. Meals higher.

Export circles reported that France and Japan bought cargoes of soybeans.

Outside markets were mostly higher. The range:

Opening lead: Five of ♥.

Several pairs reached six spades in today's hand taken from a recent tournament, but only one declarer was successful. Satisfied that the contract was a good one, he gave himself several chances in order to improve his prospects.

The bidding requires some comment. North and South were using the two club convention which requests the opening no trumper to show a biddable four card major suit if he has one. South dutifully responded with two spades. North sensed slam possibilities and in a further exploratory effort he bid three diamonds, a one round force. South raised to four diamonds and North now confirmed the spade fit and made his slam try by jumping beyond game ot five spades. With three aces and a near maximum no trump bid, South was delighted to accept his partner's invitation.

After the heart opening, handling the trump suit is a distinct problem. Normally the play for the finesse would be preferred. But there are other considerations which render the play of the ace and king superior. The hand can be won without capturing the queen of spades if diamonds break favorably.

When the queen of trumps fails to drop, declarer plays three rounds of diamonds. When all hands follow the battle is over. North discards a heart on the fourth diamond and the remainder of the hand is played at a cross-ruff.

Declarer had given himself three chances. First of all the queen of trumps might drop. When this fails to materialize he may find the diamonds are divided, 3-3. But even if diamonds break, 4-2, the hand can still be made provided that the hand with the four diamonds holds the remaining trump.

Fire Destroys Wiley Ford Home

A frame, one-room house was destroyed by fire Wednesday night at Wiley Ford.

Brownie Strawderman, chief of the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Department, said cause of the blaze has not been determined nor has there been an estimate of loss.

The house was unoccupied and is owned by Mrs. Maggie Lee, 160 St. Cloud Street, Keyser.

Experts estimate that two billion people in the world are hungry every day, all day. The undernourished are figured at more than 75 per cent of the human race.

Former Frostburg Man Posts Bond In Dynamiting Of Home In Delaware

A former Frostburg man has been arrested for the second time in connection with two explosions that wrecked the only Negro home in suburban Collins Park, near New Castle, Del.

After an investigation that ranged from Connecticut to Florida and as far west as Ohio, police Tuesday took into custody Gilbert Minnick, 49. Police identified him as a native of Frostburg who also lives in Collins Park.

Minnick was given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Frank J. Carello Jr., in New Castle Wednesday on charges of malicious mischief and third degree burglary in connection with a second bombing at the George Rayfield home on August 2. Carello will give a decision within five days.

Minnick was free yesterday on $10,000 bond he posted Tuesday when he was picked up by Delaware State Police, according to Capt. John F. Herbert, public information officer of the Delaware State Police.

This was the first arrest growing out of the second explosion that wrecked the $13,500 home of Mr. and Mrs. Rayfield and their teen-age daughter.

The former Frostburger is one of the seven men awaiting grand jury action as a result of their arrests August 7 on charges stemming from the first explosion April 7 in which the Rayfield home was badly damaged.

Delaware Attorney General January D. Bove said yesterday he will press for the convictions of the seven white men.

He said he will call a special session of the New Castle grand jury September 22 to consider indictments against some or all of those accused.

Capt. Herbert said troopers testified Wednesday that the Rayfields had locked the doors of their home before leaving on the night of August 2.

The first call on the explosion came from Rayfield's next door neighbor.

The investigation by Delaware State Police, Capt. Herbert said, was highlighted by the discovery of two pieces of fuse used to detonate dynamite.

Minnick was requested to come to the attorney general's office, the captain said, and he came willingly.

After questioning, he gave the officials a statement which led them to press the charges against Minnick. There is no specific law against bombing in Delaware.

Minnick's wife, Mildred, also a former Frostburg native, is chairman of a Collins Park committee raising funds for the defense of the men.

The former Frostburg man is a building contractor in the New Castle area, Capt. Herbert said.

MISS SHIRLEY MOORE

MRS. HAYDEN DAWSON

Teacher, Student At VHS Win Prizes In Contest

LONACONING—Valley High School started the new year with welcome news that the Junior High Home Economics Department has been awarded prizes in the "What's New, My Best Buy, and Why Equipment Selection" contest.

Miss Shirley Moore, who is a tenth grade student this year, submitted her entry last spring in the "My Best Buy . . . And Why" under the guidance of her Home Economics teacher, Mrs. Hayden Dawson, in ninth grade class.

Miss Moore received a check for $25 and a congratulatory letter. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Moore of Barton.

Mrs. Dawson received a communication, "We are pleased to enclose a check for $25 as a prize award to a counselling teacher in What's New, My Best Buy . . . And Why Equipment Selection contest.

"It is obvious to the judges that the prize winners had wise guidance in doing the required research and filling in the entry blanks. We are sure, therefore, you will agree that the cash prize won by your student is second to her real achievement, that of learning how to make wise choices in the years ahead," stated Amber C. Ludwig, equipment editor, of "What's New in Home Economics" magazine, which will list Valley High School of Lonaconing, as a prize award winner in their current issue.

OES Resumes Fall Sessions

FSTC Reports New Staff Appointments

FROSTBURG — R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has announced the appointment of three new members to the faculty and administration staff.

Miss Janet Adelaide Thomas, a native of Morgantown, W. Va., will be a member of the physical education department; John Kneisly, a native of Dayton, Ohio, will teach in the English department, and Miss Edra Charlotte Bagle will be an assistant librarian. She is a native of Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Thomas received her secondary school education in Morgantown schools. She received her BS degree in 1957, and her MS degree in 1959, both from West Virginia University. Her teaching experience has included posts at Mary Washington College and West Virginia University. She is a member of the American Association of Health and Physical Education and will replace Miss Majorie Berkely in the physical education department.

Kneisly received his secondary schooling at Randolph High School, Englewood, Ohio. He received his AB degree, majoring in biology, in 1933 from Manchester College, and his MA degree, majoring in Education, in 1939 from Ohio State University. His teaching experiences include elementary principalship in Montgomery County schools, Dayton (Ohio) Public schools, Ohio State University 1958-59, and elementary principal in William T. Sampson School, Cuba.

He holds life membership in NEA, and is a member of the Elementary Principals Association and the Elementary English Teachers Association. He replaces Miss Carrie French in the English department. He is married, has two children and will reside on Ormond Street.

Miss Bagle will be the assistant librarian replacing Mrs. Martha Cook, resigned. She attended public schools in Sibley, Iowa, and received her AB degree in library science in 1956 from Iowa State Teachers College, her MS degree in 1957 from the School of Library Service, Columbia University. She has served as student assistant, Department of Library Service, Iowa State Teachers College and comes to Frostburg from Oregon College of Education, where she was assistant librarian.

She is a member of the American Library Association, Oregon Library Association and Alpha Beta Alpha sorority. She will reside in Frostburg.

Pence Tells Women's Club Of Physical Fitness Plan

LONACONING—"Physical Fitness" was the topic of Robert E. Pence, supervisor of Physical Education of Allegany County Public Schools, as he spoke at the Lonaconing Women's club meeting Tuesday at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars home.

He explained to the club that physical exercise by entire families is recommended to keep in physical fitness in today's world and demonstrated to the group as he gave his address. He told about the physical education program to be undertaken in junior and senior high schools and of exercise tests made in the schools and the results. The aim to have American children, and entire family groups, in best physical fitness is in effect all over the United States, he said. Books on physical fitness for the Women's Club members will be obtained for their study and practical use.

Mrs. Thelma Inskeep, county nurse, will have assistance from the Women's club, when the Chest x-ray unit is set-up in the community in the near future.

Second Mondays will be meeting nights of the club this fall and winter. They had been meeting on the second Tuesdays.

Berkeley Springs Hospital Fund Drive Is Progressing

BERKELEY SPRINGS—Hundreds of volunteer solicitors for the War Memorial Hospital Building Fund Campaign held their first report meeting Tuesday evening at Berkeley Springs High School cafeteria, bringing in a total of $21,430, which makes the grand total reported thus far in the $150,000 effort $115,990.

Campaign Chairman Henry N. Gorrell praised the work of solicitors for the drive, and said "We now have the proof we have all been waiting for, that the people of our hospital service area are giving all-out support to this project, and I'm certain we are going to top our goal within the next two weeks."

Reports from Campaign Headquarters indicated that a large proportion of the gifts reported thus far are "Memorials," many of them representing $120 for the Master Plaque Memorial.

Three more Report Meetings are scheduled. The Second Report will be on Friday, September 11, in the Berkeley High School cafeteria. The final Report Meeting is slated for September 17.

Hospital spokesmen said they had "never witnessed such enthusiasm in this area . . . every business and family seems ready and willing to do its share in this 'Once-In-A-Lifetime' drive."

House Burns Near Barton

BARTON — Barton Volunteer Fire Company was called Sunday at 6 p.m. to the home of Mrs. Russell Lambert on Hampshire Hill to extinguish a fire.

Firemen stated that the building was in flames and had been burning for some time before they were summoned. They also stated they were hampered by road conditions which they had to improve before getting a truck to the scene of the fire. The house and contents were destroyed.

On Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. the company answered a call when a fire at the coal tipple of Bittner's mine set fire to a wooded area near the mine. No damage was reported. Cause of both fires is unknown.

LONACONING—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Powers of Long Branch, N. J., visited over the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Sowers, East Main Street.

Westernport Man Named Superintendent At Luke

LUKE — Promotion of Howard E. Kincer to the position of superintendent of the lower paper mill at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper was announced yesterday by John A. Luke, general manager of the company's Fine Papers Division.

Kincer, who has been employed at the Luke mill since October 9, 1945, has been technical staff assistant to the assistant manager of production since November 1, 1958.

In his new position, Kincer will be responsible for the operation of five paper machines at the Luke plant's lower mill. He succeeds John L. Olewine, who is resigning October 1.

A native of Roanoke, Va., Kincer was graduated from Roanoke College in 1940 with a bachelor of science degree in chemistry. He worked for a short time as a chemist for the Mead Corporation at Lynchburg, Va., and then joined Hercules Powder Company, at Radford, Va., where he was employed as a chemist from December 16, 1941, to October 6, 1945.

Kincer was first employed at the Luke mill as a chemist in the Research Department. On November 1, 1951, he was named foreman of the pigment plant, and in 1952, was transferred to the paper mill as an operating engineer.

On February 7, 1956, he was assigned to the Technical Service Department as a technical assistant dealing primarily with the planning for No. 8 paper machine and auxiliary services as a part of the mill's current $50 million expansion program.

For the past 10 months as technical staff assistant to the assistant manager of production, he has been working in a liaison capacity between the engineering and operating departments, dealing primarily with the design and installation of both Nos. 8 and 9 machines and auxiliary services.

Kincer is married to the former Miss Mardel Foley of Luke. They and their two daughters, Suzette, 11, and Sally, 8, live on Horse Rock Hill, near Westernport.

Beall Opens Annual Drive For Magazines

FROSTBURG — Thomas Richardson, chairman of the magazine committee at Beall Elementary School announced that William Woolridge, a representative of the Curtis Publishing Company, met with the committee Wednesday in preparation for the forthcoming magazine drive sponsored by the school.

Mr. Richardson stated that plans are being made to make this years drive bigger and better than in the past. The Curtis plan provides the community with an annual dependable subscription magazine service. It enables the school and the students to obtain for their use many things not provided for in the school's fiscal budget.

This year, plans are in the making to expand the intercom system into each classroom instead of just in the hallways. The school is authorized to accept new and renewal subscriptions to Curtis publications.

The student will issue an official receipt for all purchases whether for new or renewal subscriptions. The profits the school receives from the sales will be used for worthwhile school activities.

According to Mr. Richardson, the magazine drive will officially open Thursday, September 24 and close Monday, October 5.

Return Home

WESTERNPORT — Mr. and Mrs. Sheriden Evans, Gordon Street, returned from Akron, Ohio.

Keyser Fire Department Elects New Officers

Other officers include Junior Z. Clark, vice president; H. S. Hartman Jr., secretary; Harry Stewart, treasurer; E. K. Smith, financial secretary; William Carpenter, captain; S. L. "Mike" Robinson, first assistant captain; L. "Buck Shot" Mathais, second assistant captain; Robert E. Dorsey, chief; William Zacot, assistant chief; Gordon "Bunny Hop" Smith, chief engineer; Harold Boehmes, first assistant engineer; Owen J. Morgan, second assistant engineer; Charles Cutter, third assistant engineer; Marshall Hixenbaugh, inspector; Carlton Swisher, chaplain; W. J. Cross, trustee; and James House, hall manager.

Injured race horses that once would have been shot are now being saved by surgery at Cornell university's veterinary college.

Frostburg Department Heads Voted Salary Increases By Town Council

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and Council last night approved an increase in salary for the heads of the street, water and police departments. The increase brought the wages of the department heads to the same level, it was pointed out.

According to council spokesmen, wage differences have existed for some time, with some heads being able to earn supplemental wages by handling extra work. The average wage, which had been $3,780 per year, was set at $4,000 last night.

The hourly rate for the assistant street superintendent, $1.72, was not changed. A general wage increase for all employes was granted approximately 14 months ago.

William S. Jenkins, of the Consolidated Fuel Company, presented a map of proposed development for homes in the northeast section of Frostburg off Mt. Pleasant Street.

Jenkins stated that his company would grade roads and install sewer and water lines to the city's specifications and if the city would incorporate the area, turn the utilities over to the city. Following a discussion, Council voted unanimously to incorporate the area by ordinance as provided by the city charter.

William Thomas, dump custodian, asked the city what he should do concerning clearing a fire lane around the city dump. He explained that he had started to clear one section on Borden Mining Company property but was stopped.

Council informed him that they were in process of drawing up an agreement between the mining company and the Consolidated Fuel Company for the dump property, and that until definite lines had been laid out he should defer any timber cutting.

Ellsworth Filer, manager of the community swimming pool, asked Council to have the filters checked and diving boards repaired. Commissioner William Preston also asked that the pool be drained so he could start repairs on the bottom before winter sets in. He pointed out that repairs should be made now due to the fact that city workers are not available in the early spring when street work takes their full time. Permission was granted.

Mayor Joseph James asked council to commend Filer for the job he had done at the pool this year, stating that a tentative report from the city clerk shows that the pool operated this year in the black for the first time.

William Sluss Jr., director of the Frostburg Housing Authority, told council that work is progressing on plans for the town's first housing development. Negotiations are underway for the purchase of the property in the old Junior Order Park, he explained, and the architect is drawing up plans for the development.

Sluss stated that two government men who surveyed the area informed him that the housing development will be the showplace of the area when completed. Rev. William Yingling's resignation as president of the Housing Authority was read and accepted. Rev. Mr. Yingling is moving to another charge at the end of September.

Commissioner Preston asked that the city change the ordinance that regulates winter parking on Main, Broadway and Water streets to faciliate snow removal. The existing parking restrictions on Main Street were from Grant to the west city limits. Council accepted Preston's suggestion and extended the no-parking from Grant to the east city limits. The new ordinance will prohibit all parking on Main Street during winter months.

Preston also asked that parking be limited to one side of all streets during the winter months to permit the large snow plow to be used. Police Commissioner William Goebel was ordered to have signs erected for this purpose.

A new schedule of working hours for the Police Department was presented by Goebel and Police Chief Donald Griffith. Council accepted the schedule which provides two men on a shift during the week, and three men from 7 a. m. Saturday to 7 a. m. Sunday.

The Eckhart Water Company was granted permission to add new customers to their line in Clarysville. Council approved a $300 donation to the Arion Band as their annual contribution, and $150 was allocated for the public library for a new book case.

Migrant Workers In Need Of Help

Public hearings are being held on proposals to tighten up regulations under which the U. S. Employment service helps recruit migrant farm labor. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell wants the federal agency and its state affiliates to make sure that employers pay "prevailing" wages, meet applicable local housing and sanitation standards, and furnish adequate transportation.

Working conditions for migrants are so wretched that any step to improve them should be welcome. The average migrant in 1957 earned well under $900 a year. U. S. nationals averaged $859; imported Mexican "braceros" certainly much less, since they are not as free to follow the harvest.

Generally unprotected by minimum wage, maximum hour or Social Security laws, the field workers often fail to get protection even from the laws which do cover them—the child labor laws for example. In part the migrants conspire in their own exploitation, needing to increase family income. But ignorance and poverty make them easy targets for the unscrupulous.

Big growers have usually opposed reforms which would cost them money and up to now have been generally successful in warding off interference. Whether they will oppose Mitchell's suggested changes remains to be seen. In any case, Mitchell himself is already on record (last February 5) as saying that the migrant will "never be able to successfully resist exploitation until federal legislation guarantees him a decent minimum wage."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Khrushchev's Ideas Of America

Nikita Khrushchev wrote an article for "Foreign Affairs," in which he discloses an ignorance of the United States which may be the cause for much of the troubles between the two countries. He also displays a lack of understanding of the industrial development in his own country. He says:

". . . the dynamics of the development of the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. A. are such that the 42-year-old land of the Soviets is already able to challenge the 150-year-old capitalist state to economic competition; and the most farsighted American leaders are admitting that the Soviet Union is fast catching up with the United States and will ultimately outstrip it . . ."

First of all, the history of industrialization is that one country builds on another. True, in 1917, Soviet Russia was far behind in the development of manufactures. It was a backward country. Today, Soviet Russia is one of the principal manufacturing countries on Earth. But Khrushchev omits many telling facts when he makes a comparison between what we accomplished here in 150 years and what they accomplished there in 42 years.

In the first place, he should have called attention to the fact that we gave Russia, free of charge, approximately $11,000,000,000 which became the base for their modern industrialization. Secondly, Soviet Russia purchased or bartered for entire plants which came from the United States, Great Britain and Germany. In a word, upon the foundation of existing plants in Western Europe, Soviet Russia built her present industrial order.

Japan did the same thing a little earlier. Beginning in 1868, Japan, under the Emperor Meiji and Prince Ito, went through a period of industrialization, becoming by 1914 the leading country in Asia and by 1918 one of the five great powers on Earth. Japan's achievement was actually more brilliant than Russia's because it was always short of both manpower and raw materials, being forced to import even food to take care of an increasing population. It attempted to conquer Manchuria and parts of Mongolia to supply its shortages, but was stopped by the West, principally by the United States.

When Khrushchev says that farsighted American leaders admit that Soviet Russia is catching up to and will pass the United States, he does not offer any names. No outstanding American leader has publicly taken that position. Khrushchev may have spoken to such as Cyrus Eaton but who would call him an outstanding American leader?

Let us quote another sentence from Khrushchev: ". . . Prove by facts that your system is superior and more efficacious, that it is capable of insuring a higher degree of prosperity for the people than the Socialist system, that under capitalism man can be happier than under socialism. . ."

The only advantage in Khrushchev's visit is that he might see with his own eyes what nonsense he talks. He says: "It is impossible to prove this," meaning our superior standard of life. He should stay here for a year and see whether it is impossible to prove this. As a matter of fact, Khrushchev does not know what prosperity is in terms of consumers' goods, which is the essence of our productivity. He has no conception of 1959 life in the United States.

Let him pick his types. He was a miner. Let him go to a place like Butte, Montana to see how American miners live and compare that with how Ural miners live. Let him go to Youngstown or Weirton or Steubenville or Middletown to see how American steel workers live. He can skip the luncheon the Mayor of New York is to give him and go through 20 or 30 stores in New York, particularly during the noon hour when working girls shop. Let him pick them at random. Let him walk in here and there and discover what he can get in the way of consumers' goods.

It would only go to show that Khrushchev simply does not know anything at all about American life and the American way of life. He has read perhaps some articles in Communist publications and he has disbelieved statistical information given to him by his experts. He has disbelieved because it has been beyond his experience and understanding.

It would be an advantage to the world if Khrushchev did understand this country and if he did understand Western civilization. Perhaps he is not too stubborn to learn.

'Are You Sure You Don't Want To Be Friends?'

Why The Civil Rights Commission Can't Agree

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Anyone who had the idea that a national commission to investigate "civil rights" could come up with a coherent report after months of study is bound to be puzzled by the confusing and to some extent contradictory recommendations just issued by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Six members — three from the North and three from the South —made a conscientious effort to come to grips with the civil rights question as it affects registration and voting, housing and education. But the net result is a sharp division between the six.

As for voting rights, the report presents an anomaly. The three Northern members — John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, and Professor George M. Johnson, former dean of Howard University, who is the only Negro member of the Commission — joined together to recommend a new Constitutional Amendment. They feel it is necessary if the people wish to take away from the states their present right to determine for themselves all the different qualifications of voters apart from race or color or sex. This is sound reasoning. For, as noted in these dispatches several weeks ago, the Constitution today specifically gives the states the right to define such voter qualifications and to provide, for instance, tests to prove that a citizen can read and write.

Oddly enough, however, two of the Southern members — former Governor Doyle E. Carlton of Florida and Robert G. Storey, dean of the Southern Methodist University Law School at Dallas, Texas — joined with the three Northern members to recommend the passage of a federal law to prevent individual discrimination in the application of existing state laws on the subject of voter qualifications. But these same two members, together with a third from the South — former Governor John S. Battle of Virginia — then insisted that an Amendment to the Federal Constitution is unnecessary to secure proper enforcement of voting rights because existing powers of Congress are adequate.

Perhaps the most controversial section of the report is that which deals with alleged discrimination on the part of educational institutions which receive federal funds. It is signed by the three Northern members and says in part:

"More than $2 billion a year of federal funds go for educational purposes and to educational institutions. The principal recipients of these funds are the nation's colleges, universities, and other institutions of higher education. Whether tax-supported or privately financed, they receive federal grants and loans both for their general support and capital improvements as well as for research projects, special programs, and institutes."

The same three members of the Commission recommend that federal agencies "be authorized and directed to withhold funds in any form to institutions of higher learning, both publicly supported and privately supported, which refuse, on racial grounds, to admit students otherwise qualified for admission."

But, unfortunately, the three members who signed that particular statement disregard the fact that, when the federal government attempts to enforce one section of the Constitution with respect to federal aid to education, it opens up to similar scrutiny the application of other parts of the Constitution, especially the First Amendment which decrees a complete separation of church and state. If this concept of existing Constitutional provisions were followed literally, then the GI Bill of Rights and any other federal grants might be held to be improper where any church-controlled schools or colleges are involved. It is interesting to note that the three Southern members — Commissioners Storey, Battle and Carlton — do not think the federal government should attempt through its money power to police the schools. Their dissent is as follows:

"We cannot endorse a program of economic coercion as either a substitute for or a supplement to the direct enforcement of the law through the orderly processes of justice, as administered by the courts.

"Such a proposal by this Commission — as a branch of the federal government — would drastically affect the administration of privately owned institutions of higher education. Such action goes beyond the scope of the commission's duties."

Strictly speaking, all private schools could be compelled under such a plan to admit anyone, irrespective of race or creed or color, or else forfeit tax exemptions and other federal government privileges.

It is in the field of housing, however, that the Commission finds itself wandering far afield from Constitutional principle. It says:

"The need is not for a pattern of integrated houseing. It is for equal opportunity to secure decent housing. . . . The Negro's need for an alternative to blockbusting as a way of securing housing must be met just as the legitimate interests of white neighborhoods on the edge of Negro expansion areas must be protected."

This sounds a bit reminiscent of the "separate but equal" doctrines that used to be applied by the courts before the 1954 Supreme Court "desegregation" decisions. Interestingly enough, while this very section on housing apparently won the concurrence of all six members of the Commission, again even this appearance of unanimity is offset somewhat by a supplementary comment by the three Southern members concerning future methods of tackling the problem of housing. They warn that "no one pattern will serve the country as a whole."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The Democratic party's official organ, the Democratic Digest, has its own party fuming, and some Republican quarters all but shouting "treason."

The Digest is supposed to reflect official party thinking. It expounds party philosophy and gives the line of attack on Republican activities. So it was that there was a fair amount of curiosity over how the publication would treat Vice President Richard Nixon's trip to Russia.

The Digest termed Nixon's Soviet trip a "calculated publicity coup" designed to take the play away from New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at the Puerto Rico governor's conference.

These two men are undoubtedly running as hard as they can for the GOP Presidential nomination next year. It is well known that Rockefeller hoped the governors' conference would be an opportunity for him to display his political wares to some of the nation's top Republican leaders.

However, in the opinion of many leaders of both parties, it was too extreme to put a completely political light on Nixon's sensational accomplishments in Russia.

Political polls and the experts generally indicate that Democrats have a better than even chance of capturing the White House in next year's elections. Some Democrats are a bit concerned that blunders on the part of too zealous party workers could upset the apple cart.

Keeping A Youngster In Bed After A Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A. B. writes: "Years ago, when my son was small, my doctor instructed me to keep the child in bed when he ran a fever until a day or two after his temperature returned to normal. My son's wife does not follow this plan. She says it's impossible to keep the boy in bed when he has a temperature, and that it does not make any difference if he runs around and plays. Do you think a child should stay in bed when he has a fever, to prevent damage to the heart?"

It is a good policy for everyone with a cold or minor infection to remain in bed for 24 hours after the temperature has returned to normal. A longer period may be required for those convalescing from more serious ailments, such as pneumonia, rheumatic fever, or encephalitis. Adults are likely to do as they are told but children act according to the way they feel.

Most youngsters stay in bed without coercion when they are sick but become fidgety as soon as they feel better. Forcing them to remain quiet in bed is useless because the majority twist and squirm all over the place at the moment the parent turns his head. It is easier to allow some freedom, even to the extent of getting out of bed, provided the room is warm. Sitting on the floor will not damage the heart.

It is a trick to keep a youngster amused while he is convalescing in bed. It taxes the energy and ingenuity of the most skilled parent. Provide adequate support for the back and sufficient light to prevent eyestrain. A lightweight tray or sturdy cardboard makes an excellent play surface.

Many tots will play for hours by themselves when supplied with toys, dolls, puzzles, scrapbooks, or coloring books. They also like company now and then. The older children enjoy cards, whereas a younger boy or girl likes to have an adult read or tell a story. We wonder how parents managed their little invalids before the advent of radio and TV.

Youngsters who have a contagious or infectious disease should not mingle with other tots and it is a good idea to keep them insidef or a day or two after the temperature drops to normal. This helps prevent a relapse and keeps them from spreading their disease to others.

TOMORROW: Worry wears you down.

FOAM RUBBER

E. F. writes: Can sleeping on a foam rubber mattress cause me to sneeze and have other symptoms of allergy?

REPLY

I doubt it, as foam rubber usually is recommended as a hypoallergenic product for asthmatics. Have you overlooked the feathers in pillows or the lint from the blankets? You ought to be tested to determine the cause of your allergic manifestations.

TO EAT OR NOT TO EAT

R. T. E. writes: During an attack of diarrhea, is it better to fast or eat?

REPLY

Skip a meal or two and then have tea and toast or a dish of cooked cereal. Sips of water or eating ice chips help avoid dehydration.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Jimmy Durante takes a dim view of suburban life but one Sunday a friend lured him out to his estate, and to add insult to injury, made him look at his beehives. "I stuck my face into one of the hives," avers Durante, "and when those bees gotta load of my schnozzola, the queen bee hollered, 'Run for the hills, boys; it's an anteater!' "

Durante also tells us he's figured out what to do in case there's ever an air raid while he's playing in Las Vegas. "I'll just hide under a slot machine," says Jimmy. "They ain't been hit for years."

The way Hollywood mothers tell it to their tots, "there once w[illegible] a mama bear, a papa bear, and a baby bear named Goldilocks—by a previou marriage."

"My wife's learning how to drive," a harrassed gent informed his druggist, "so I'll need a big supply of those new vitamin pills. My doctor tells me they're just the thing for run-down people."

Ike's Russian Trip More Important Than Khrushchev's Visit To U.S.

By Drew Pearson

When Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, on September 7, reprimanded the Commandant of The Coast Guard and Adm. James Hirshfield for the joy ride the admiral gave his family all over Europe at government expense, it was the culmination of a Drew Pearson exclusive expose July 21.

Pearson has exposed the joy-riding of many Congressmen, admirals, and generals, some of whom were penalized, but most of them not. In this case, however, Secretary Anderson, civilian head of the Coast Guard, investigated immediately after the Pearson column, then acted vigorously to prevent further family joy rides by brass hats.

WASHINGTON — Harry Truman has made some interesting criticism of the Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchange visits. While he thinks it's a good thing for Khrushchev to come to the USA, he doesn't think it's a good thing for President Eisenhower to go to the USSR.

I don't like to be in disagreement with my old friend, Mr. Truman—though he has disagreed with me vigorously and perhaps justifiably before—but I think he's wrong in opposing Ike's trip to Russia. Here is the reason why:

In dealing with an autocracy, the only safeguard you have as a checkrein on its rulers is friendship of its people. In the United States there is a Congress, the press, and the churches, which can and do checkrein the White House. War is not easy for a President to declare in the United States with these forces against him.

But in a country like Russia, Khrushchev may be running things one day and somebody else the next. So, the only real safeguard is to convince the Russian people that the United States is a peace-loving, friendly nation.

This is why I think Eisenhower's trip to Russia is more important than Khrushchev's trip to the United States. For Mr. Eisenhower, when he gets away from his big business golfing partners, can be a very appealing, down-to-earth human being. He registers with crowds. People instinctively like him. And since the Russian people are sure to like him, his trip should be a very important step in cementing people-to-people friendship.

Ike Changed His Policy?

Just 11 years ago, May 1948, I was sitting beside General Eisenhower at a luncheon in New York. He was then president of Columbia University, and seemed as much concerned about the state of the world as when he had been Chief of Staff in Washington.

I suggested to him that the only way to make sure of peace with Russia was to break down the Iron Curtain—then completely rigid—and win over the Russian people. The Friendship Train, organized with the aid of the American railroads, and to which millions of Americans spontaneously contributed, had just made a successful tour through western Europe, and I suggested that if a similar train were sent toward Moscow, the Kremlin might have trouble stopping it at the edge of the Iron Curtain.

General Eisenhower wasn't enthusiastic.

However, we all change, and as President he has adopted the idea of people-to-people friendship. Eisenhower, however, has not changed as much as the Kremlin.

In three shorts years, the Iron Curtain has virtually disappeared. The strict barrier erected by Stalin to keep the Russian people from knowing outsiders and the benefits of western civilization, has evaporated in a steady stream of visits between scientists, businessmen, sports teams, orchestras, cultural groups, governors, and now the leaders of the two nations.

When you compare this with the blunt, brutal aloofness of Stalin's day, or when you recall the screams of protest that went up from behind the Iron Curtain when we floated in friendship-freedom balloons across the Iron Curtain to emphasize that the Kremlin was afraid to let the people on its side get acquainted with people on the western side —in view of all this, the change is nothing less than a political miracle.

Capitalism In Moscow

Part of this people-to-people exchange has been arranged by the State Department direct with Moscow. Part, however, has come about purely through the capitalist system which the Communists abhor—at least in theory. When Sol Hurok and Robert Dowling brought the Bolshoi Ballet, the Moiseyev Dancers, Sara Doulukhanova, the Soviet soprano, or the Russian festival to the USA, the engagements were booked on a pure profit-taking capitalistic basis.

Likewise when the famed Harlem Globetrotters basketball team went to Moscow, they were paid $4,000 a game, and all arrangements for the trip were made direct with Abe Saperstein, owner of the Globetrotters, rather than through the State Department.

Reason the Soviets booked the Globetrotters for the Lenin Sports Palace for one solid week likewise seemed tinged with a capitalistic motive. They wanted an attraction which would draw a big gate in order to make enough to balance the local sports budget. Just as Harvard pays for a good part of its season with the Harvard-Yale game, so the Soviets made up their deficit with the Harlem Globetrotters, a group of Negro basketball players whose trip helped belie earlier Soviet propaganda that the Negro gets no recognition in America.

This is just a small part of the steady stream of 74 American technical, sports and cultural groups, plus 63 similar Soviet groups which have visited the two countries; plus the remarkable showing of the Soviet and American exhibitions in New York and Moscow; plus about 300 Soviet visitors who came to the USA and about 9,000 American tourists who invaded Moscow in one of the most amazing changes that have taken place in any country since Admiral Perry opened Japan to the western world in 1855.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The housekeeper took a week off. She picked a substitute, a dark little woman with big feet, legs like broomsticks, and no teeth. Her name was Arabella and she offered no friendship to anyone. The first evening, when I had some friends in, she said that she disapproved of drinking, although she admitted that it was none of her business. She didn't even want to wash the glasses.

Arabella kept to herself. We kept to ourselves. When she left her room to come downstairs, she wore a white uniform with white headband on her dark hair. It looked odd with the sneakers. Still, that was her business.

Arabella said my dog ate too much. True. It's the only thing at which he excels. She said the living room mirrors were too big. She could not understand why I had books stacked in the headboard of my bed. "Healthy men shouldn't be reading in bed," Arabella said, shaking her head and telling how different life was in Anniston.

The third morning I got up, she was sitting on the kitchen stairs. Her elbows were on her knees, chin cupped in palms. She looked sad. Woefully sad. "You ready to jump off the dock?" I said.

She shook her head no. "I just want you to see what I been at," she said. Something about the slurry tone, the ice-skating walk across the kitchen, rang familiar chimes in my head.

"No," I said to myself. "It can't be. This is breakfast time."

She showed me a small cereal closet. I looked. "See how neat?" she said, and slammed the closet door and went back to sit on the steps. Chief came in. He had had breakfast and had rehung the boat on its lines. I nodded toward Arabella. He shrugged.

"A wino," he whispered.

No, I said softly. This poor woman is not a wino. She is opposed to booze in all its horrifying forms. Chief chuckled. "I'm only trying to tell you."

"Mr. Chief," she said, curling her tongue around the words, "I just want you to see this closet." She showed him. He looked at it. Then he looked at her. Then at me. I looked away.

Arabella went off to make the beds. Chief wagged his head. "Stewed," he said in the tone of respect that one hangover reserves for another. "Sad case." He went upstairs to Arabella's room. In a minute he was back down. "Thunderbird," he said. "She's flying."

I did some work in the guest house. At noon I came in for lunch. Arabella could hardly talk. I sat her at the kitchen table.

"Look," I said sympathetically, "If you want to drink on your own time, Arabella, I have nothing against it, but—"

"I hate alcohol," she said, and it was the first lucid sentence of the day. I agreed and said that the bottle of wine would have to go, or she would have to go, or maybe both. She sighed.

"Seven years ago, I had aye accident," she said, trying to form the words precisely. "Doctor told me I lost all the blood in this left leg and I would have to drink a little port to get it back." The headband was slipping off one ear. She paused to set it back on top. "I suppose I got that blood back long ago. Maybe. Anyway, it tastes so good."

I might have known that a good housekeeper would not select a good substitute. Mine must have gone far to find this mental giant.

"No wine," I said. "Before breakfast?" I said. "I'm surprised."

She skated all day long. Once she came downstairs three at a time. Everytime she saw me, she said: "See how neat?" and she showed me the same little closet. Gayle came in, took a long look and said to daddyo: "What are you doing? Picking 'em for kicks?"

That evening, we had steaks. I asked Arabella for a little Worcestershire. She brought the bottle in. I reached for it. She yanked it away and started to shake it. She shook it violently. After a minute I reached again. Gayle and Chief began to watch. Arabella shook it over her head, in front, under each arm, behind her, and finally handed it to to me.

"I shook it," she said simply. We shook her . . .

Services Planned For Crash Victims

Janet Marlene Deems, 12, and Nancy Noami Deems, 15, were daughters of James Arthur and Ruth Thelma (Friend) Deems of Deer Park.

Janet was a sixth grade student at Dennett Road Elementary School, and Nancy was a ninth grade student at Southern High School.

Surviving, besides her parents, are a brother, Arthur Deems and three sisters, Barbara Jane, Sharrol and Mary Catherine Deems, all at home, and a half-brother, James Roger, Glendale.

The bodies of the two sisters are at the Minnich Funeral Home, Oakland.

Joint funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 1 p. m. at the Pentecostal Church at Deer Park by Rev. Ralph Jacks and Rev. Ernest Blizzard. Burial will be in Deer Park Cemetery.

The brother and sister killed in the crash, Nancy Lee Harvey, 12, and Merle B. Harvey Jr. 11, were the children of Mrs. Arlene Dombroski, Altoona, Pa.

Also surviving are a stepfather, Walter Dombroski, Altoona, Pa., and a half-sister, Joyce Ann Dombroski, also of Altoona.

The mother of the two children was in Petersburg, W. Va. with the Tri-County Fair when she was notified of the tragedy.

Services for the brother and sister will be held Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the Leighton Funeral Home by Rev. Ernest Blizzard. Burial will be in Ferndale Cemetery near Oakland.

Shirley Ann Lee, 12, was a daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Virginia (Lee) Lee, Deer Park, and the late Joseph Lee, who died last year. Shirley was in the sixth grade at Dennett Road School.

Surviving, besides her mother, are two brothers, Henry and James Lee, both at home; Alonzo Lee, Ohio, and David Lee, Hollywood, Fla., and a sister, Mary Lee, also at home.

The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home where services will be conducted Sunday at 3:30 p. m. by Rev. Leroy Harvey. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery at Gormania.

The sixth victim of the crash, Leroy Carl Hoffman, 11, was the son of Raymond Clark Hoffman, Deer Park, and Jean Ann (Remy) Hoffman.

Leroy was in the fifth grade at Dennett Road School and was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Sunday School.

He is also survived by his stepmother, Mrs. Nancy Hoffman, and a sister, Holly C. Hoffman, at home.

The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home where services will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. by Rev. W. Ernest Fox. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

The body of the seventh crash victim, Richard Hinkle, is at the Leighton Funeral Home.

New Lawyer Admitted

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris today admitted Miller Bowen, of Frostburg, to practice before the Allegany County bar.

Bowen, a native of Frostburg, attended Beall High School and LaSalle High here. During World War II he served as a bomber pilot with the 433rd Bomber Group of the Eighth Air Force in the European theater of war.

He graduated from the University of Maryland Law School and was an FBI agent for four and a half years. He was also senior attorney for the Internal Revenue Service for the Atlanta, Ga., region.

Bowen is married and has two children and the family resides in Frostburg.

Crowned With Pizza

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Louis Ulmar, 40, was booked for an assault and battery investigation Tuesday after she crowned Renato Monti with a pizza.

Mrs. Ulmar told police she thought Monti, 45, owner of a pizza palace, was berating his brother Joseph, 61. Their arms waved and voices were raised during what the Montis called "a typical Italian-style conversation."

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"We're getting to the age when people our age are beginning to look older than we are."

"Of course, I remember the last compliment you paid me! You said, 'My, you look lovely in that wedding gown!'"

Turkey Club Sandwiches

- 4 (1-ounce) slices cooked turkey
- 8 teaspoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 4 lettuce leaves
- 12 slices hot buttered enriched toast
- 8 tomato slices
- 8 broiled bacon slices

Place a slice of turkey, a teaspoon of mayonnaise and a lettuce leaf between 8 slices of hot buttered toast. Spread a teaspoon of mayonnaise over top toast slice, place 2 tomato slices and 2 broiled bacon slices over mayonnaise. Cover with another slice of buttered toast. Fasten sandwiches together with toothpicks and cut each one diagonally into 4 triangles. Stand them upright on each plate. Garnish plate with pickles, olives, radish roses or celery curls.

Yield: 4 Turkey Club Sandwiches.

Canned Pears

Water Bath Method
(hot pack)

For each two pints of pears you will need 2 to 3 pounds fresh pears and 1½ to 2 cups Sugar Substitute syrup.

To make 2 cups of syrup:

LIGHT SWEETNESS, 1 tablespoon, plus 1 teaspoon Sugar Substitute and 2 cup boiling water.

MEDIUM SWEETNESS, 2 tablespoons Sugar Substitute and 2 cups boiling water.

EXTRA SWEET, 3 tablespoons, plus ½ teaspoon Sugar Substitute and 2 cups boiling water.

Method:

1. Wash pears; remove skins; cut in halves or quarters and core.
2. Drop at once into hot sugar substitute syrup and simmer for 3 minutes.
3. Pack hot fruit in sterilized glass jars; cover with hot liquid, leaving ½ inch space at top of jars.
4. Wipe rims of jars clean; secure lids firmly.
5. Process in boiling water bath—allowing 20 minutes for pint jars, 25 minutes for quart jars.
6. Set jars on towels in an upright position to cool.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

The bathrub is one of the best aids to glamour.

Glamour Bathing

Nothing makes a woman feel so pampered as a luxurious performed bath. It is also a recognized nerve therapy.

The clever woman takes time out each day to relax in a beauty bath. Late in the afternoon she can shut the door on a hectic day and take her beauty treatment before her husband comes home from the office. A leisurely one helps to unkink those frazzled nerves and chase frowns from her face.

Always scent the water with bath oil before stepping into it. The bath water is then soft and your skin is lubricated, not to mention the wonderful fragrance that clings to you afterward. Many of the new bath oils, which contain a big percentage of essential skin oils also, have another practical feature. After their use there's no ring left in the tub.

Before stepping into the oil-scented tub, many beauties with well-cared-for skin include this body treatment. They give themselves a quick rubdown with plain, rough salt. It can be kept in a glass jar in the bathroom for this purpose. To use, moisten the salt slightly with a damp wash cloth and rub it onto the body. This will loosen all the little, scaly, dried skin particles.

The bathrub is one of the most important aids to a woman's glamour. One a day is a "must" —and more may be needed in the warmer months. It not only depends on the temperature but the type of work you do.

It is always a wise idea to put lubricating cream on your face before stepping into the tub. That way you will be steaming, cleaning, and oiling the precious skin on this vital part while you bathe. At the same time you can put your hair up, so your ears, neck and back will be free for scrubbing. The bath water also steams and moistens the curls, so it is best to have them in curlers.

When you step from the tub give yourself a brisk rubdown with a big soft Turkish towel. Your skin will glow all over. Follow with a rubdown with a good body lotion in your favorite fragrance. This keeps the skin soft, smooth and fragrant. Don't forget to rub the feet . . . smooth skin here will prevent your hose from snagging.

As a final touch, splash or spray some cologne on your body. You'll feel wonderful!

TOMORROW: Making Scents.

Spaghetti With Tomato Meat Sauce

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 1 clove garlic minced
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
- ½ cup canned beer
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ⅛ teaspoon thyme
- ½ teaspoon Hot Sauce
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 8 ounces spaghetti
- Parmesan cheese

Melt butter in skillet. Add meat, breaking up into small pieces with a fork. Add onion and garlic and when meat is browned, stir in remaining ingredients except spaghetti and Parmesan cheese. Simmer until sauce is thickened, about 30 minutes. Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Serve with sauce; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

YIELD: 6 servings.

Salmon-Olive Roll-Ups

- 4 slices enriched bread
- ½ cup flaked salmon
- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of Hot sauce
- ¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 16 small stuffed olives
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup condensed cream of celery soup
- 2 tablespoons milk

Trim crusts from bread. Combine salmon, almonds, lemon juice, salt, Hot sauce, and mayonnaise. Spread 3 tablespoons salmon mixture on each slice of trimmed bread. Place 3 small olives across center of bread. Roll bread with olives in center. Fasten with toothpicks. Brush with melted butter. Toast roll-ups in hot oven (400°F.) for ten minutes, or until golden brown. Slice remaining olives and combine with celery soup and milk. Heat and serve over toasted salmon roll-ups.

Yield: 4 Salmon-Olive Roll-Ups.

Canned Peaches

Water Bath Method
(Hot Pack)

For each two pints of peaches you will need 2 to 3 pounds fresh peaches and 1½ to 2 cups Sugar Substitute Syrup.

To make 2 cups of syrup:

LIGHT SWEETNESS, 1 tablespoon, plus 1 teaspoon Sugar Substitute, and 2 cups boiling water.

MEDIUM SWEETNESS, 2 tablespoons Sugar Substitute, plus 2 cup boiling water.

Method:

1. Wash peaches; remove skins; cut in halves and pit. 2. Drop at once into hot sugar substitute syrup and simmer for 3 minutes. 3. Pack hot fruit in sterilized glass jars; cover with hot liquid, leaving ½ inch space at top of jar. 4. Wipe rims of jars clean; secure lids firmly. 5. Process in boiling water bath—allowing 20 minutes for pint jars, 25 minutes for quart jars. 6. Set jars on towels in an upright position to cool.

Calorie count per serving: (two peach halves plus 1 tablespoon syrup standard recipe (packed with sugar syrup), 68. Sugar substitute recipe 27. Saving, 41 calories.

In Rolls Tuna

Tuna salad in a bun is fun, especially in hot weather and where children are involved. Somehow buns say picnics, and when they are filled with universally liked tuna, both the mood and food are right for summer.

By keeping a can or two of tuna in the refrigerator as a staple, you have the start for truly appealing summer salads and sandwiches. The tuna salad, in a bun or no, makes an excellent luncheon or supper dish. It's hearty and yet provides a pleasant lift on a hot day.

Canned tuna is a protein food of superior quality. Its B vitamins and such essential minerals as calcium, phosphorous, iron, copper and iodine are important in the diet of growing children and full grown adults.

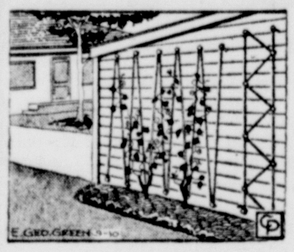
Tuna Party Rolls

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- ⅓ cup mayonnaise or commercial sour cream
- 4 frankfurter rolls
- ¾ cup finely diced celery

Combine tuna and celery; sprinkle with lemon juice. Blend together onion, horseradish and mayonnaise; add to tuna mixture. Toss lightly. Spoon into split rolls. If desired, garnish with capers and sliced stuffed olives.

Yield: 4 servings.

WIFE PRESERVERS



If you'd like greenery decorating the bare wall of a garage or the like, without the expense of a trellis, string up polyethylene rope in an interesting pattern. It's impervious to rot and easy to handle.

Fingernail badly broken? Mend it with transparent tape, then cover the nails with polish for camouflage. (Tape must be applied before polish.)

Hungarian Goulash

- 1½ pounds beef chuck or round, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 cups thinly sliced onions
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 teaspoons paprika
- 2 cups water
- ½ cup canned beer

Roll beef in flour. Melt butter; add beef and brown. Add onions, salt, paprika and water; simmer 1 hour. Add beer, simmer 1 hour longer or until fork-tender. Serve over hot caraway noodles.

YIELD: 4 servings.

The starfish is an animal that sends its stomach out to dinner. A starfish can slide its stomach out of its mouth, surround food with it, and pull the stomach back into its body.

Look for an increase in "matching" shoes for fall—fabric footwear dyed in a solid shade to coordinate with a costume or made of the same fabric as the costume. This latter matching is possible when a woman is lucky enough to get an extra swatch of material and is near a shoemaker who will custom-make the footwear for her.

Ham is such a particularly good buy right now, you're probably featuring it in menus regularly. This spicy skillet dish with canned cherries, ham and rice costs a song, and your praises will be sung when you serve it.

Spicy Cherry Ham 'n Rice
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup diced cooked celery
- 1 can (1 pound) red tart pitted cherries (water pack)
- Water
- 2 bouillon cubes
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1/16 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 2 cups diced cooked ham

Melt butter in skillet. Add celery and cook until tender. Drain cherries; add enough water to cherry liquid to make 2¼ cups. Add to celery with bouillon cubes, salt and ground cloves. Bring to a boil. Add rice slowly. Cover; reduce and simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Add cherries and ham last 10 minutes cooking time.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Young people who have frequent accidents tend to be poor thinkers, while older accident victims more often lack coordination and dexterity.

Swiss Cheese And Ham Pie

- Pastry for 9-inch pie shell
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
- 3 eggs, beaten slightly
- 1 cup diced cooked ham

Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry, fluting the edges. Chill in refrigerator. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk stirring constantly and cook until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add Swiss cheese gradually and stir until melted. Cool slightly and stir a small amount of mixture into beaten eggs, then stir eggs into sauce; add ham. Bake pie shell in a hot oven at 425° for 15 minutes. Lower heat to slow oven 300°, and pour filling mixture into shell. Bake until filling "sets", or until knife blade inserted in middle comes out clean, about 40 minutes. If desired, garnish top with additional Swiss cheese, chopped chives and broiled tomato slices. Makes 1 9-inch pie, 5 to 6 servings.

Sausage Stroganoff

Here's a quickly prepared stroganoff, as mouth-watering as its expensive namesake. Use skinless link pork sausage as the meat, and serve on broad noodles or toast points. Spiced crabapples, French bread and a crisp chef's salad are perfect partners for the stroganoff.

- 6 skinless pork sausages
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 large onion, sliced
- ½ green pepper, chopped
- 1 10½-ounce can condensed cream of celery soup
- 1 4-ounce can mushrooms, drained
- ½ cup sour cream, at room temperature
- 1 tablespoon sherry (optional)
- Paprika

Brown sausages on all sides, according to package directions. Slice thinly. Saute onion and green pepper in butter in saucepan until soft but not brown. Add soup and sausage and heat through, stirring frequently. Blend in sour cream and sherry and heat a minute or two more. Do not allow to boil. Spoon onto noodles or toast and sprinkle with paprika. Serves 3.

Pupils Learn Of Tragedy At Close Of School Day

Pupils of Dennett Road Elementary School in Garrett County learned at the close of classes yesterday afternoon that six of their schoolmates had been killed and a number of others hospitalized when the school bus they were riding was rammed by a B&O passenger train at the Mountain Lake Park crossing.

Foster Riggs, principal of the school for the past 13 years, broke the tragic news to the youngsters. Today the boys and girls will contribute money toward the purchase of flowers for their schoolmates.

Mr. Riggs, the teachers and pupils were shocked and stunned by the news of the tragedy termed the worst in the Garrett County schools transportation system.

Shirley Ann Lee, 12, a pupil in the sixth grade at the elementary school, who was one of those fatally injured, has had other tragedies in her family.

Several years ago their home was destroyed by fire and several of the children perished in the flames. Her mother, Evelyn Virginia (Lee) Lee is an invalid and the child's father died about a year ago.

Yesterday was the first morning the little girl had ridden on the bus operated by Leroy Campbell. She had moved from another section of the county on Wednesday.

One school official pointed out the 36-passenger bus had been inspected on August 18, a routine procedure by the schools system. Minor defects had been corrected by August 26, he said.

Area Shriners Will Attend Convention

Ali Ghan Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S., will send a good delegation to the Middle Atlantic Shrine Association Convention which will be held in Philadelphia Friday and Saturday.

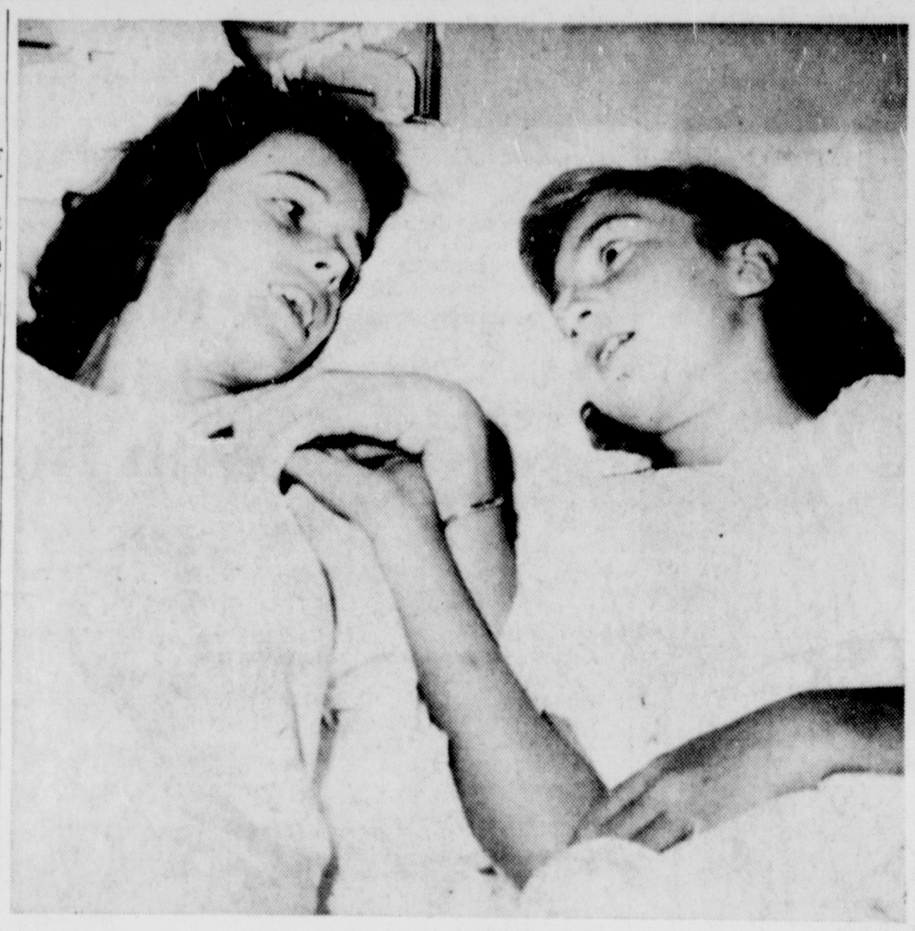
Official representatives of Ali Ghan Temple will be Illustrious Potentate Austin W. Howard; John H. Hose, chief rabban; H. Glenn Boyd, high priest and prophet; Orville M. Weston, Oriental guide, and Robert E. Stallings, recorder.

Past potentates in the official delegation will be J. Stanley Hunter, Harry M. Hartman, Harold C. Wickard and McKinley C. Morton.

J. Walter Close and Ervin Lewis will be among the members who will attend the conclave.

Delegations from 21 temples in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia and New York City will attend.

A. Wayne Reed, Frostburg, who is most excellent grand master of Masons in Maryland, is a past president of the area Shrine association.



Survivors Of Crash

Saw Train Coming

Mary Ellen, who resides with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Paugh, Deer Park, was one of the fortunate students who escaped the terrible crash with minor injuries.

The pretty, brown-haired girl said she has a habit of looking both ways whenever the school bus reaches the railroad crossing. She saw the train approach the stalled bus.

Felt Impact

"I felt the train strike the bus and the next thing I knew bodies were lying around me and a seat was on my back. The bus was full of dust and all I could hear were moans."

The young girl said her aunt, Marjorie Paugh, 14, also was a passenger on the vehicle and escaped with just minor injuries.

"All I could think of was whether my aunt was hurt or not" Mary Ellen said. "The first thing we did was to go to a telephone and call my grandmother and tell her we were all right."

Mary Ellen said she didn't know why someone didn't think to use the emergency exit. "Everyone tried to push the front door and there was a lot of pushing and shoving."

Mary Ellen also was concerned how the rest of the children will get to school now, and whether a new bus will be provided.

Boy Gets Off School Bus, Is Hit By Another

Donald Groves, 13, of Centerville, RD 3, was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries sustained when he was hit by a school bus after he had alighted from another school bus at Bedford Springs.

His condition last night was reported as "fair" according to police who said he suffered a fractured nose, concussion of the brain and upper lip laceration.

The boy had alighted from a bus driven by Ellis Nave of RD 3, Bedford, and walked around the front of the bus and ran into the path of another bus driven in the same direction by James R. Zembower of Bedford RD 3. Police said Zembower was unfamiliar with the passenger stop.

Company Restricts Water Consumption

The Klondike Water Company yesterday informed customers that water should not be used to wash cars or water lawns until further notice.

Company officials also urged customers to use water sparingly, as the reservoir was down to a two-day supply.

Engineer Says

B&O in 1910 and became an engineer in 1916, said the track was straight for some distance before the crossing, but he pointed out that the engine was traveling east and the sun's glare in the engine cab made it difficult to distinguish objects at any distance.

"The rolling, pitching motion of the train (which the engineer said was traveling at 50 miles per hour) gives the impression that other objects are moving," he stated.

"It was some seconds after I saw the tail end of the bus on the tracks before I realized it was stopped. I had one hand on the whistle cord and the other near the brake when I knew the bus wasn't moving. I immediately closed the engine throttle and threw on the emergency brakes, but we just couldn't stop in time," the engineer said.

Was Watching Signals

Mr. Droege went on to explain part of the operation of the diesel engine, noting that he had to keep an eye on track targets or "running orders."

At the crossing where the fatal accident occurred, the train rounds a left hand curve some distance before it reaches the crossing. There is a signal block which gave him a clear-track-ahead reading; a telegraph office where messages are placed on a large outside board; and a track sign which signified a crossing ahead.

"It was some moments after rounding the curve before I could see the crossing," Mr. Droege said. "When I first saw the bus I thought it was crossing the tracks and as we were some distance away it did not immediately occur to me that there was trouble."

Because of the danger of injury to passengers or an accident with an emergency stop, Mr. Droege explained that he had to use his judgment in watching crossings to see if they are clear.

Didn't Know Bus Was Stalled

The engine's fireman, A. L. Holland, Hill Top Drive, apparently did not realize the bus was stalled on the crossing, Mr. Droege said, because he also has an emergency brake lever which was not pulled.

"We just braced ourselves and hung on before the train hit," the engineer said. "My immediate concern was for the approximately 400 passengers aboard the eight cars behind our three diesel units. If the train left the tracks it could have really been a mess."

Mr. Droege normally takes the Diplomat west from Keyser to Grafton and then makes the morning run back to Keyser. The train is due at the Mountain Lake — Loch Lynn crossing at 8:30 a. m.

"I'll remember this for a long time. I just hope nothing like it ever happens again," he added.

Crowds Still Mill Around Scene Of Crossing Accident

Several hundred persons were still milling around the scene of the terrible accident at Mt. Lake Park at dusk last night, just viewing in silence the remaining evidence of the wreck.

Very young and very old people, and parents with small children just walked up and down the railroad tracks at the site of the crash which claimed the lives of seven children and injured many others.

Railroad crews from the B&O cleaned up evidence of the tragic mishap, but small bits of paper from notebooks and parts of school lunches still were strewn about the site where the train rammed the bus.

Cumberland Races Shifted To Hagerstown Track Monday

State Racing Commission Orders Move

Horse Shortage Cause; Hub Card To Open Monday

The Cumberland Fair Association will not hold its 12-day race meeting which was to have started here September 14, it was announced last night by R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission.

Announcement was made by the state racing official after he was advised by J. Fred Colwill, Cumberland racing secretary, that less than 300 horses would be available for the 12-day session at Fairgo.

Mr. Livie informed the NEWS that Senator J. Glenn Beall, president of the Cumberland Fair Association, was advised that the commission will meet this morning to make the announcement official.

Move To Hagerstown

The state chairman stated that the Cumberland meeting will be transferred to Hagerstown, commencing Monday, September 14, and that will give the horsemen 24 days of racing in the Hub City.

President Beall, at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D.C., stated that "if we don't race at Cumberland it is purely because of the lack of cooperation and coordination on the part of Racing Secretary Colwill and the Maryland Racing Commission."

The fair association head said that one week ago he was advised by Colwill there would be ample horses going to Cumberland for the meeting which opens next week. Jay Mohr, who had charge of stabling of the horses here, advised Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, he had 400 horses slated for stalls at the local half mile track. Senator Beall added that yesterday he learned from Colwill that there would be less than 300 horses coming here and that would be insufficient to conduct a 12-day meeting of 96 to 99 races.

Chairman Livie stated that it would be unfair to the racing public to try to stage a meet with less than 300 thoroughbreds and he notified Cumberland not to attempt to run. He said the commission would not permit six races daily nor allow only five or six horses to run in a race as this would cut into the revenue which the state receives from racing.

Mr. Livie said the transfer was authorized under the commission's emergency clause powers because of a shortage of horses at the Cumberland track. Only 19 thoroughbreds were on the grounds, he said, primarily because of competition from nearby Charles Town.

Tried Other Tracks

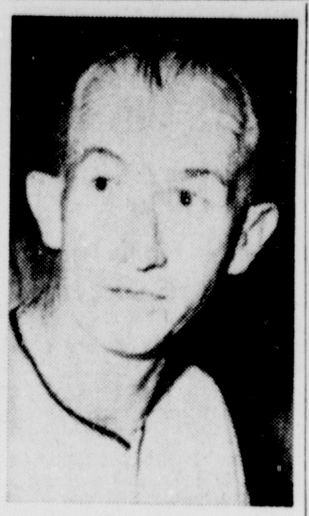
The chairman said efforts to shift the Cumberland dates to Timonium and Marlboro were unsuccessful. Timonium must operate as a non-profit track in conjunction with the state fair, he said, and Marlboro's facilities were unavailable because of a farm fair scheduled for the same time as the Cumberland meet.

The transfer of the races from Fairgo to Hagerstown marks the first time in 35 years that flat racing will not be staged at the local track which was opened as a harness course in 1924.

President Beall and General Manager Barton stated they were definitely opposed to moving the races but they had to abide by the decision of the Maryland Racing Commission.

Will Honor Tickets

The races in the Hub City will be under the banner of the "Cumberland Fair Association" and all tickets purchased and all passes distributed by the local association will be honored during the 12 days of racing which gets under way Monday at 1:45 EDT.



WARNED—Bill Rigney, manager of the San Francisco Giants, has received a third note warning him not to win any more games in the race for the National League pennant. Rigney said that "some crank" probably wrote the note. It was the third note he has received in recent weeks. "I didn't notify police but threw the notes into the wastebasket where they belonged," Rigney told newsmen.

Fort Hill And LaSalle Usher In Football Season Tonight

Lattimer, Harden Will Make Debut As Head Coaches

Cumberland's 1959 football season will be ushered in tonight at the stadium where Fort Hill's Sentinels and LaSalle's Explorers will have the honor of kicking off the lid for the fourth straight year.

The lid-lifter will mark the debut of new head coaches at both local schools. For the first time since 1945 Fort Hill will have a new mentor in the person of Charles E. Lattimer, former University of Maryland center, and Bridgeport (W.Va.) High School coach, who succeeds William P. Hahn, now head coach at Wheaton High School in Montgomery County. Hahn made his debut at Fort Hill in 1942, was in the Navy in 1943, 1944 and 1945 when Mel Henry took over the Sentinels, returned in 1946 and remained at the Greenway Avenue school through the 1958 campaign. Paul Flick, one-time Martinsburg High athlete and coach at several high schools in recent years, is Lattimer's assistant.

Harden Makes Bow

LaSalle High's new head man is Don Harden, who was promoted from the post of assistant after Norman F. Geatz, Jr., stepped down at the close of the 1958 season. Geatz had tutored Explorer elevens for 7½ seasons. Harden's aide will be Harold "Buck" Shober.

Fort Hill, as usual, is the favorite in tonight's city contest over a school it has never lost to in football. In 26 games the Sentinels have won 25 and were held to a scoreless tie back in 1938. Since that one the Sentinels have reeled off 23 consecutive victories.

Fort Hill goes into tonight's game with the reputation of having gone undefeated in 20 consecutive games. In fact, the Sentinels haven't lost a game since late in the 1956 season when Front Royal, Va., turned the trick to the tune of 20-14. After that one Fort Hill beat Allegany, 20-0, posted a 10-0 record in 1957 and reeled off eight wins against a 6-6 tie with North Hagerstown last season.

Beall Hosts Allegany

Ed Schwarz, one-time University of Maryland varsity player, will be starting his second year at the helm when the Allegany Campers tackle Beall High School under the arcs at Beall High stadium.

Schwarz's first team at Campobello won seven and lost three in 1958 and the Campers hope to do as good or perhaps better during the coming campaign. Gerard "Jerry" Calhoun is at the Beall helm for the third season and his teams own an 11-8-1 mark for his first two years in the Mountain City. Beall's 1958 record was 5-4-1.

Four of the players slated to start for Beall were Mountaineer starters last season. They are Richard Linn and Jim Evans, backs, and Ralph Arnold and Chet Carter in the line. Keith Raines at guard is a transfer student who played two years of football in Pennsylvania.

Beall and Allegany are the oldest gridiron rivals in this section. Their first game dates back to 1909. The Frostburg school discontinued the sport for 25 years, came back in 1946, resumed hostilities with Allegany in 1947 and the Campers have reeled off 12 consecutive victories at the expense of the Mountaineers.

Ridgeley Hosts Indians

Two Potomac Valley Conference games appear on today's slate. Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks launch their campaign by playing host to the Circleville High School Indians while the Moorefield High School Yellowjackets tackle the Highlanders of Southern High School at Oakland. Southern High will be making its first start under Coach Earl Adolphson who has coached at Wirt County High School, Elizabeth, W. Va., for the past five years. Southern's new mentor attended West Virginia University and West Virginia Tech.

Other Friday games are Romney at Charles Town, Franklin at Green Bank, Petersburg at Terra Alta, St. Francis of Morgantown, at Mountaineer High School, Thomas; North Hagerstown at York, Pa.; Westminster at Gettysburg and Everett at Bedford.

Hoyt Wilhelm Stops Indians

Yields Three Hits, Snags 14th Win, 6-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — The knuckle balls thrown by Hoyt Wilhelm of the Baltimore Orioles sent the soaring pennant hopes of the Cleveland Indians into a ground loop Thursday night with a 6-1 setback.

Wilhelm stopped the Indians on three hits. They scored their only run in the eighth with the help of record - tying passed balls by catcher Joe Ginsberg.

By contrast, the Orioles hit the Indians right where it hurts — their pitching corps. Third baseman Brooks Robinson, who drove in the first Oriole run in the fourth, added insult to injury when he homered in the eighth with two on base off the once-feared Herb Score.

It was only the fourth home run this season for Robinson.

The Indians averted a shutout by Wilhelm, who snagged his 14th victory against 11 defeats after being charged with three straight setbacks, without benefit of a hit.

Ginsberg allowed two of Wilhelm's fluttering pitches go through him and permitted Strickland to reach third. He scored from there on an infield out.

The two passed balls by Ginsberg gave him four for the game, the same number which earlier this season tied him with three other catchers for the all-time record. One of the others is Gus Triandos who along with Ginsberg has helped Baltimore set an Oriole club record of 46 passed balls for a season.

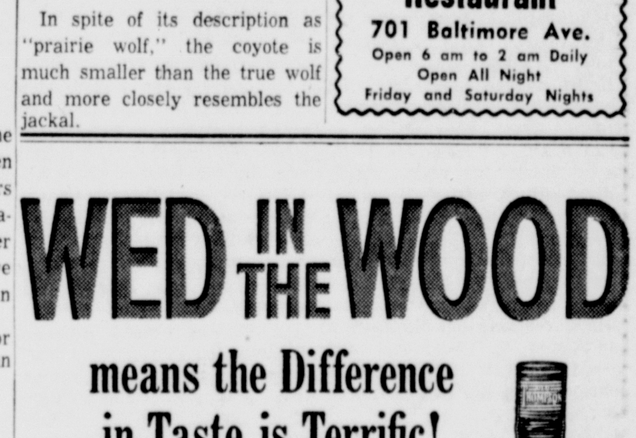
THEY RE-GREW HAIR



Mr. T. A. Melton of Hollidaysburg, Pa., (above) gave about 20 minutes of his time for a free Erickson Hair and scalp examination and re-grew his hair in only a few months.

Mrs. Virginia Barnes of Edwardsport, Ind., shows in the unretouched photos above she re-grew her hair in a few months of Erickson Home Scalp Treatments.

Tomorrow, September 12 only, at the Fort Cumberland Hotel in Cumberland, Staff Director Mr. J. L. Thomas will give free hair and scalp examinations between 1 P.M. and 8:30 P.M. to hair-worried men and women. If you don't come within the scope of Erickson treatments—you will be told immediately.

Look at your hair in the mirror now. Is it starting to slip back at the temples? Getting thin on the top? Do you have dandruff? Is your comb and brush filled with hair? Is your hair oily or dry?

What are you going to do about it? Are you going to let yourself become bald? Or, will you take steps now to save your hair? Certainly, a good head of hair adds much to your personal appearance.

The new modern and proved Erickson treatment is designed to effectively overcome the major, local cause of thinning hair. The Erickson "know-how" is based on years of experience. Last year, alone, over a quarter-million Erickson home scalp treatments were used. Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been making regular visits to your state for seven consecutive years.

Personal supervision by the Erickson specialists makes it possible for you to gain maximum results in a short period of time. There is no such thing as a "cure-all" for all hair troubles. That's why Erickson first examines your hair and scalp free before recommending scalp treatments. Erickson guarantees you results or it costs you nothing.

12 MONTH GUARANTEE

You will be given a written guarantee for the length of treatment or 12 months, whichever is greater. Less than 3% of those who used the Erickson home treatment requested a refund in 1958. So, it's not a hit or miss proposition. If Mr. J. L. Thomas accepts you for the Erickson treatments which will be applied in the privacy of your own home, you will notice results quickly. The cost for Erickson treatments is usually less than imitators.

Remember, all you need to do is go to the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday only, and ask the room clerk for the room of Mr. J. L. Thomas. There is no charge or obligation. No appointment is necessary. Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists, the largest organization of its kind, returns regularly to your city. Fulfill your own desire to keep your hair. Turn over your worries to Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists.

Milwaukee Cops 5th Straight, Trails Giants By 2 Games

McDaniel Gives Up Three Walks, Sets The Stage For Hank

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's surging Braves gained ground in the National League race Thursday as they extended their winning streak to five games by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 on a seventh-inning outburst featured by Hank Aaron's 200th hit of the season — a three-run double.

The victory pulled the Braves to within two games of the San Francisco Giants, defeated 5-3 by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Aaron, who contributed a single in a two-run first inning, cracked his decisive blow after the Cardinals scored three times in the top of the seventh to take a 4-3 lead.

Lindy Blows Up

Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel walked three straight after getting the first batter in the inning to set the stage for Hammerin' Hank, the major league batting leader with a .357 mark.

Aaron ran the count to two strikes and a ball, fouled off several pitches, then rapped a sharp liner that split the St. Louis outfielders in left center.

McMahon Is Victor

The victory was credited to relief specialist Don McMahon — now 5-2 — who checked the Cardinals in the final two innings, although Bob Rush was the pitcher of record in the bottom of the seventh. Rush came in for starter Juan Pizarro with the bases loaded and two out in the top of the inning and promptly served up two singles in as many pitches for three runs. The side was retired on a brilliant play by Felix Mantilla, who went far to his left to throw out George Crowe.

Vernon Law Scores 16th Victory, 5-3

Bucs Rally In 7th, Defeat Antonelli

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pittsburg exploded with four seventh inning runs Thursday, beat San Francisco 5-3, gave Vern Law his 16th pitching victory and cut the Giants' National League lead to two games.

Until then, the Giants led 3-1 behind Johnny Antonelli on two solo homers by Willie Mays and another by Willie Kirkland.

Antonelli failed in his bid to become the first major league hurler to win 20 games this season as the Pirates collected five hits, two walks and third baseman Danny O'Connell came up with a costly error in the seventh.

Mays was playing with an injured little finger on his right hand. He jammed the knuckle in Cincinnati Aug. 7 and said it pains him but he doubts it's broken.

Although San Francisco collected 11 hits off the right-handed Law, who has lost nine times, he kept them spaced as the Pirates played errorless ball. The final threat by the Giants, when Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda led off the eighth with singles, ended with a double play.

Bill Mazeroski walked. Hank Foiles singled him to second. Laws' sacrifice bunt failed as Mazeroski was thrown out at third, but Bob Skinner followed with a broken bat single over second, scoring Foiles.

Langton Breeze Takes Belmont Park Feature

ELMONT, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP) —Leading all the way despite the heavy impost of 162 pounds, Tower Hill Farm's Langton Breeze captured the 22nd running of the $16,575 New York Turf Writers Cup, feature of the opening day of the two-day United Hunts meeting at Belmont Park today, in track record time.

The 7-year-old son of Langton Abbot-Fierce Wind, ridden by young Tommy Walsh, nephew of trainer Mickey Walsh, stepped the two miles over 11 hurdles in 3:40 2/5, slicing a second and a fifth off the track record held by Policeman Day.

Langton Breeze sailed home four lengths to the good of Sanford Stud Farms' Sun Dog, who finished 12 lengths to the good of Arcadia Stables' Caste.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 15,009, Langton Breeze returned mutuels of $4.30, $3.00 and $2.60. Sun Dog paid $6.40 and $3.70 and Caste was $3.60 to show.

Langton Breeze earned a net purse of $10,598.75 for James McConnell of Red Bank, N.J., master of Tower Hill Farm.

Cubs And Reds Split Dual Bill

Chicago Wins, 6-3, After 10-4 Defeat

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs kayoed rookie southpaw Jim Bailey during a three run eighth inning and defeated Cincinnati 6-3 after the Reds rolled up a 10-4 triumph in the opener of Thursday's doubleheader.

It was the 24-year-old Bailey's first major league start. His brother Ed did the catching.

Jim yielded 11 hits, walked five and fanned four going seven and two-thirds innings.

After Tony Taylor singled and gave Chicago a 3-2 lead in the fifth, George Altman unloaded a bases' loaded double to climax the Cubs' closing spurt.

The doubleheader ended seasonal traffic between the two teams as the Reds gained a 13-9 advantage and padded their fifth place advantage to two games.

Kansas City Suffers 13th Loss In Row

Yankees Win, 12-1; Mantle Hits No. 28

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Terry pitched a four-hitter and Mickey Mantle had five straight hits, including his 28th homer, to lead the New York Yankees to a 12-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Thursday.

Terry allowed only one hit through the first eight innings, a bad bounce single by lead-off batter Russ Snyder in the first inning. The 23-year-old right-hander then retired 22 batters in a row before Kent Hadley reached on Elston Howard's passed ball after striking out in the eighth.

Mantle hit his home run in the first inning to tie the score at 1-1 and the Yankees continued to hit safely in every inning as they piled up 20 hits off four A's pitchers.

The Yanks put the game out of Kansas City's reach with three runs in the third on singles by Mantle, Howard, Hector Lopez and Gil McDougald, plus Marv Throneberry's sacrifice fly and an error by A's shortstop Joe DeMaestri.

The Yankees added five runs in the seventh on seven hits including a three-run homer by Tony Kubek.

Fantastic Record

The National League has been keeping records on extra inning games only since 1951, but the 1959 Pirates have already broken the known-records for most overtime wins in a season. Through August, they can boast a fantastic 18-2 record in extra inning games. Previous known high for overtime wins was 16 by the 1957 St. Louis Cardinals.

113 Golfers Vie In Dallas Open Tourney

Snead And Hogan In $25,000 Event

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Defending champion Sam Snead and semi-retired Ben Hogan ruled as betting and sentimental favorites Thursday night on the eve of the $25,000 Dallas Open Golf tournament.

Presence of these two "occasional" visitors to the tournament trail plus that of all but one of the newly-named Ryder Cup team members gives the affair probably the flashiest field since the PGA and Open championships.

113 To Compete

About the only big names missing from the 113-player field were those of National Open champ Billy Casper, recuperating in California from a case of chicken pox, and Ryder Cupper Jackie Burke, who had to withdraw at the last minute because of his wife's illness.

Snead, the long-hitting West Virginian, caused somewhat of a pre-tournament stir by his complaints about being forced to defend his title here or fork over a $500 fine.

But, the Ryder Cup meeting, which requires personal appearance to assure selection to the team, helped sway the Slammer's decision. He was named to the team Tuesday for the ninth time.

Hogan, who limits his tourney appearances to a scant handful each year because of the pressure of running his club manufacturing firm, and Snead apparently haven't felt the effects of the infrequent competition. Both have been around par or better in practice.

Sam Won Last Year

Snead's favoritism stems from the fact he's won the Dallas crown the past two years, although he had to go an extra hole to snatch the first prize money out of a four way tie last year.

Snead, Julius Boros and Gary Player moved in to tie young John McMullin on the final round at 272 last year with sub-par rounds while the front-running pro rookie faltered to a four-over-par 74 over the Oak Cliff Country Club course.

Of this foursome, only Player isn't around to make another run at the layout, which has been revamped considerably since then.

Colt Fans Must Curb Enthusiasm

Friendship Airport Sounds Warning

BALTIMORE (AP) — Friendship International Airport warned Baltimore Colt fans Thursday they are going to have to curb their enthusiasm when welcoming home their National Football League champions.

"We love the Colts as much as anybody but there is no sense to all this rowdyism when greeting the returning players," said John O. Colonna, head of the City Department of Aviation.

Last Dec. 28, wild-eyed Colt fans all but tore the airport apart when the Baltimore team returned from winning the championship in a game with the New York Giants.

Colt players were wedged inside a bus while more than 30,000 noisy fans broke windows, climbed atop the bus and refused to permit it to proceed to Baltimore.

"I'll never forget that night," said Colonna, but his tone was not one of kind nostalgia. "There's absolutely no excuse for such tactics by Colt fans or anyone else, and they will not be tolerated in the future."

Mt. Savage Braves Make Series Sweep, Bag Playoff Title

Manager Elwood Kirby's pennant winning Braves also captured the playoff crown in the Mt. Savage Little League by beating the Pirates yesterday by the score of 5-4.

The win was the second straight for the Braves in the scheduled best-of-three series.

Robert Robertson's home run in the sixth inning was the margin of victory.

Boston Knocks Tigers Out Of 3rd Place, 7-3

Hands Frank Lary 10th Loss Of Year

BOSTON (AP) — Boston called on the one-two punch of Pete Runnels and Gene Stephens Thursday for a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Stephens' two-run double to the centerfield flag pole in the first inning and Runnels' looping single for two more in the second chased Tiger starter Frank Lary for his 10th loss instead of his 18th triumph.

Runnels, batting third in the order, collected another single and drove in another run on an infield out. Stephens doubled home a third tally in the fourth and also singled.

One of the high points of the game was Jackie Jensen's leaping catch against the right field wall that stole a home run from Gail Harris in the seventh inning.

Pumpsie Green accounted for the other Boston run when he tripled behind a Don Buddin single in the fourth.

Red Sox righthander Billy Monbouquette recorded his sixth victory of the year and enabled his club to break even with the Tigers on the season in their final meeting. It also dropped Detroit into fourth place behind the Yankees.

Barry MacKay Defeats Mark In Nationals

Ohio Player Moves To Quarter Finals

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILL, N.Y. (AP) — Barry MacKay rode his divot-digging service into the quarter-finals of the National Tennis Championship Thursday and confidently predicted: "I think I can go all the way."

The big fellow from Dayton, Ohio, overbalancing his 10 double-faults with 22 aces, smashed Bob Mark of Australia to the sidelines 6-4, 6-4, 9-7.

MacKay's explosive service — the best in amateur tennis — failed him onl once, that in the tenth game of the third set when he let down temporarily. But he bounced back to crack Mark in the 15th game and then hold with four thunderbolts in the 16th.

The 24-year-old Midwesterner Friday goes against his Davis Cup teammate, Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, the National Clay Court champion and unseeded dark-horse. But MacKay feels this is just a temporary obstacle.

"The way I'm playing I think I have a good chance—I have a feeling I can win the whole show," the good-natured giant said.

In the only other men's match, sixth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile breezed to a 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Dr. Edward Dailey of Harrisburg, Pa. The quick, scrambling South American was too steady for the tall young doctor, whose main weapon was a smashing service.

Maria Bueno, poker-faced Brazilian who won at Wimbledon and is favored here, survived a close squeak in the carryover match with Jeanne Arth, St. Paul, Minn., school teacher, finally inning 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

She was joined by fourth-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., runnerup to Althea Gibson last year, and a pair of unseeded outsiders, 16-year-old Karen Hantze of San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Louise Brough Clapp of Pasadena, Calif.

University Is Held Blameless In Lohr Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—The family of a University of Maryland football player who died four days after collapsing at practice held Coach Tom Nugent and his staff blameless Thursday.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president, also said he investigated the death of 19-year-old Charles (Sonny) Lohr and found nothing out of the way.

Elkins added, however, the university still is studying the circumstances in view of the report of a spectator at the practice who said Lohr collapsed while going through a prolonged workout under protest.

Robert D. Welshmer, 17, a football player at High Point High School in Beltsville, Md., said he saw Lohr kept on the field after the remainder of the Maryland squad was dismissed on Sept. 2.

He said Lohr fell three or four times during one drill but that, despite complaining "I can't do it," he was ordered by an assistant coach to continue.

Then, Welshmer said, Lohr staggered and finally collapsed while running to the locker room.

C.C. Snyder, uncle of Lohr, said members of the family "do not hold the University of Maryland responsible in any way."

Homewood To Play Maple Inn Today

The fourth game of the best-of-five final playoff series in the County Softball League will be staged between the Homewood Tavern Old Exports and Maple Inn today at 6 p.m., at Wellersburg.

Homewood Tavern can sew up the playoff crown by winning today's game but a Maple Inn victory would extend the series to the limit of five games.

The Old Exports won the first and third games, 5-0 and 4-0, and Maple Inn copped the second game, 13-11.

Umpires Selected For Pen-Mar League Playoffs Sunday

Umpires were named yesterday for the Pen-Mar Baseball League playoff games set for Sunday at Mt. Savage and Centerville.

Bill Wilson and Vic Reynolds will officiate in the Barrelville at Mt. Savage game and Bill Andrews and Russ Minnicks will handle the Hyndman at Centerville contest.

Barrelville and Hyndman won the openers in the best-of-three semi-final playoffs last Sunday.

If third games are necessary in either series the site will be determined by the flip of a coin and these contests must be played Wednesday, Sept. 16 or Saturday, Sept. 19.

The final playoffs will get under way Sunday, Sept. 20.

Senators Top Chicago, 8-2

Pascual Is Victor, Killebrew Hits 40th

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators crushed the first-place Chicago White Sox, 8-2, Thursday night behind Camilo Pascual's four-hit pitching and home runs by Jim Lemon, Harmon Killebrew and Lennie Green.

Pascual struck out 10 en route to his 15th victory of the year and his job was made easier when all three Washington homers came with a man on base.

Killebrew's homer was his 40th, Lemon's his 29th and Green's his third.

Dick Donovan started and was kayoed in the third inning after Killebrew homered during a four-run rally. The 23-year-old Washington slugger now is tied for the major league lead in homers with Ernie Banks of the Cubs and Rocky Colavito of the Indians.

The Senators had lost 11 in a row and 16 of their last 18 to the White Sox before they turned on their tormentors Thursday night.

Rec League Teams Plan Collection For Barrett's Benefit

A collection will be taken up at the Rec Softball League playoff game today at Stitcher Field between the Ridgeley American Legion and the Sports Shoppe for the benefit of James "Mo" Barrett, pitching star of Post's Playground team who suffered a fractured right wrist while sliding into second base during Wednesday's playoff contest between the Old Germans and Post's.

Barrett had a 14-4 pitching record this season.

Manager Don Decker of Ridgeley and Co-managers Bob Carey and Lee Taylor of the Sports Shoppe agreed last night to have the collection taken up at today's contest.

The winner of today's "rubber" game, scheduled for 6 p.m., will play the Old Germans in a series for the league title. The Old Germans eliminated Post's Playground.

Ridgeley won the series opener, 11-2, the Sports Shoppe copped the second game, 5-4. Darkness halted Wednesday's game with the score knotted at 4-4 in the 7th inning.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Judy Kimball, a 21-year-old all-around athlete from Sioux City, Iowa, bounced national collegiate champion Judy Eller out of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Thursday at the Hot Springs Country Club.

National amateur champion Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., moved into the semifinals with an easy 5 and 4 triumph over Marcella Rose of St. Louis.

Joining her in the top bracket semi was Sherry Wheeler of Glasgow, Ky., who edged Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. of Indianapolis 1-up.

RANDOLPH TO SPEAK

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) will speak Friday at the 42nd annual meeting of the West Virginia Savings & Loan League. The meeting opened yesterday. Election of officers is scheduled Saturday.

There are more than 20 million bicyclists in the United States.

CD Station Setup To Be Demonstrated

The first Civil Defense emergency station setup in Allegany County will be demonstrated Monday, September 21 at 7:30 p. m. at the Midland Fire Hall, according to Mrs. Evelyn Campbell, administrator.

Mrs. Campbell said that a complete stretcher and first aid station facility will be arranged and that Civil Defense workers will man these facilities just as if there were a real emergency.

NO OTHER CITY CAN EQUAL
the TV sports programs this fall that Cumberland Cable TV will bring you

They include important playoff baseball games . . . world series . . . all the college and professional football games that will be televised from Pittsburgh, Washington, and Richmond . . . including all the professional football games played by the Redskins and Colts, including the home games. Also, all Notre Dame Saturday football games will be condensed into one hour and shown approximately twenty-four hours later.
There will also be a big assortment of all other types of sports . . . and don't forget that all the networks have promised big improvements in all their programming. So your TV set is really going to be busy if you have Cable TV.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy extended to us through the illness and death of our mother, Emma A. Cameron. We also wish to thank Rev. John McClain and the Presbyterian Choir. Thanks for the lovely floral tributes and to those who contributed in any way.

Children of
MRS. EMMA CAMERON.

You'll say so, too, when you see it ditching, road-crowning and clearing trees. You just flip a lever to drop one corner of the rugged Case® TerraTrac® bulldozer blade by hydraulic power — and PRESTO! Knife-like blade tip slices through hardpan, frozen ground, and tree roots — "like butter". 5 crawler models — from 42 to 100 HP.

SCHOOL DAYS WITH PROBLEMS SLATED—Mrs. F. H. Sanford sends her six graduated-in-size children (top) off to work for graduation from school as the fall term begins in Austin, Tex. Other back-to-school scenes were clouded with integration problems. Three bombs, one of which damaged the school board building (bottom, left), ignited public indignation in Little Rock, Ark., and the Chamber of Commerce offered a $25,000 reward for solution of the crimes. An effigy (center) was hung on the grounds of a school in Pine Bluff, Ark., after three Negroes were ordered admitted. Charlottesville, Va., quietly accepted 12 Negroes in two previously all-white schools. One boy appraises his white schoolmates (right).

Television and Radio

Televised Torts

Back when I was a sprout, the ambition of any fledgling Blackstone was to grow up to be Clarence Darrow and defend sex perverts, preferably rich ones. But that's anachronistic, like aspiring to a Stutz Bearcat. Today, young lawyers, while grubbing away at routine tasks, dream secretly of having their own television show. There's nothing like habeas corpus on a national network with a sponsor and all that jazz.

Such a one, forsooth, is Edgar Allan Jones Jr., who deals in televised torts as the judge on "Day In Court," three afternoons and one evening a week on ABC-TV, and the rest of the time is a practicing professor of law at UCLA. A deceptively youngish-looking fellow, Jones sturdily defends his split personality—one foot in show business, the other in jurisprudence—by explaining that he has seven children with an eighth on the way and any device for earning money, even the practice of law, is forgivable with that many mouths to feed.

How did it affect his relations with his students at UCLA? "Students will always look on a professor as an oddball," sighed Mr. Jones. "This just adds another dimension." On "Day In Court," the cases are taken from actual legal cases with real attorneys who appear anonymously. The plaintiffs and defendants are actors who stick to their lines. The lawyers stick fairly close to theirs except when Jones throws them.

Jones appears cold without even having read the script or the case and picks his way through it, as a real judge might. "This gives ulcers to the actors and directors and producers. They've been trying to get me to read the cases but I simply haven't time. Besides I think it gives the show a little excitement when no one knows the outcome."

Theoretically, the trials are supposed to have been going on all day and the outcome is concentrated in the half hour on the air. "We do maintain a remarkable degree of authenticity," says Mr. Jones. "To research the cases, I use the top students of the law school. Five students split up the work and also divide up $250 a week. This is a lot of money to a law student and we actually get much better work than if we gave the $250 to a full-time lawyer."

The American Bar Association thinks highly enough of the show to give it its Gavel award for "outstanding public service by increasing public understanding of the administration of justice through the television series."

"My decisions are completely ad lib, based on just what I hear on the show" Jones points out. "Two-thirds of the time I reach the same decision as that of the original court. One-third of the time I don't. We have some interesting cases of law.

"We just had one on the right of privacy. An ex-con brought damages against a movie producer who did a movie on this man's life. In 1939 he had been put in prison for second degree murder and that put the story in the public domain. After he was released he went straight, got married and became an insurance agent. The movie upset his life terribly and consequently I found for him. So did the California court which originally tried the case."

Every Friday "Day In Court" features arraignments, usually five of them. If you watch a week from this Friday for example, you'll see Jones preside over the arraignments of a man accused of turning his pets into alcoholics, a shoeshine boy accused of assault, and a father endangering the health of his child. "The viewers like the arraignments best. That way they get a capsule crime in four minutes — criminals come to the bench and plead guilty or not guilty. I stick to the facts of the case. I'm not going to jeopardize my law career to make it a good show. In fact if the show ever gets in the way of my real career which is the law, I'll quit."

Drop Calcutta Pool

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Officials of the Tournament of Champions golf tournament Tuesday announced the discontinuance of the controversial calcutta pool.

The gambling game, which enabled spectators to bid for golfers and then share in the total betting pool, grossed a record $380,000 at last year's auction. But the well publicized betting activity drew criticism of some professional golf officials.

School Bus Toll Stays At Seven

11 Children Are Hospitalized After Train Strikes Vehicle

The death toll from yesterday's tragic Garrett County accident in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Diplomat crashed into a stalled school bus at the Mountain Lake Park crossing on State Route 135 still stood at seven children late last night.

Eleven other children from the Deer Park - Loch Lynn - Boiling Springs section of Garrett County were still hospitalized with varying injuries but only two of them were considered in critical condition.

Eight other youngsters and the bus driver, Leroy Campbell, 49, of Deer Park, were simply treated at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital at Oakland and released.

The dead:

Lee Hoffman, 11.
Nancy Lee Harvey, 12.
Shirley Lee, 12.
Richard Hinkle, 11.
Merle B. Harvey Jr., 11.
Nancy Deems, 14.
Janet Deems, 12.

Seven of the injured children, all girls, were patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Most seriously hurt of the seven was Patricia Ann Hinkle, 14, sister of Richard and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Hinkle. She was still unconscious last night. Two other patients there, Sandra Patton, 13, and Mary Lee, 16, were considered in satisfactory condition last night.

The other four hospitalized at Oakland were much less seriously hurt. They are Nancy Ringer and Deanna Sutton, 11, both in fair condition, and Mary Ellen Itnyre, 14, and Delores Shaffer, 11, both in good condition.

Two Critical Here

Two other children of Mr. and Mrs. Hinkle were still in "critical" condition late last night at Sacred Heart Hospital here, where they were brought yesterday morning by an ambulance from the Leighton Funeral Home. Olen Hinkle, who was 13 yesterday, sustained compound fractures of both legs, broken mandible bone in the face, deep lacerations of the face, scalp, legs and chest wall. James Hinkle, 12, sustained a broken nose, bad lacerations of the face, nose and left ankle and possible fracttured skull.

Frances Dixon, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, Boiling Spring, was described as being in satisfactory condition last night at Preston Memorial Hospital in Kingwood, W. Va.

Also hospitalized in West Virginia is Marjorie Byers, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Byers of Deer Park, who was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital at Clarksburg yesterday afternoon by Leighton's ambulance. She had a fractured hip and broken ribs and possible internal injuries and was considered in serious condition last night.

The crash occurred about 8:30 a. m. yesterday.

Bus Stalls On Tracks

Mr. Campbell told authorities that the bus which he owned stalled for some unexplained reason as he started across the tracks. When the flashing red light and bell started indicating the approach of the eastbound passenger train, the driver-owner attempted to get the children off the bus. But only a few got out in time.

Within minutes, ambulances, station wagons and cars were on hand. The injured children, who were en route to Southern High and Dennett Road Elementary schools, were soon transferred to the hospital at Oakland.

One of those who arrived at the scene soon after the tragedy was William H. Buchholtz, former Cumberland commissioner. He was en route to Kingwood at the time. He said bodies were scattered around like rags. He said the recue response was "wonderful," and one of the first on the scene was State Trooper Donald Tucker.

Mr. Buchholtz also talked to the driver before he collapsed from shock. Mr. Campbell told the local man that he got five or six off the bus after the engine conked out.

Otto Droege, 214 Park Street, was the engineer on The Diplomat. The train was traveling about 50 miles per hour when he spotted the stalled bus. He immediately applied brakes and the speed was down to 20 miles per hour at the time of impact.

Engineer Says Flares Could Avert Crashes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

The slightly stooped man with thinning grey hair ran his hand across his face and spoke in soft tones which belied the emotions he felt as he told how seven children died in a tragic train-bus collision yesterday morning at the Loch Lynn-Mountain Lake crossing in Garrett County.

Thi was Otto Droege, 65-year-old Baltimore and Ohio Railroad engineer who was at the controls of the diesel-powered crack passenger train, "The Diplomat," which struck a bus loaded with 26 youngsters on their way to school at Southern Garrett County High School and Dennett Avenue School in Oakland.

"I never felt so helpless," the veteran of 46 years with the B&O said. "I knew we were going to hit that bus and just couldn't do a thing about it."

Mr. Droege, who lives with his wife at 214 Park Street here, continued, "If something will come out of this horrible accident which will benefit us in the future maybe it won't be as bad as it seems now."

Suggests Flares

Speaking quietly as he recalled the tragedy, Mr. Droege said, "If that bus driver had carried a red flare which could have been tossed on the ground I would have seen it a quarter of a mile farther from the crossing. Maybe I still couldn't have stopped in time but I know the engine would not have struck the bus with the impact it did. It is just a suggestion, but I think those school buses should be compelled to carry danger flares in case of emergency."

Mr. Droege, who went to the

Potomac Park Asks City For Fire Hydrants

A request for two hydrants to be used for fire fighting purposes was made to city officials last night by a Potomac Park citizens committee.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light assured the delegation the request will be granted unless it would create an engineering problem.

Members of the committee said they had no complaint about water service or rates but would like the fire plugs for emergencies.

The plugs are wanted this side of the Celanese plant and in the Fairgo section, the committee said.

Members said they asked the city to install the fire plugs a number of years ago but received no reply and decided the city was not interested.

The citizens group was told to contact Simon K. Carroll, city plumber, for estimates on the cost of the work and for details of the lines which serve the community.

The Citizens Committee of Potomac Park Addition was represented by Edward Brookman, E. M. Cornelius, E. W. Shaffer and H. C. Turner.

The City of Cumberland has a number of customers in the community, which has had a Citizens Committee unit for 12 years.

Bus In Which Seven Children Died

The crushed wreckage of a school bus, strewn about with books and notebook paper, tell the story of tragedy at the Loch Lynn-Mountain Lake Park crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on State Route 135 in Garrett County yesterday. Seven children, whose ages ranged from 10 to 14, died and 11 others were seriously injured when a B&O passenger train struck the bus after it stalled on a crossing. Among the dead were two sisters, and a brother and sister from another family. Two of the more seriously hurt were brought to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland.

Survivors Tell Story Of Train-Bus Crash

By CHARLES H. KELLY
And
P. TERRENCE BURKE

Two girls who were passengers on the school bus which was rammed by a B&O passenger train yesterday morning on the crossing at Mountain Lake Park gave a horrifying account of the tragedy when they were interviewed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital later in the day by reporters of The Cumberland News.

"I'm a lucky one," said 11-year-old Delores Shaffer, who was able to force a smile although her lips had been injured in the crash which claimed the lives of seven pupils and hospitalized 10 others. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Shaffer Sr., who live on a farm near Loch Lynn.

Delores was riding in the second seat on the right side of the bus and was chatting with other schoolmates when the bus stalled on the crossing.

She said it seemed the bus had stopped for only about a minute when the children heard the whistle of the approaching train and urged the driver, Leroy Campbell, to hurry.

Mad Scramble

But the driver was unable to get the bus started before the eastbound passenger was upon them. Meanwhile everyone panicked, said the little girl, who was unable to get out due to the mad scramble by others.

The pupils were "running over each other" in an attempt to get out of the bus, according to Delores, who said she couldn't get out. The train rammed into the bus, shoving it down the tracks.

Delores said she was caught in the door and "someone pulled me out of the bus." She said her two brothers who work in Oakland took her into the hospital. During the confusion she lost her pocketbook and shoes but did manage to find her school book.

She said she prayed and thanked God she was not seriously hurt. "I wish I would never have to go across another railroad track again."

"All I could hear after the crash was the moaning and groaning from the rest of the kids in the school bus after it was hit by the train."

Governor Calls For Full Probe Of Bus Crash

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes expressed shock Thursday at news of the Garrett County school bus accident. He called for a full investigation.

He was informed of the crash while at the Maryland State Fair and issued the following statement:

"I was shocked and distressed to learn today of the tragedy at Mountain Lake Park in Garrett County in which seven school children were killed and many others injured in a collision of a school bus with a train.

"My heartfelt sympathy goes out to the parents of the children who were killed and hurt in this terrible accident.

"I have asked for a full investigation and report to me from the State Police; from the Department of Motor Vehicles, which licenses and inspects school buses, and from the State Roads Commission, which has a vital interest in protective devices at railroad grade crossings.

"Responsibility for the accident must be determined precisely so that we may take whatever action is necessary to prevent a recurrence of the tragedy."

The governor also ordered the State Police to send a high-ranking officer to the scene to lend assistance and report to the governor. Capt. Charles McGaha of the Pikesville Barracks was designated, the governor's office said.

Boy Hurt While Playing

Larry Boggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Boggs, RD 3, Bedford Road, is a patient in Memorial Hospital, following an accident Thursday morning on Gephart School playground. Standing in back of a swing, the 7-year-old pupil was hit in the face, knocking out his front teeth.

FRANK MOLINARI

Local Tavern Operator Dies In Baltimore

Frank Molinari Jr., 59, manager of the Cadillac Cocktail Lounge here, died late yesterday afternoon in University Hospital, Baltimore.

He was born April 12, 1900, in Thomas, W.Va., a son of the late Frank and Josephine Santella Molinari Sr.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jane Roberts Molinari; two daughters, Mrs. William (Billie) Zeller, city, and Miss Diane Molinari, who is studying music in Baltimore; a brother, Harry Molinari, city, and a sister, Mrs. Michael Yantorno Sr., city.

Mr. Molinari made his home at 29 North Mechanic Street and was president of the company which operated the Cadillac Lounge at 25 North Mechanic Street.

He had been a resident of the city for most of his life. In 1932 he operated a tavern in Germantown, Pa., and later went to Miami, Fla., where he operated an apartment house.

He returned to Cumberland and went into business as the Cadillac Lounge on Baltimore Street in about 1942.

About four years later, he remodeled property on North Mechanic Street as the Cadillac Apartments and as the site of the present Cadillac Lounge.

He was a member of Cumberland Lodge 245, F.O. Eagles, and was active in sports such as bowling.

Garrett Hospital Disaster Plan Placed In Operation

A disaster plan which has been set up in Garrett County Memorial Hospital was put into operation yesterday morning when hospital officials first learned that a B&O passenger train had rammed into a school bus on the Mountain Lake Park crossing.

Henry W. McComas, who has been administrator at the hospital for about three years, said that on Tuesday he had conferred with Roy Harvey, hospital engineer, and informed him a "dry run" would be held in the very near future.

What was thought at first to be a "dry run" yesterday turned out to be the actual thing, said Mr. McComas.

After learning that the busload of children had been injured, Mr. McComas immediately got on the radio about 8:45 a. m. at the hospital and notified local doctors and police on the radio hookup.

Approximately 15 local and area nurses rushed to emergency bases, according to Mr. McComas, who said the seven resident physicians of the hospital were also notified.

Mr. McComas checked with the hospital laboratory and learned there was an ample supply of blood on hand for the emergency. Meanwhile many residents of Oakland and area came to the hospital for the purpose of giving blood.

Help Arrives

The city police were summoned and asked to block all entrances to the hospital grounds in order to keep curious people from hampering the efforts of doctors and ambulance drivers.

Mr. McComas called Broaddus Hospital in Philippi, W. Va. which responded by sending three doctors and an ambulance. The Preston County Hospital in Kingwood sent an ambulance and three doctors to Oakland and Terra Alta sent two doctors and an ambulance.

Someone else called Grantsville and Kitzmiller, which also sent ambulances. Mr. McComas called the Hopemont Sanitarium near Terra Alta and requested additional X-ray equipment.

Within an hour some of the doctors and ambulances from faraway sections were at the Oakland hospital, said Mr. McComas.

Some time ago, personnel had received copies of the disaster plan inaugurated by the hospital. Yesterday's tragedy proved the plan to be worthwhile, and it paid off.

Commends Helpers

As each child was taken into the hospital a disaster tag was placed on his or her wrist. Pertinent information is included on the tag, according to Mr. McComas, who said the injured were interviewed by the doctors who determined the severity of their injuries.

Mr. McComas commended the residents of Oakland and area for their cooperation and said the hospital personnel, doctors and nurses and others did a "wonderful job for a country hospital."

A third-floor solarium into which oxygen can be piped was placed in operation yesterday and beds were set up to care for some of the pupils.

Mr. McComas pointed out the hospital has 54 beds, although solariums on the second and third floors can be converted into wards to accommodate up to 10 patients.

Rail Crossing Safety Devices To Be Checked

BALTIMORE (AP)—The chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission Thursday ordered an inventory of protective devices at all railroad grade crossings on state highways.

Chairman John B. Funk said he hopes the investigation will contribute toward any plan that may avert another tragedy like the train-bus crash which killed seven school children in Garrett County.

Funk issued his statement after Gov. Tawes called for a full investigation of the accident by State Police, the State Roads Commission and the Department of Motor Vehicles, which licenses and inspects school buses.

The governor said "responsibility for the accident must be determined precisely so that we may take whatever action is necessary to prevent a recurrence of the tragedy."

Funk said a preliminary check showed there are 42 grade crossings on the state highway system, excluding those on little used sidings. He said all of these crossings are protected by automatic gates, light and bell devices or watchmen.

But he said he has ordered a complete inventory of the crossings to determine how many have each type of protective device. He said the commission will also consider the cost of erecting automatic gates at all crossings.

Funk said the SRC also will collect such information as the traffic count at each crossing, the number of trains using each crossing each day, the distance motorists can see down the tracks at each crossing and the distances trains are from the crossings before the warning devices begin to operate.

The crossing where the Garrett County crash occurred is on a state road. It is marked by a flashing light and bell, and railroad officials said the signals were operating at the time of the accident.

$649,750 Total For Building Is Year's High

August Figure Is County's Best

August was the best 1959 month for total estimated cost of construction authorized by building permits issued by the Allegany County assessment department.

Last month there were 40 building permits issued at the Court House and the total estimated cost of construction was $649,750. That August total sent the total for eight months of 1959 to $2,050,395. The previous one-month high this year was $516,500 in April.

The number of August permits was below three other months, April with 68, June with 51 and March with 42.

In August 1958 there were 39 permits and the total estimated cost of construction was only $209,475, some $440,275 less than the total for last month.

During the first eight months of 1958 there were 286 permits, six more than the 280 for the same period this year. The total estimated cost of construction was $3,693,184 for the first eight months of last year, some $1,642,789 more than the figure for eight months this year.

The one whopping permit which dwarfed all others in 1958 was in May for the $2,308,254 waste treatment plant to serve the needs of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

Last month, the principal permit was for an 81,600 square foot warehouse in Election District 31 for West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. It will be constructed along Route 135, the Westernport-McCoole Road, and will be capable of handling 10,000 tons of finished paper products from Luke. There was no estimated cost of the project at the time the permit was obtained.

The 40 August permits authorized construction in 22 different election districts of the county. The leaders were District 16, North Branch, and District 29, LaVale, each with five permits. Next were Districts 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings, and 20, Corriganville-Ellerslie, with four permits each.

Other districts with more than one permit last month were District 13, Mt. Savage, three; District 4, South End suburban, and District 5, North End suburban, two each.

There were single permits for Districts 1, Little Orleans; 2, Oldtown; 6, West Side suburban; 8, Westernport suburban; 9, Barton; 10, Lonaconing suburban; 11, Frostburg suburban; 12, Frostburg suburban; 18, Midland suburban; 22, East Side suburban; 24, Eckhart; 25, Pekin; 26, Frostburg suburban; 30, Zihlman, and 31, McCoole.

Eighteen of the 40 permits were for new dwellings and 11 others for additions to dwellings. There were two for garages and one each for chicken house, warehouse, apartment over garage, apple storage, motel swimming pool, garage and apartment, enclose porch, stable and trailer court.

Funds Will Tide City Over Until Taxes Come In

The City of Cumberland will not have to borrow money this year to meet operation expenses until taxes begin to come in.

Actually, it has been about 10 years since the city has had to resort to borrowing for general purposes during the three-month interval between the July 1 opening of the fiscal year and the start of tax collections.

Authority for borrowing has been secured several times to be on the safe side.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday said there will be no need to borrow, as the current balance is enough to tide the city through this month.

The preparation of tax bills is well under control, and the bills are slated to be mailed by September 17.

Actually, money has been rolling in splendidly, both because of payment of corporation taxes (which are mailed out as assessments are provided by the state) and from early payments of city taxes by people who plan to go on vacation and wanted to get the bills out of the way.
